

TOWN, COUNTY BOTH PREPARING FOR HARD FIGHT ON ANNEXATION

County Board of Supervisors And Town Council Both Appropriate Funds To Be Used In Case.

BRADEN VANDEVENTER
MAY REPRESENT COUNTY

Three Judges To Decide Issue
After Three-day Presentation at Princess Anne Court House.

With both the Virginia Beach town council and the Princess Anne county board of supervisors appropriating funds for use in the Virginia Beach annexation case, which is to be held at the Princess Anne Court House on April 22, 24 and 25, indications are that it will be one of the most interesting and hardest fought cases ever to be held in a local court.

The county board of supervisors at a special meeting held on Monday, March 18, appropriated a sum "not to exceed $1000 for use in hiring special counsel and in paying incidental expenses in connection with the case."

The Virginia Beach town council at its meeting Monday night appropriated "a sum not to exceed $500" for use in defraying expenses of the case.

The county money was placed in the hands of a committee composed of Paul Achies, E. N. MacWilliams and W. P. Payne, who were given instructions to secure an attorney to assist Mr. Achies in the case.

Mr. Achies has conferred with Braden Vandeventer, prominent Norfolk attorney, who lives in the territory which the town proposes to annex, and is confident that Mr. Vandeventer will work with him in the case, although he has not as yet received a definite answer from him.

Willard R. Ashburn, town attorney, will handle the case for the town of Virginia Beach, and has been given authority to spend the money appropriated as needed.

The case will be tried at the Court House on April 22, 24 and 25. Judge B. D. White will be one of three judges to sit at the case and rule on the matter while the other two will be appointed by Governor George C. Peery.

The two judges are Judge C. W. Coleman, of Portsmouth, and Judge J. T. Clement, of Chatham. They were appointed by the governor Thursday.

The town of Virginia Beach is seeking to annex all that territory between the town and Cape Henry. The three judges presiding at the case, may decide after hearing the evidence, and witnesses presented, to allow the annexation to go through as asked; to deny the annexation entirely; to allow the town to annex any part of the territory they wish; or to give the town, not only the territory asked but still more territory.

There will be no jury at the hearing. The three judges will decide the matter entirely.

Only Six Clear Days Recorded For Month Of March

Weather Survey Reveals Mercury Wavered Between 29
And 84 Degrees.

The month of March brought only six clear days to residents of Princess Anne county, the monthly meteorological survey released by the weather bureau at Cape Henry reveals.

Sixteen days are listed as cloudy and the rest as partly cloudy. Three thunder storms are recorded and five gales. The precipitation for the month was 2.12 inches.

The coldest day of the month was the first when the thermometer dropped to 39 degrees and the hottest day was the twenty-first when the mercury reached 84. The mean temperature for the month was 53 degrees.

Poll Taxes Must Be Paid By May 4

Voters in Princess Anne county must pay their poll taxes by May 4 in order to be eligible to vote in the Democratic primary in August or in the general election in November.

Taxes may be paid in the treasurer's office at Princess Anne Court House, or at Kellam and Eaton's office at Virginia Beach.

PRO GOLFERS TO PLAY HERE FOR $1000 PURSE

Runan, Picard, Hagen And Lafont In Special Match at Cavaler.

Four of this country's best known golf professionals will play at the Cavalier Country Club here on April 13 and 14, Bob Tunstall, sports director of the club, announced this week.

The four, Paul Runan, twice winner of the Cavalier Open; Henry Picard, of Hershey, Penna.; leading money golfer of the current season; Walter Hagen, dean of all professional golfers, and Ky Lafont, dashing young pro from Denver, Colo., will compete in a $4-hole four ball match for a purse of $1000.

The event was arranged by Mr. Tunstall to take the place of the Cavalier Open golf tournament which will not be played this year because the dates of other tournaments interfere.

Runan and Picard will be paired against Hagen and Lafont. The four will play 18 holes on Saturday afternoon and 54 more on Sunday.

Although sorry, that he could not stage the Cavalier Open again this year, Mr. Tunstall believes that this special match should prove of greater interest to the local fans since it gives them the opportunity of watching the best of the nation's golfers without anything to divert their attention. Incidentally the $1000 purse should serve to make the golfers play their best game.

Spectators will be charged to watch the match on both Saturday and Sunday, and Mr. Tunstall and a crew of workmen have already begun to get the course in shape for April 13 and 14.

Lynnhaven Club Combine To Open Season On Sunday

Brambleton Athletics To Oppose Locals In Initial Start Of Year.

The Lynnhaven baseball team, one of Princess Anne county's strongest diamond representatives, will open its 1935 baseball season on Sunday, crossing bats with the Brambleton Athletics on the Lynnhaven diamond. Game time has been set at 3 p. m.

Booking agent Charlie Ingram has already booked approximately 60 games for the 1935 season and hopes to run the total to 75. The schedule includes a number of trips and several holiday doubleheaders.

Bill Turner, ace hurler, who worked for Lynnhaven and the Orioles last year will start the game for the locals with Archie Caton behind the plate. The rest of the starting lineup will probably include Caton, left field; Ben Henley, right field; Byrd Vick, third base; Manager Boots Ames, first base; Emp Land, second base; Bookie Allen, short stop; and Ray Glimbert, center field.

Pitchers who may see service are Roger Denny, Conrad Shumadine and Ken Cruser. Bill Oliver, Benny Legg and Cecil Sawyer, infielders, and Frank Oliver, catcher may also get into the initial game. Dick Callop, star outfielder, and Calvin Self, crack hurler, both from last year's squad have not yet reported this season, but both may be in uniform this Sunday, and will be allowed to play a few innings in order to stretch their muscles.

WORK ON BRIDGE AT RUDEE INLET GETS UNDER WAY

Long Discussed Plan Becomes Fact As State Highway Department and FERA Cooperate.

DETAIL WORKED OUT AT CONFERENCE HERE

General Waller, Ellison, Hanger, Colonel Butler And Frazier Join In Discussion.

The long discussed plan to construct a bridge over Rudee Inlet at Second street, to provide an alternative route from Virginia Beach to the State Rifle Range became a fact this week as work was begun on the project.

The State military authorities have persuaded the State Highway Department to supply the materials and supervision and the FERA has agreed to furnish the labor. The details were worked out at a conference here some time ago between Adjutant General S. Gardner Waller, R. P. Ellison, district engineer and H. L. Hanger, resident engineer, of the Highway Department, and Colonel M. A. Butler, area projects engineer and D. D. Frazier, county projects engineer, of the FERA. Construction was to begin as soon as the Highway Department could ship the materials here.

Mr. Ellison estimated that the

Governor Takes Steps To Remove Obstacles From Path
Of President Roosevelt.

Governor George C. Peery, through his aide Col. E. Griffith Dodson has taken steps to make sure that President Roosevelt will not have to leave his automobile and walk through sand or mud in order to reach the Cape Henry monument if he decides to attend the annual Cape Henry Pilgrimage on April 26.

Colonel Dodson recently wrote a letter to H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State Highway Commission, telling him that the Governor was personally interested in the matter and asking that the sand be cleared away from 141st street at Cape Henry.

In order to further aid the President in reaching the monument a special mat road, leading from the end of the concrete street to the monument is to be constructed by the United States Army. This is to be for the use of the president's automobile alone and will enable him to drive directly to the monument. He may, then, if he wishes, make his speech, while still in his automobile.

Colonel Dodson's letter to Mr. Shirley, follows:
Hon. H. G. Shirley, Chairman,
State Highway Commission,
State Office Building,
Richmond, Virginia.

Dear Mr. Shirley:
The Governor has directed that I follow up the matter of the removal of sand from 141st Street at Cape Henry, Virginia, leading to the site of the monument to be unveiled on April 26th of this year, at which time and place the President of the United States is expected.

The Governor was pleased to be informed that it would be your pleasure to have the sand removed, and understands that you wish some approval from the Federal authorities. You are referred to Captain H. F. Meyers of Fort Story, Virginia, who will either give some authority or arrange for the same. Please communicate with him on this subject and send a copy of your letter to Mr. C. W. Grandy, Bank of Commerce (Continued on Page Five)

Selection of Beauty To Fea- ture Tenth Annual May Celebration of Local Wo- men's Organization.

EIGHT COUNTY SCHOOLS TO PRESENT SKITS

Festival To Take Place On Lawn of Princess Anne Courthouse On Saturday,
May 18.

For the second time in the modern history of Princess Anne County a queen of the May is to be chosen to preside at a May Festival.

The festival this year will be the tenth annual May celebration of the Princess Anne Woman's Club, but only the second time they have chosen a May Queen in connection with it. Miss Jessie Smith, of Kempville, was chosen as queen of the May in 1929.

The Virginia Beach News, when informed of the Woman's Club decision, following an executive meeting Tuesday, offered to cooperate with them in conducting the balloting for the queen, and the ballots will be printed in the News each week, beginning with this issue.

There are but two restrictions to be placed on candidates for the honor.

First, they must be bona fide residents of Princess Anne county between the ages of 16 and 21.

Second, they must furnish their own costume for the celebration.

Complete plans for the festival have not yet been worked out, but Mrs. O. B. Capps, of Oceana, who has been appointed general chairman, by Mrs. Leonard Hiteshead, president of the club, is working on the program now, and will appoint committees to assist her soon.

The festival is to be held on the lawn of Princess Anne court house on the afternoon of May 18. In case of rain, it will be postponed until the following Saturday.

The celebration will open with the crowning of the May Queen, who will be accompanied by her court, and will be followed by the presentation of a number of skits for the amusement of the new queen. A skit is to be presented by each of the eight schools in the county, and will no doubt result in having most of the school children in the county taking part in the celebration.

In order to nominate a candidate for Queen of the May, all who are necessary is to "clip a coupon from this or any subsequent issue of the Virginia Beach News and mail or bring it in to the News office on Seventeenth street at Virginia Beach. The first ballot for each candidate will count 1000 votes, while each subsequent ballot will count but 100 votes.

WORK ON PAVING OF PACIFIC AVE. BEGINS MONDAY

Norfolk Southern Railroad to Crockett Reports.

Wickersham Refuses To

Between 16th and 17th Streets.

Work on the grading and paving of Pacific avenue between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets will begin on Monday, D. S. Calcott, town engineer announced following the meeting of the Virginia Beach town council Monday night.

Councilman W. F. Crockett, chairman of the street committee, reported that he had conferred with L. B. Wickersham, of the Norfolk Southern railroad, and had been assured by that official that the railroad would co-operate by paving between the tracks in front of the station and to a point three feet from the tracks. The town is to grade the street and pave from the point three feet from the tracks to the curb. The town is to do all of the work while the railroad paying for their share.

Mr. Crockett reported that Mr.

NEW NIGHT CLUB NOW BEING BUILT

Building Operations North of Seventeenth Street Reaches
New High.

Building operations north of Seventeenth street reached a new high this week, with work on the Whitehead cottages between 14th and 16th streets rapidly nearing completion, and the work of remodeling the New Ocean Casino well under way.

Ten of the forty cottages planned by C. T. Whitehead are already nearing completion on the first enterprise, while the work of remodeling of the new casino began earnestly this week and is expected to be completed by May 15.

The new casino, which has been closed almost all of the time for the last six or seven seasons will be operated on an entirely different scale this year. It is planned. The dance hall is being remodelled to house a modern up-to-date terrace night club, the bathhouse is being entirely re-built and will house a 50-room hotel, while the concession buildings will be moved northward onto vacant space next to the bowling alleys and will be converted into small cottages.

Doug Tunstall, well-known young man about town, who has acted as master of ceremonies at the Embassy Club and the Monticello Ballroom, will be in charge of the night club, which he plans to operate on an entirely different scale from any ever operated in this vicinity.

A well-known orchestra will be engaged to play at all occasions, while a floor show, which will be changed weekly, will be presented. The orchestra for the season has not yet been engaged but Mr. Tunstall has been conferring with Bill Allsbrook, whose orchestra played at the Embassy Club last year, and with Joe Roman, who is in town this week.

Mr. Roman told the Virginia Beach News that his orchestra which just finished a winter engagement at the Hotel Mayflower Winter Garden in Jacksonville, has played at such places as the Greenwood, in Bar Harbor, Maine; the Club Argonauta, in Boston; Princeton University, Harvard University; on the Keith Orpheum Circuit, over the Col-

"Colonel" Meacham Real Colonel Now

"Colonel" Charles Meacham is really a colonel now. A lady guest at the Beach Plaza, which the Colonel and his wife ran, became interested in the Virginia Beach resident's title and promised that he would get a real one.

He did, in the form of a colonel's commission from Governor Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky.

TOWN SEWERAGE DISPOSAL PLAN NOT YET DEAD

Engineer Asked To Collect Data; Annexed Territory
To Be Included.

The plan for the construction of a sewerage disposal plant for Virginia Beach is not yet dead, the meeting of the Virginia Beach town council on Monday night, disclosed.

D. W. Calcott, town engineer was instructed by the council to collect data on the complete cost of a town sewerage system, which would be privately built and financed by the issuing of town bonds.

Although $18,000 was asked by the town in PWA funds, it is believed that the cost will be less on private bids, and that the town will save money by building the system privately rather than use PWA funds and engineers.

Mr. Calcott was also instructed to include the proposed annexed territory in the county in his estimate since that territory will benefit by the new sewerage system also if it is annexed to the town.

The town engineer estimated that it will require the better part of the summer to complete his estimate, and action will probably not be taken on the matter until next fall.

WOODEN BRIDGES ON LASKIN ROAD TO BE REPLACED NEXT OCTOBER

Virginia Beach Town Council
Adopts Resolution Asking That Funds Be Allocated For Bridges.

RESOLUTION PRESENTED BY WILLARD ASHBURN

Town Attorney Tells Legal Body That He Has Been Given Every Assurance That Funds Are Available For Work.

The two wooden bridges on the Laskin road, which have long been unsuitable for vehicle travel will be replaced by concrete bridges or other bridges of a permanent nature if plans formulated by the town council of Virginia Beach at a meeting Monday night are carried out.

Willard R. Ashburn, town attorney, presented a resolution stating that the bridges should be replaced and the council adopted it. The resolution further asked that funds be allocated for the purpose of constructing the new bridges but that actual labor be postponed until after the summer season.

A copy of the resolution was to be forwarded to H. B. Davis, member of the house of delegates from Princess Anne county with the request that he communicate with the State Highway Commission in aid thereof.

"I have not talked with Mr. Shirley (Henry G. Shirley, State Highway Commissioner) himself," Mr. Ashburn said, "but I have talked to someone, very close to him, and I have been given every assurance that funds are now available for work of this kind. In fact, I have been assured that the work could be started immediately, if we wished it, but I suggested that it be held over until the fall so that the road would be open for summer traffic."

The cost of the two bridges has been estimated at approximately $90,000. Funds for that purpose were allocated at one time, but were later used for another purpose.

The complete resolution as adopted by the council follows:

RESOLVED, that it is the opinion of the members of the Council of Town of Virginia Beach that the two wooden bridges on State Highway No. 164, locally known as the "Laskin Road" between Oceana and Virginia Beach, are unsuitable for vehicular travel and are rapidly becoming unsafe for that purpose; that the Highway Commission of Virginia be, and it is hereby requested to replace said bridges with concrete bridges or other bridges of a permanent nature, or with other construction suitable for the passage of motor vehicles, as to said Commission shall seem most desirable. FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Mayor be, and he is, hereby directed to request the said Commission to immediately allocate to (Continued on Page Five)

Lane Between 23rd And 24th Streets Will Be Opened

Matter Brought Before Town Council By Captain T. J.
Barnes.

A five-foot lane running between 23rd and 24th streets from Atlantic to Pacific avenue is to be opened to pedestrians, the Virginia Beach town council decided at its meeting Monday night. Town engineer D. S. Calcott was instructed to attend to the necessary details in opening.

The matter was brought to the attention of the council by Captain T. J. Barnes, of the United States Coast Guard here who asked that it be opened for the benefit of pedestrians. The lane was city property, Captain Barnes said, and had originally been acquired for use as a lane.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

Opportunity has donned a pair of brass knucks and is knocking with heavy fist upon the door of every Virginia Beach property owner.

Six million dollars is available to people in the territory which includes Virginia Beach, for use in modernizing old buildings and constructing new ones, and there is no more fertile field for this work than the Beach.

The visitor to the Beach in the winter, usually goes away disappointed. He has heard many glamorous tales of the beauties of this vicinity, and of the far flung fame of that well-known resort, Virginia Beach.

He is, then, hardly prepared, for the sight that greets his eyes. Old ramshackled buildings totter in the wind. Faded frame houses stare at him from every street. Paint is conspicuous by its absence. Virginia Beach looks for the most part like shanty town. Even the majority of its hotels and boarding houses are rambling old buildings, while its casinos and amusement places might occupy a niche in some museum of antiquities.

Virginia Beach's buildings are put of date. They need to be modernized. They need to be rebuilt.

In summer this same visitor might not notice all these defects, since scantily clad females are everywhere, and the spirit of strange excitement which fills the air will undoubtedly serve to take his mind off the building he sleeps and eats in.

Virginia Beach property owners know the condition of their property as well as the Virginia Beach News, but they have been putting off the necessary repairs until the last possible moment. Now, however, is the chance. Answer the knock of opportunity and get some of that $6,000,000 the Federal Housing Administration is trying to lend you.

Modernize your home or cottage.

WANTED—A FIGHT PROMOTER

The town of Virginia Beach, if it really wants some easy money, should emulate Diogenes, and with the aid of an electric flashlight start a search for an honest boxing promoter.

The Beach, it was learned this week, will get $68.62 as its share of the boxing and wrestling receipts in the State of Virginia for the period between July 1, 1934 when the new Virginia act became effective and February 28, if the town of Virginia Beach could find this honest and enterprising boxing promoter, and convince him of the financial possibilities of this vicinity, both the town and the promoter might prosper.

Convincing a wide awake promoter of the Beach's possibilities shouldn't be too difficult. First, the town might show the promoter the Twenty-fourth street arena, which has been described by experts as one of the nicest little fight clubs in the south, and which needs only a few nails and a couple of dabs of paint to put it in shape to hold 3,000 paying customers.

Secondly, the town might tell this promoter of the thousands of tourists who visit the Beach each week during the summer, and who search far and wide each night for excitement.

Thirdly, some smooth tongued Beach official might tell this promoter of the crowd which clamored for admittance to watch Jack Dempsey referee; of the throngs that paid real money to watch Add Warren in action; of the 3000 who gesticulating fans that witnessed the Jimmie Reed-Tootsie Bashara brawl, and of the crazy fight fans who stood in a downpour and shouted themselves hoarse as Joey Goodman and Tootsie Bashara, battled eight thrilling rounds.

Norfolk got $571 as its share of boxing receipts, while Richmond secured over $1000. Get out your flashlights, Beach officials, and start looking for that promoter.

SIGNS OF SPRING

Naturalists, scientists, and other people of that sort have various ways of determining the arrival of spring.

Scientists use a lot of big words, including equinox, and point to March 21 as the first day of spring.

Naturalists watch the flowers unfold, and the birds arrive from the south.

Fishermen watch for the first run of shad.

Empiricists watch their calendars for that continual yarn.

Schoolteachers note with dismay the absence of many of their pupils.

Shopkeepers smile openly as women crowd their stores in search of new clothes.

All these are signs of spring.

But Virginia Beach has its own personal signs of spring.

When each succeeding bus train and automobile brings travelers from Florida; when the Beach boys start returning by thumb and by car, then Virginia Beach knows, as it knows now, that spring is here.

THIS ROAD SITUATION

Delegations from all parts of Princess Anne County attended the semi-annual conference on road matters between the County Board of Supervisors and H. L. Hanger, resident engineer of the State Highway Commission last week.

Gravely these delegations told the board of the most improved road in this section of the county, and as gravely the Board considered each proposal before approving or rejecting it.

When the meeting had concluded the Board had approved four secondary additions to the state secondary system, as well as permanent improvements for 13 roads. They had rejected but two proposals, both for addition to the secondary system.

At first glance, this would seem to indicate that roads in the county will be hardfaced.

But this is not true.

The Virginia Beach News was informed by Mr. Hanger that although these additions and improvements will be formally approved by the State Highway Commission, they will probably be shelved until such time when funds will be available for the work. And this, Mr. Hanger said, may require years.

Princess Anne county, Mr. Hanger said, received an annual appropriation of $47,021 for road improvements and additions. From this the cost of maintenance of roads already in the system is removed before the balance is applied to the new improvements.

Funds were used so quickly last year, he further stated, that approximately $50,000 worth of improvements, approved at the fall conference still remain undone, waiting for funds.

Why, the News asked Mr. Hanger, is not more money made available for this county? What is the system of apportioning road money?

The answer was startling. Funds for roads, he replied, are apportioned to various counties in proportion to the amount of property tax they pay. Thus small counties with large factories receive considerable more money for roads than larger counties such as Princess Anne which really need them.

A movement is now being considered to ask the next legislature to change this system so that the money will be apportioned in accordance with the amount of gasoline tax paid by each county. This the News feels, would prove a fairer system, and would enable Princess Anne county to improve its roads today are almost impassable.

If inflation means wind, we have inflation.

COLUMBUS

(From the Commonwealth)

Caught in the web of a dream,
Snared by the meshing foam
Of a spreading trail from a reading
You held the Seven Seas home.

Mocked by a scoffing world,
Shadowed by poverty's pall,
You knew no rest with a waiting West
And its ever-insistent call.

Pool with a New-World vision,
Queen with the faith to pawn
A royal toy for the god-like joy
Of bringing a new day's dawn.

We honor the heart that dreamed,
The faith that snatched the hand—
And praise to the Guide of wind
And tide
That crowned your hope with "LAND!"

LAMENT FOR NIMROD

(From The London Mercury)

What do they hunt now, the small pedestrians?
The men in bowler hats who believe in advertisements?
Only a driven bird on a rich man's estate,
The mild bull and the tame bear on the Stock Exchange.
And they search in Harrods for synthetic panther to make a rug for the dining room floor.
But the mind's still a jungle,
where the parrots scream, and unseen in the undergrowth a lion roars.
There the out-of-date hunter rides alone with a sword;
and though snail shell scorch him, thorns lacerate,
when the day is ended, birds dumb, the beast prostrate, then shall hush fall on the forest;
a fawn leap in the dusk;
the swans, carved in moonlight, glide on the dark waters of the lake.

... AND IT WAS SO

(From The Commonwealth)

In the long darkness before spring,
In the cold rain's hour,
When air was too long empty of song and wing,
As earth of flower,

I spoke into the void the words
That had troubled my breast—
And suddenly all the air was filled with birds,
And suddenly flowers pressed
About my feet . . . and it was so
For an hour with earth and sky—
And I thought of a word that was spoken long ago.
And why.

CHILD IN THE SEASONS

(From The Virginia Quarterly Review)

Now while the orchards weave for you alone
Their bright invulnerable myth:
now while the heart is sure still that soon shall be a stone:
Outspread your two brief hands and tear apart
The grain of laughter from the chaff of doom.
Strain with your mind to hear the blossoming trees
Dropping their whiteness down.
The narrow room Wherein your laughter walks and takes its ease
Too soon shall know nor laughter
nor the fall
Of anything save your own tears.
Lonely
Is the sound of one's own tears.
Now while the wall
Of April thunders to the ground, now only,
Extend—dominion over leaner years:
Harvest the crash of spring against your tears.

NO FORGOTTEN SONG

(From Spirit)

Do pools, new-filled, remember much
The elder waters knew—
Of clouds like sheep, and golden sun,
And shadowed birds which flew Beyond the outer rim of sun
To meet the falling dew.

Oh, burden which the human heart
Alone must take along—
The face of one it would forget—
A strain from some old song!

As Others See It

SCARING THE PRESS

(The Radford News Journal)

At various times during the past two years, large interests have raised the bugaboo concerning the freedom of the press, not to defend such a right, but to keep things in status quo. The new agencies set up by the government, which were being opposed by these interests, have been attacked on the grounds that they somehow impinged upon the freedom of the newspapers of America.

The latest effort in this direction resulted in the National Editorial association sending out letters to newspapers against amendments proposed to the Agricultural Adjustment Act, on the ground that they would interfere with newspaper advertising. The particular amendment which brought this about was one which would permit the Secretary of Agriculture, with approval of the President, to license processors to carry on a marketing program designed to help farmers, even if the majority of processors objected.

The farmers have lined up behind this amendment, feeling that some agreement of this sort is necessary. The general purpose of the entire AAA revision is to help farmers control their own market. Thus, when the National Editorial association begins to use arguments originally brought forth by the packers who wish to continue to control the market, in order to scare the press, one sees that free press is not the issue at all.

It is a little amazing that the NEA should have fallen for this line of attack. The weekly press, especially, which the National Editorial association purports to serve, has been much more benefited by the AAA than any other agency. Last year, secured weekly additional advertising money through the publication of notices required of corn-hog and wheat contract signers. Revenues were also increased by the added cash which farmers found in their pockets by means of AAA contracts. Newspapers, greatly dependent upon the buying power of the masses for existence, found their condition somewhat improved, especially in the weekly field where the influx of rural cash was most quickly felt.

On a personal basis, the charge that the present Secretary of Agriculture would be interested in hampering the press, is absurd. From his own background as publisher of a farm weekly, it is inconceivable that Secretary Wallace would lend endorsement to any measure which would jeopardize the field with which he has been identified.

The free press bugaboo has been raised persistently—and without much cause. It was invoked in the case of the Copeland bill in the Senate last year, against NRA and a number of other measures in which "interests" appeared. It has been observed that the Administration has steered clear of any action which would endanger free press. In setting up various loan agencies, it declined to permit loans to newspapers on the ground that the freedom guaranteed by the constitution would be continued.

It is to be hoped that the National Editorial association will discontinue any efforts to align the newspapers with the big processors, when the interests of the newspapers themselves are so clearly identified with the farmer.

"LITTLE LEGISLATURE"—NAMED CORRECTLY

(The Portsmouth Star)

Taking the State somewhat by surprise, Governor Peery announced there had assembled that day in Richmond a seven-man advisory commission to act as a sort of "research cabinet" to aid the Executive in preparation of legislation to be laid before the General Assembly when it meets at Richmond in January.

Named to the seven-man body are: State Senator John S. Battle of Albemarle and Charlottesville, as chairman; Senators George W. Layman, of Craig, and Hunter Miller, of Bedford; Delegates Ashton Dovel, of Williamsburg, Hasline Hobson, of Chesterfield, and Thomas B. Stanley of Henry County; State Tax Commissioner C. H. Morrisett and William R. Shands, director of the Virginia Legislative Bureau.

It is further announced that "almost immediately" after they are called together—without previous announcement—these seven members of the Governor's new advisors went into "executive session" with the Governor at the Capitol Building in Richmond "to consider some legislative problems that are certain to come before them for study, such as changes in the banking laws, amendments to the trial justice of the peace act, proposed changes in criminal procedure in Virginia and re-evaluation of State laws and any changes that may be suggested in the alcoholic beverage control act."

Governor Peery in announcing the new seven-man advisory body, took occasion to state that it is not to constitute a "Little Legislature," but is to be purely "advisory."

This may all be true, but it sounds very much like the new "advisors" are to constitute practically the very thing the Executive announces they are not to constitute. Governor Peery, if nothing else, certainly anticipated what everybody else was sure to call his new advisory commission when he said it was not to be a "Little Legislature."

Just figure out, if you please, and see what else it could possibly be considering the commission's personnel and everything else allied.

FAITH—A NEGRO

(Frank Parker Stockbridge in a syndicated article)

I do not think I exaggerate when I say that an old Negro who was buried the other day did more than scores of ministers and hundreds of churches to help restore thousands of Americans to their faith in God. The funeral service for Richard B. Harrison, the venerable actor who played the part of "De Lawd" in the play "The Green Pastures," was conducted by the Episcopal Bishop of New York in the great Cathedral of St. John the Divine, as a tribute to the spiritual force that he had exercised in the last five years of his life.

Cynics may sneer and agnostics scoff at the childlike absurdity, as it seems to them, of the simple faith of the Negro as portrayed in that play. But faith is not the product of reason or logic; it springs not from the intellect but from the emotions. And few who have ever seen "The Green Pastures" have failed to be profoundly stirred.

I thought that Bishop's text might well have been taken from the 17th verse of the 18th chapter of the Gospel of St. Luke: "Whoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child shall in no wise enter therein."

SHADES OF PROSPERITY

(The Business Month)

While business men, economists, statisticians and others are eagerly scanning trade and financial reports, car loadings, steel backlog and other indices in search of prosperity, an item appears in the lighter section of the daily press which, it seems to us, is a much better indication that 1929 is on its way back. Before a large and solemn gathering of business and advertising men in New York, Miss Sally Rand, of fan and bubble fame, gave an address—and a very earnest one—on promoting business and advertising. She was listened to with respect.

We cannot help feeling that when business men have time for things like that, they are not very worried about business. It recalls the gay, lighthearted days of '28, when a man dropped into his office for an hour, made a few checks and headed for the nearest speakeasy ("Speakeasy" is an archaic euphemism used in the prohibition period to denote a saloon—Editor) to get down to the day's serious business. It smacks of Belle Livingstone and Tex Guinan, Daddy Browning and Dorothy Sunshine, and all the other light-hearted paraphernalia of the Top-hole Twenties.

Incidentally, we observe that Miss Rand has turned impressario and is leaning towards Art. She recently sponsored Kohana, young dancer whom Miss Rand terms modern, in a Broadway recital. And Miss Rand casually added in the course of an interview that she will probably take up modern dancing herself and give some recitals when she gets around to it, which will no doubt cause Mortha Graham, Doris Humphrey et al. to shake in their shoes, even though Miss Rand didn't seem quite certain what Modern Dancing is, and apparently confuses it now and then with modern ballet. However, we shall await—Miss Rand's debut in the Modern Dance with much interest, and have a sneaking hope that she will join one of the Workers' groups when she does. It will be worth two dollars of anybody's money to see those staid interpreters of revolution in the thick of those scorners of bourgeois tradition, the Misses Anna Sokolow, Lily Mohlman, Lil Lander, Sophie Maslow and the rest, chasing capitalist Rand, sans fan or bubble, out of the Guild Theatre.

CUBA'S REAL NEED

(Boston Globe)

The Mendieta-Batista regime at Havana, which has succeeded in carrying the dolorous nation up the slopes of this latest Calvary, took office not as the free choice of the Cuban people, but as the protégé of the Latin-American Bureau of the United States Department of State.

Cuba's need was—and is—a genuine free election and the choice of a constitutional Assembly to provide a modern Constitution for the State. Mendieta promised the elections for December 31, 1934. He canceled them. Then he promised them for the present month. Next he postponed them again. Meanwhile, the people of Cuba have continued in their revolutionary frame of mind with present consequences.

Book Sampler

Lloyd Douglas' "Green Light" is, bound to be one of the most popular of the Spring's novels. There is something deeply interesting about the author's ideals and theories of living. In "The Magnificent Obsession," a novel which came out unheralded and crept into the lives of thousands, Lloyd Douglas developed the idea of unselfish well-doing as the source of power and success. In his new book, he presents the thought that a crisis in life properly met works out to spiritual advancement, while one improperly met leads to a spiritual disintegration which causes moral and physical decay. An established physician blights the career of a young doctor by allowing him to take the blame for an unsuccessful operation, unsuccessful because of the older man's emotional instability. Then comes the problem of the older man's regeneration, and the younger man's love for the daughter of the woman whose life was thus lost. The author, in the person of Dean Harcourt, delivers his message without preaching.

The thought, which gives rise to Elizabeth Madox Roberts' "He Sent Forth a Raven" is darkly unusual. Stoner Drake, despairing of his beloved second wife's life, vows that if she dies he will never again set foot upon God's green earth. This ingrown and brooding man ruins his daughter's life by a false accusation. He attempts to spoil the romance of his sensitive granddaughter, Joanne, but she escapes to the man she loves. Finally, softened by the exhortations of a fanatical tramp, and more than anything by old age, the memory of his resentment leaves Stoner Drake. The story ends in beautifully worded, overpowering fulfillment.

Out of his cerebral regions Hamilton Basco creates shallow people who strive for place in Alken "society" set up false standards in "The Own Image," a play little heed to the unrest boiling among the workers in the mills. . . . A good enough book for a few hours' reading.

These new novels may be borrowed from the Extension Division, University, Virginia.

On The Beach

By BEN WAHRMAN

This story, they say, is an old one, but it is a good one, and therefore, we believe, worth repeating.

He stood on the corner of Seventeenth street and lastly watched the cars go by.

A long sleek luxurious vehicle glided to a halt, and a voice from the back seat spoke.

"Say, buddy," it said, "Where can I find the Cavalier Hotel?"

He shifted his 220 pounds slightly before replying.

"How did you know my name was Buddy?"

"On the name the quick and haughty reply, 'I just guessed it.'"

"Well, then, if you're so smart, guess where the Cavalier Hotel is."

She had wondered where the money to buy her new automobile license plates was to come from, and that dividend check from the insurance company had seemed like manna from heaven.

Her carelessness then, in leaving the check in the car, as she dashed into the house for a last minute pat at her nose before dashing to the court house, could be excused.

A moment later, she emerged and radiantly jumped into the car, reaching for the check to put it in a safe place.

The check was gone.

Frantically she lifted the seat and searched beneath. Still more frantically she searched the ground about the car.

The check was still gone. Then she saw it—or rather saw the last fragments of it as it disappeared down the throat of her favorite cow who had been standing nearby.

She has written the insurance company asking that hereafter they use pink paper rather than green when sending checks to her.

She is large, but pleasantly mid-and, and wonders why they call her the "Battling Mother."

The story it seems dates back to this past Christmas.

They had all had a drink or two and the owner of the car seemed quite the worse for wear, so they let the youngest member of the party drive the car.

This youngest member incidentally, was the son of the heroine of our story—and thereby hangs a tale.

All went well until the owner of the car, acting off a sudden impulse reached forward threw his hands around the head of the driver and jerked him backwards.

The young driver, with great presence of mind, brought the car to a sudden halt, and all seemed well.

But they had not counted on maternal instinct.

From her corner of the back seat, where she had rested quietly, rose the "battling mother."

A left hook staggered the ubiquitous car owner. A right cross floored him. A series of lefts and rights, coupled with several viciously applied knees served to put him down and out, with both of his mildly blue eyes turning a rather purple black.

The "battling mother" resumed her seat in the corner. The young driver started the motor and resumed his journey.

The proprietor of the store read the note in his hand three times before its full meaning dawned upon him.

"Dear Sir," the note read (or words to that effect): "I cannot work for you any longer. I have only been married since last September and my wife says I do not stay with her enough. She says that if I do not quit work and stay with her more all will be over between us. So I am quitting this job."

As far as the proprietor knows, his ex-employee has no visible means of support other than the love, his wife bestows upon him.

The Rev. Benjamin B. Bland, pastor of the Oceana and Virginia Beach Methodist Churches has announced a complete program for his churches between the present time and Easter Sunday.

At the Oceana church, a series of inspirational services was begun last Sunday and will continue for two weeks. The Rev. ### DRESSING UP SPRING ONIONS

Spring brings onions — let's dress them up a bit. There are the Bermuda and Spanish onions, those yellow or white, mild sweet flavored ones — so nice raw in salads, as well as broiled or baked; and of course we are all familiar with those delicately flavored scallions and leeks, which are green onions pulled before maturity, the leeks being larger than the scallions with more pronounced bulb and with flat tips.

The small ordinary cooking onions, sold according to color as white, red and yellow-onions, are in the market the year round. The white onions are usually mildest in flavor, and are very good for serving as a vegetable and the red and yellow ones for soups and sauces.

Onions Stuffed With Nuts
8 Spanish onions, boiled
1 cup dry bread crumbs
½ t. salt
spk. pepper

1 tsp. chopped parsley
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup thin white sauce
White stock may be used for the liquid if desired
½ c. fat melted
1 egg or 2 egg yolks, beaten

Scoop the center from the root end of the onions leaving a shell. Chop the onion removed from the center and mix with the remaining ingredients. Stuff the onion shells with this mixture. Cover the top with buttered crumbs. Bake in an oven 375 degrees 1 to 1½ hours.

Baked Onions and Rice
2 cups cooked rice
6 or 8 white onions
2 tablesp. butter or other fat
2 tablesp. flour
1 cup milk
¾ cup grated cheese
Cayenne pepper
1 teaspoon salt

Pare the onions under water and parboil them until tender, changing the water once. Make a sauce by melting the fat, adding the flour, the salt, a pinch of pepper, and the milk. Cook this mixture until it is smooth, on low heat, let it cool, add the grated cheese, and bring the sauce slowly to the boiling point, stirring it constantly. Place in a baking dish alternate layers of the rice and the onions torn apart, pour on the cheese sauce, and bake. Yield: 8 servings. Temperature: 350 degrees. Time: 20 minutes.

French Fried Onions
2 medium sized Bermuda onions
Planters Fritter Batter
Deep hot oil

Slice Bermuda onions about ¼ inch thick. Separate the rings and dip in fritter batter. Fry in deep Planters Hit-Hat oil, at 370 degrees until a golden brown. Serves 6.

Rice, Cheese and Green Onion Salad
1 cup cold cooked rice
1 teaspoon chopped parsley
3 green onions
1 cup cottage cheese
French dressing
Lettuce
Paprika

Combine the chopped green onions, parsley and cooked rice. Marinate with French dressing. Serve on lettuce leaf with a spoonful or ball of cottage cheese garnished with a dash of paprika. Yield: 4 servings ¼ cup.

Brushing Up For Spring

by Gloria Lane

GAY, spring days are here—and thoughts of that new permanent wave are in the air. But for your hair to take a good, lasting wave, it needs reconditioning to erase the mark that cold, hard winter has left on many a head of hair. After being bottled up under tight hats, your hair is drab and lifeless, to say nothing of the drying effect that over-heated rooms have had on it. The simplest and most highly effective home treatment is correctly brushing the hair. A brush with wave-like bristles is especially fine for 1 penetrates to the scalp, thoroughly massaging and freeing it of surface accumulations. Brushing stirs up the circulation and brings out the natural oil, softening and polishing every strand from the shortest to the longest hair. You can best give yourself a vibrating treatment when you use a light-weight brush with wave-like bristles. This makes your waves and ringlets snap back with greater buoyancy. Instead of stretching your waves, brushing reinforces them.

Work On Bridge At Inlet Begins

(Continued from Page One) short bridge could be constructed from two to three weeks by fifteen laborers, three of them capable of driving trucks, and three bridge carpenters. He was assured by the PERA officials that they could supply this labor. Considerable fills will be made at both ends to shorten the bridge, which will be 20 feet long and 24 feet wide, with a roadway 19 feet wide. It will be of cross-tied timber construction on 16 cross-tied piles.

The bridge will not only insure that the rifle range may be reached directly from the Beach in the event a storm washes out the fill made on Atlantic avenue across Rudee last year but it will provide a detour around the rifle range so that traffic need not be stopped when there is target practice at the range. It will also permit the use, without interference to traffic, of the 600-yard rifle range. With this range available it is probable that the Virginia National Guard rifle team will hereafter conduct their practice at Virginia Beach.

The construction of the bridge will also provide a better approach from Virginia Beach to the Rudee Heights property. General Waller has been working to secure the construction of this bridge for several years. Last year his plan was to have the State Highway Department set up at Rudee a steel bridge replaced in one of the upstate counties by a better span. But that plan failed to carry.

Appointment Of New Commissioner Put Off

The appointment of a new member of the Sinking Fund Commission to replace Howard A. Johnson, recently deceased, was deferred until the next meeting of the town council. Several names were mentioned in connection with the post but it was decided to take no action until Walter C. Maher, chairman of the commission could appear before the council to make his own nomination for the position.

Wooden Bridges To Be Replaced

FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to H. B. Davis, member of the House of Delegates from Princess Anne County, with the request that he communicate with the State Highway Commission in aid thereof.

Long Term Loans Mature In 1935

Federal Farm Loan Home Board Says Total Nearly Two Billion Dollars.

"Nearly two million dollars in short-term mortgages, representing some 500,000 urban homes, mature in 1935," according to a statement of the Federal Farm Loan Home Board, "all of which the 3,180 member home-financing institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank system are ready to refinance with new, long-term mortgages which can be paid off over a period of from 7 to 15 years."

"Many of these institutions, mainly building and loan and Federal Savings and Loan Associations," the statement continues, "are now actively seeking to make loans of this type. They are located in practically every city and town and have abundant funds on hand, through investment of their own share holders and the HOLC bonds they have recently received in exchange for distressed mortgages. Total resources of the 3,180 members of the system exceed 3½ billion dollars. It is the largest mortgage reserve system in the world, created to solve the very problem half a million home owners face during the remainder of this year."

"These lending institutions in certain parts of the country are now offering long term loans, repayable in convenient monthly installments, at even lower interest rates than are carried by the lump-sum mortgages now falling due. This partly reflects the ample credit reserves available at low rates to member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System."

"The aim of all families is to own their property clear of debt. It will be to the benefit of any home owner whose mortgage falls due this year to get promptly in touch with a lending institution."

ALASKAN DEFENSES

(Memphis Commercial-Appeal)

The best time to create the Alaskan defenses is now while the United States is not involved in any serious international disputes. Ultimately, the defenses must be built. If there is procrastination until the time comes when a serious dispute actually occurs, any attempt to arm Alaska will be regarded as a belligerent sign and will of itself provoke trouble.

Arming Alaska will not be a step nearer war. Its real effect will be to discourage acquisitive or vengeful cupidity from the Pacific.

What Vocation Shall My Boy Choose?

By A. B. Clemens, Director, Mechanical Schools, International Correspondence Schools.

We live in a changing world. Opportunities for success in the future will differ from those in the past. A young man's wise choice of his life work may do much to determine success or failure. How shall he choose?

Ground Aviation

For every aviation pilot in the air there are four to six men on the ground who are necessary to keep the pilot aloft. These are the men who build the engines and planes, who check them and keep them in condition.

Through good years and bad, air mileage has steadily increased. What the limits of this progress will be no one can now foresee, but as progress continues there is certain to be a constant increase in the need for skilled men on the flying fields and in the factories where the planes and engines are constructed. Few lines of work seem to offer better opportunities to the young man starting on his career.

To be an aviation technician requires both experience and technical knowledge. License requirements and other government regulations have made it impossible for any but highly skilled men to succeed. These requirements, however, have broadened the opportunities for the young man willing to work, to study and to learn.

The most direct start toward success in this field would be getting a job as a helper or apprentice in a plant where planes or engines are built, or in a shop at a flying field. If this is impracticable, the young man can get a start toward the ultimate goal by obtaining a similar job in a shop where almost any type of high-speed internal combustion engine is built, assembled, or repaired.

The job itself, whether in aviation or a field allied to it, will supply valuable experience, while necessary technical knowledge can be obtained through reading and study during spare time.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE RELEASES BRING GOOD NEWS

The following releases from the Department of Agriculture bring good news to the Princess Anne county farmer, according to H. W. Ozlin, county agent. The excerpts below were prepared by the extension division of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

With applications for allotments under the Bankhead Cotton Control Act being received in the cotton belt, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace announced today that a minimum allotment of the full amount of his base production would be made to each cotton producer with an established base production of not less than 100 bales. This is in accordance with the policy announced several weeks ago when the 1935 regulations under the Bankhead Act were approved. Under the existing regulations tenants operating a part of a farm do not have a separate base.

Discussing the prospects for successful control of the 1935 cotton crop and the lending policy of the Government, Secretary Wallace made the following statement:

"With the planting season under way, it is important that cotton producers be more fully acquainted with the plans of the Government which will concern the 1935 cotton crop.

"We are proceeding to make allotments in the manner which has previously been announced. No cotton farmer has any warrant to expect that his allotment will be in excess of 65 percent of his base production, unless the farm which he is operating has an established base production of two bales or less. In that event, he will receive a minimum allotment equal to the amount of his average production, but no more. We are administering the Bankhead Act as it is now written and, in my judgment, it would be hazardous for any cotton farmer to make plans for the 1935 crop in conflict with the existing approach for control of cotton production.

Loan Policy
"The 12 cent loans on the 1934 cotton holdings will be extended beyond the maturity date of July 31, 1935. As to a loan on the 1935 crop, it is the purpose of the Administration to provide adequate credit facilities to cotton farmers to permit the orderly marketing of the new crop. It should be emphasized, however, that the Commodity Credit Corporation will make no loans on the 1935 cotton crop to any producer who is not cooperating in the cotton program under the Agricultural Adjustment Act nor will any loans be made on the 1935 crop to any producer who is not cooperating in the cotton program under the Agricultural Adjustment Act."

ton program under the Agricultural Adjustment Act nor will any loans be made on the 1935 crop to any producer who is not cooperating in the cotton program under the Agricultural Adjustment Act."

World Cotton Reduced
The 1934-35 world cotton crop is estimated at 22,600,000 bales by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, compared with 26,100,000 bales last year, and with a ten-year average of 25,530,000 bales.

Production in foreign countries is estimated now at 12,600,000 bales, or 400,000 bales less than the bureau's January estimate, and about 184,000 bales less than the record foreign production in 1933-34. The decrease is attributed mainly to a reduction of almost 600,000 bales in the India crop, more than offset increases in Brazil, China, Russia, and minor countries.

275 Princess Anne Farmers Sign Corn Reduction Pacts

Time Limit For Signing of Cotton Reduction Contracts April 15.

Two hundred and seventy-five Princess Anne county farmers signed corn-hog reduction contracts this year, according to figures released by H. W. Ozlin, county agent. The time limit for filing applications closed on April 1.

Two hundred and sixty-seven filed applications last year and 251 were accepted. The farmer agrees to cut his corn crops from 25 to 35 per cent and his hogs 10 per cent, and receives reimbursement from the government for doing so.

Ninety-four farmers have signed cotton reduction contracts to date, Mr. Ozlin said. The time limit for these contracts closes April 15, and between 100 and 110 are expected to be signed by that time.

Only 70 farmers signed similar contracts last year. The farmer agrees to cut their cotton crops from 25 to 35 per cent and are reimbursed by the government for doing so.

If you were not gifted by Nature with curly lashes and a ravishing, merry-eyed look, don't despair. There's a clever eyelash curler that will do the trick for you. ## The SNAPSHOT GUILD CASTING REFLECTIONS

A mirror will bring out that priceless smile of youth.

YOU may think you have exhausted the supply of picture possibilities in your home but the chances are there are countless interesting subjects you have completely overlooked. It is the unusual that attracts attention but it is necessary to use your eyes and a little imagination and ingenuity to ferret out these exceptional views, angles, etc., and get pictures that show individuality. Mirror pictures, for instance, are intriguing and offer unlimited possibilities if one will do a little experimenting. Let's take the above picture as an example.

When focusing for reflected images only, it is necessary to add the distance from the mirror to the subject, to the distance from the mirror to the lens of the camera and then set the focus accordingly.

If it is desired to include the subject in the picture with the reflected image the focus should be set for the distance from the mirror to the lens. The smaller the lens opening the greater the depth of field and the sharper will be both images. Of course, the nearer the subject is to the mirror the less is required in the matter of "depth."

In the picture above, the subjects were about two feet and the camera six feet from the mirror. As both the subject and reflected image were to be included in the picture the focus was set at six feet. The diagram was set at 7.16 and a photograph furnished the light.

If the figures and camera were in a position to show only the reflected image in the picture being taken the focus would then have been set at the eight foot distance mark.

The diagram shows position of subjects, camera and photoflash. After setting the focus of your camera at the proper distance and the diaphragm at f/16 set the shutter for time exposure—"T". Do not have any bright lights in the room. Place your photoflash lamp in ordinary floor lamp within reaching distance from the camera, as designated in diagram. Be sure to remove the shade from the lamp. Take your position at the camera and caution your subjects not to move. Press the cable release to open your shutter and immediately turn on the photoflash—and then quickly close the shutter—and the picture has been taken. Photoflash lamps are made in two sizes, costing 15 and 25 cents each. For this type of picture the 25 cent size should be used.

In amateur photography experimenting becomes the spice of life and you will be surprised at the interesting effects you will get in working out "stunt" pictures on gloomy, rainy days when outdoor activities are taboo. Results in some instances may be rather grotesque but you will have a lot of inexpensive amusement and pictures that show individuality. Anyone can take the ordinary run of pictures but it requires a little ingenuity to get the unusual. That is what you should "hook" for.

Eighty-Two Creeds Children Found To Be Tubercular Type

More Than 200 Children And 8 Adults Tested At Tuberculin X-ray Clinic.

At the tuberculin X-ray clinic for the detection of early cases of tuberculosis held during the week of March 25 at Creeds high school, 265 children were tested. From the tests made 82 children were found to have been infected at some time with the germ that causes tuberculosis. All of them were X-rayed, and the parents are to be informed that a report will be sent to their family physician who would advise them as to what they should do to maintain the health of their child.

Eight adults were examined, and 7 adults were X-rayed. Reports of these examinations were sent to the respective physicians.

Over 50 cases of tuberculosis out of 100 in adults are contracted during childhood. If the cases are found early, it is easy to fortify the body against the inroads of the disease.

Children showing a positive tuberculin reaction to the test are rarely, if ever, spreaders of the disease, and so in most instances it is not necessary to take the infected child from school, but it is necessary to see that the habits of the child as to eating, sleeping, and exercise are properly regulated.

It is reported that more and more private physicians are applying the tuberculin test to the children in families in their practice where tuberculosis is known to exist. When this becomes a universal practice, child tuberculosis will become a rarity and future tuberculosis in grown people will be nipped in the bud.

RELIEF ROLLS HERE SHOW 1018

More Than Half On Rolls Under 16 Years of Age, State-Wide Survey Shows.

More than 1000 persons are on the relief rolls in Princess Anne county and one half of these are less than 16 years old, figures released by the Virginia Emergency Relief Administration this week revealed.

The total number of persons on relief in the county are listed as 1018. Of these 564 are under 16; 510 between the ages of 16 and 64 and only 15 over 64 years of age.

These figures were gleaned from a report which showed that of 147,340 persons on relief in the counties, 72,747 or 49.38 per cent were children under 16. W. E. Euse, statistical expert, loaned to the State administration by the FERA.

No clearer indication of the need for intelligent handling of the relief problem in Virginia is to be had than this analysis of the State's rural case load, according to Miss Margaret Well, social service director for the Virginia Emergency Relief Administration.

"This condition presents a two-fold problem," Miss Well declared. "Not only must the material needs of the family be provided for, but the social and moral stamina of these 'relief children' must be preserved."

"Since society still attaches a certain stigma to the family which finds it necessary to depend on public relief, cruel and unreasonable though this may be, its most harmful effect is borne by the children of these relief families, and it is our responsibility to do all in our power to prevent it."

"Children cannot appreciate the conspiracy of economic events which has brought destitution to their homes. They see their fathers out of work and dependent; their mothers harassed by the cares of holding a poverty-stricken home together; they themselves are poorly fed and clothed. They contrast this condition with that in more fortunate homes in the neighborhood. Under such circumstances, normal children feel a sense of shame, and in that feeling of inferiority are grounded many of the social ills which beset us today—crime, delinquency and maladjustment."

Greater emphasis should be placed on child welfare work, Miss Well said, if the country is to be spared the hazardous consequences of a generation reared in resentment for the social order.

Another factor contributing to this need, she pointed out, was the presence on the rural case load of 3,178 fatherless families and 754 motherless families. Families from which either parent is missing always present more serious problems than a complete family unit.

The survey showed that out of a total relief population in the counties during December of 147,340 persons, 72,747, or 49.38 per cent, were under 16 years of age; that 70,531, or 47.83 per cent, were between the ages of 16 and 64, and that 4,042 or 2.74 per cent, were past 64.

The survey did not include the 21 city relief units, but Mr. Euse estimates that if the same proportions hold true for the cities as obtain in the counties, the total number of persons on relief in the State under 16 as of last December was 126,636.

Roadside Advertising Doomed in Quebec As Billboards Get Axe Under New Law

Roadside advertising is doomed along Quebec's 10,000 miles of improved highways as commercial signs and posters get the axe this year with enforcement of the famous anti-billboard law enacted by the Quebec government. The law, designed to halt destruction of the quaint French charm of the Quebec countryside by unsightly billboards, marks a major victory in the war to preserve North America's scenic beauty. Above, typical rural vista in Quebec, showing old-world chateaux and wayside shrine, unspoiled by highway signs. Lower left, illustrating how billboards disfigure countryside in states with out-and-out legislation. Lower right, old French roadside view near Quebec City, a part of the rural charm Quebec seeks to preserve. Inset, the Hon. J. E. Perrault, Quebec Minister of Roads and sponsor of the anti-billboard law.

STRONGEST PROPOSAL

(Manassas Journal)

The Governor of Virginia is to be congratulated upon his recent plea for a more moderate social life as a factor in promoting public health. Pausing for a moment in his attention to official matters of statecraft, Governor Peery urges that hostesses begin their parties earlier and end them earlier. He also makes the suggestion that if night play time is moved up an hour or more there will be fewer motor accidents and less drinking.

"Many of the most serious motor accidents occur between midnight and morning," the Governor says, "and I suggest earlier party hours because I am convinced that it will mean a more enjoyable and a much safer social life."

Hints To The Smart Hostess

Simple Repasts Served Daintily Make Home Entertaining Easy

"EVERYONE likes to go to her parties."

"It doesn't seem to be any effort for her to entertain."

These are two comments which every woman would like to have made about her hospitality. The underlying secret of entertaining well and easily is to undertake only what can be done successfully. The simplest refreshments served daintily and smoothly may be more enjoyed than the most elaborate repast. If the hostess has no time to enjoy her own party her guests will not be at ease.

One of the favorite ways of entertaining in these days of bridge popularity is at luncheon before the "game." Often these pre-bridge meals are simple both as to number and kinds of food, but they should have an original touch to make them stand out. Here are two attractive and satisfying menus for bridge luncheons which can be prepared ahead of time.

JUSTICE SLOW BUT NOT SO SURE

Of Four Men Accused of Year-Old Car Robbery, Only One Has Been Jailed.

Justice moves forward, slowly, but with uncertain steps. More than a year ago, railroad detectives routed four men in the act of stealing a quantity of cigars from a railroad car at Little Creek. Three men were arrested; one escaped.

Leon Steinberg turned State's evidence and received a short jail sentence.

Bill Morts stood trial, presented an alibi and was acquitted.

Jake Cromwell put up $2000 bond and skipped, never to be seen again.

Aaron Veech was never captured by county authorities, but was arrested in Norfolk on other charges and sentenced to serve 11 years in the penitentiary for those crimes.

The April docket of the Princess Anne circuit court carries the names of Jake Cromwell and Aaron Veech, but there is no date for trial since neither will be here.

V. A. Etheridge Still Candidate For Sheriff

Vernon A. Etheridge, of Creeds, candidate for sheriff of Princess Anne county, subject to the Democratic primary, August 6 has not withdrawn from the race.

"The rumor has been going around," Mr. Etheridge told the Virginia Beach News this week, "that I have withdrawn from the race for the sheriff's office. This is not true. I am still a candidate for the office and will be in there fighting on August 6." Mr. Etheridge opposes J. C. Litchfield, the present county sheriff.

Hotel Is Robbed While Washburn Home Is Burning

CCC Soldiers Aid In Fire Fighting; Also Accused Of Looting.

Residents of Cape Henry are not sure whether the adjacent CCC camp, where 400 Negroes are quartered, is an asset or a liability.

The camp was a distinct asset on Friday night, when the Negroes turned out en masse to help fight the fire which completely destroyed the home, store and postoffice of D. W. Washburn, and prevented the spread of the blaze to nearby buildings.

But, if the story told by R. P. Wible and Mrs. I. R. Wible, son and wife of the owner of the Cape Henry Hotel is true, they are a liability.

According to the Wibles, a group of the CCC soldiers took advantage of the excitement at the time of the fire to break into the Cape Henry Hotel and restaurant and despite the protests of the occupants loot the building, taking a quantity of cigarettes and other valuables.

A search by Army officials following a report of the theft failed to reveal any of the loot.

Army officials and State police are investigating.

Minstrel Show Here On Monday

All is in readiness for the presentation of the Jamboree Minstrel which is to be held Monday in the auditorium of the Willoughby T. Cooke School, Virginia Beach, beginning at 8 p. m.

The Norfolk Fireman's Band will also take part.

The show here is being presented under the auspices of the Young Women's Bible Class of the Virginia Beach M. E. Church, Mrs. A. L. Barco, Jr., president of the class, and Mrs. S. E. Potest, teacher, are in charge of the local work on the show.

South Norfolk High To Be Met In Third Game of Week At Field.

The Oceana High School baseball team is scheduled to play its third game of the season this (Friday) afternoon when they clash with the Tigers of South Norfolk High School at South Norfolk.

The locals started auspiciously last Tuesday by handing a 16 to 0 wallop to the Norfolk Academy, with Jack Harris in the box, but slipped on Wednesday to allow Maury High School of Norfolk to defeat them 9 to 0.

George Barnes pitched for Oceana in this game and gave up but six hits, but the Oceana boys managed to garner but two bingles themselves during the contest.

Pacific Avenue Paving Approved

Wickersham had made no definite promise concerning the poles in the street, but had said that something would be done about them. It is believed that they will either be moved to the curb or be removed entirely with the advent of the new motor rail buses.

Mr. Wickersham refused to commit himself at all on the work on Pacific avenue, between 16th and 17th streets, Mr. Crockett reported, but said that he would be in a position to do so in 30 or 40 days. It is believed that the switch now on that street will be removed, thus solving one of the major problems there.

Plan For Constructing Yacht Basin At Beach Now Being Considered

Prominent Virginia Beach Residents Have Been Discussing Project.

LYNNHAVEN INLET, BAY CONSIDERED AS SITE

Approximately 2000 Yachts Expected to Stop Here Twice a Year.

A yacht basin to be located in the vicinity of Virginia Beach, the initial cost of which would exceed $100,000 is now being discussed and will probably take some material form soon, the Virginia Beach News learned from an authoritative source today.

The construction of such a basin has been considered for some time, the News learned and a committee of prominent Beach residents has already been working on the proposed project.

Rumors of the proposed project reached New York and as a result Frank C. True, yachting editor of the New York Sun made a special trip to the Beach this week to investigate the matter.

A conference with F. E. Turin, director of the Norfolk Advertising Board revealed little except that such a project had been discussed, but the News has learned from other sources that action on the matter will be taken shortly to prevent a similar plan being adopted in Norfolk.

The $4,800,000 work-and-relief bill recently passed by Congress and signed by President Roosevelt should serve to help make the proposal an actuality since it is planned to use FERA or similar funds in constructing the basin and in doing the necessary dredging.

Exactly who is supporting this project could not be learned at day, although it is known that Hugh W. Davis, Norfolk attorney who lives at Virginia Beach, is one of the heads of the local committee. Mr. Davis was out of town this week and could not be reached for comment on the subject.

The exact location of the basin has not been determined as yet either. One suggestion has been made to create an anchorage directly in the Ocean, while another has been to dredge Lynnhaven Bay so that the anchorage might be used by the Cavalier Country Club.

The most likely proposal however is to dredge the Lynnhaven Inlet and Lynnhaven Bay so that large yachts may steam in and use that comparatively safe cove as their anchorage.

This location would also prove accessible to the Coast Guard, who, according to rumors, are planning to move their Cape Henry station to an ideal spot for them to stop on their trip. This of course, would serve to lengthen the Beach's summer season by at least two or three weeks on each end.

In addition, Mr. True pointed out, many of these yachtsmen might consider a trip to the Beach during the regular season if they had a convenient anchorage accessible.

The project, if completed, should serve to be the final thing necessary to make Virginia Beach, one of the best resorts on the Atlantic seaboard.

TO ATTEND MEETING

Mrs. E. B. Taylor and Mrs. J. P. Grimes, Virginia Beach members of the Committee of Thirty, for the annual meeting of the committee on April 26, will attend a meeting of the committee (tomorrow) (Saturday) in Norfolk.

The committee, in charge of arrangements, will meet in the City Council Chamber.

Fire Department Borrows Engine

The month of April, with its borrowed days, has nothing on the Virginia Beach Fire Department.

For, this organization, with its own equipment broken, has been forced to borrow a fire engine from the City of Norfolk, so that they might be able to answer any or all calls received while their own engine was being repaired.

The local engine limped home with a bearing burned out after extinguishing a blaze in the proposed annexed territory Monday night.

C., while Walter Hagen, dean of all professional golfers and former British and American Open Champion, is also scheduled to motor in on Friday coming in from Augusta.

The first eighteen holes of the match will be played on Saturday afternoon, while the final 36 holes will be played on Sunday.

TAX SITUATION IN COUNTY NOW IN REAL STATE OF CONFUSION

Even Members of Board of Supervisors Uncertain Of True Conditions.

GENERAL COUNTY LEVY MAY BE INCREASED

Public Hearing April 22; Town of Virginia Beach To Be Represented.

The Princess Anne county tax rate situation is now in such a state of confusion that even members of the County Board of Supervisors are not certain as to what it is all about.

At the February meeting of the Board, a resolution was passed tentatively raising the general county levy from 50 cents to 55 cents per $100 assessed value and lowering the county school levy from 90 cents to 85 cents a hundred.

To offset any loss of revenue for schools, the board, at this same meeting also voted to appropriate a sum not to exceed $2500 for use on the school budget, if necessary.

At the March meeting of the Board however, it changed its mind and decided to rescind the action concerning the $2500.

On April 3, a public hearing was held in regard to the lowering of the county school levy, but no one appeared so no action of any kind was taken.

Thus, at the present time, according to the minutes of the Board of Supervisors both tentative changes in the County levy stand for the present.

But some members of the County Board and other county officials are not exactly clear on this matter. Some believe that the action of rescinding the $2500 appropriation plus the lack of people at the public hearing will automatically put the county school levy back at 90 cents.

Others believe that these actions had returned both levies to their former level.

But, according to the books, neither of these two schools are as yet correct.

If the tentative changes go through as planned, the town of Virginia Beach stands to lose since all of the general county school fund levies is apportioned to the various districts according to the amount they pay.

If the school levy is returned to normal, but the general levy is raised as planned, then the whole county, including the town of Virginia Beach stands to lose, since their tax rate will be raised 5 cents a hundred.

In either case, the entire matter will probably be settled at the monthly meeting of the Board on April 22, when a public hearing on the tentative raise of the general county levy is scheduled to be held.

Mayor Roy Smith, of Virginia Beach, will head a delegation from that town which will appear before the Board to oppose the raise. Several other delegations are also expected to appear.

EASTER SERVICE AT CAPE HENRY

Rev. Clower to Conduct Impressive Services; Crowd Expected.

The annual Easter sunrise services, held each year at the Cape Henry Cross on the Shore Drive will be conducted this year by the Rev. J. B. Clower, Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Virginia Beach.

Each year, large delegations of worshippers from Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County and Norfolk, rise early so as to be present at sunrise when the services commence.

The services, both beautiful and impressive, have gained statewide attention, and draw large crowds annually.

The Princess Anne Woman's Club is sponsoring the service this year, with Mrs. Fred Bryant as chairman. A musical program is also being arranged.

LEGION MEETING WILL BE SUCCESS

Local Post Delegates Return From Committee Session With Good News.

Legionnaires throughout the entire state of Virginia are looking forward anxiously to the annual State department convention to be held at Virginia Beach in September, a committee representing Princess Anne Post 113 reported after attending a meeting of the executive committee of the State Department at Charlottesville this week.

The committee composed of Fairfield Hodges and Pelham Bogert attended the executive committee meeting to dispel rumors that the Beach was not capable of taking care of the convention. News of these rumors had reached the Beach lately.

The Executive Committee, however, reported that no fears were held to that effect, and that a survey had shown that greater interest was being taken in this coming convention than in any previous one.

After receiving this encouraging report from the committee, Mr. Hodges and Mr. Bogert proceeded to Richmond where they conferred with Glenn Elliot, state adjutant, regarding various details. Here also, they met with hearty reception, and were congratulated upon the plans for the convention which have already been worked out.

Both Mr. Hodges and Mr. Bogert feel sure, as a result of this trip, that the September convention will be the biggest and best one ever held by the State Department.

GASOLINE PRICE AT BEACH HALF CENT HIGHER THAN IN CITY

Beach Dealers Protest But Get No Response From Wholesalers.

CITY PRICES PREVAIL AT LONDON BRIDGE

Norfolk Prices Drop While Those at Beach Go Up; No Reason Given.

With a prosperous summer season apparently just around the corner, gasoline wholesalers in this vicinity, seem to be preparing to extract every possible cent from Virginia Beach residents and visitors.

While the price of gasoline in Norfolk dropped this week from 18.5 to 18.3 cents a gallon, the price in Virginia Beach soared from 18.5 to 18.8 cents a gallon, making the Beach price just half a cent higher than in Norfolk.

The ultimate result, of course, will be to drive the purchaser to Norfolk, or to London Bridge, where Norfolk prices prevail, for his gasoline, thereby causing the Beach gas stations to lose a great portion of their business.

Virginia Beach gasoline station operators immediately began to campaign for a reduction of prices to place them on a level with (Continued on Page Eight)

SOUTHERN HOTEL ASSOCIATION TO MEET AT BEACH

Approximately 300 Managers And Owners Expected To Attend Convention.

The Southern Hotel Association, an organization composed of owners and managers of the best hotels in the south, will meet at the Cavalier Hotel here on June 6, 7 and 8, it was learned here this week, from Sidney Banks, manager of the Cavalier, who extended the invitation.

Selection of the Cavalier as the convention site was made following a recent meeting of the officers and directors in Greensboro. At the board meeting a number of important matters were considered, bearing upon the future operation of the hotel business in this territory. These matters will probably be discussed at further length at the convention.

Approximately 300 managers and hotel owners are expected to attend the three-day convention here and to participate in the program which is now being worked out. This program, in addition to the business meetings and a banquet at the Cavalier will also include a convention luncheon at the Princess Anne Country Club.

Officers of the Southern Hotel Association, covering Virginia and the Carolinas include Earl H. Spence, of the King Cotton Hotel, Greensboro, president; Kenneth R. Hyde, Hotel Roanoke, Roanoke; Wilbur Devendorf, Asheville; John S. Cator, Fort Sumter Hotel, Charleston, S. C., vice president; Richard K. Young, Hotel Elwood, High Point, N. C., treasurer; Harry C. Thompson, of Greensboro, N. C., executive secretary.

Directors of the Association include Lewis A. White, chairman; Sidney Banks, Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach; William E. Hockett, Hotel Richmond, Richmond; Otto W. Donnell, Hotel O. Henry, Greensboro; Everett I. Bug, Hotel Marlborough, Durham; Lawrence S. Barringer, Columbia Hotel, Columbia, N. C.; and J. Syndicate Headed by H. E. Lasting, of Portsmouth, to Locate Here.

LARGE PRODUCTIONS MAY BE MADE HERE

Move Seen As Initial Step in Making Virginia Beach, East Coast Hollywood.

The first actual step towards making Virginia Beach an East Coast Hollywood became known today, when the Film Daily, a national publication, printed in New York, published an item from its West Coast Bureau, stating that a syndicate, headed by Hyman B. Lasting, of Portsmouth, was planning to erect a studio with four stages at Virginia Beach.

The News immediately attempted to communicate with Mr. Lasting, but being unable to reach him, talked with his brother Sol Lasting who is also connected with the firm.

Mr. Lasting admitted that the studio was to be erected here, although he stated that all of the plans for it had not yet been completed.

The exact location of the new studio has not yet been revealed but it will be somewhere in the immediate vicinity of the Beach.

Chester Becroft, who has been connected with some of the major moving picture production companies on the west coast, is now on his way here from California, and upon his arrival will supervise the erection of the studio, and will manage the plant and head production.

"This is to be an independent studio," Mr. Lasting told the News, "but we hope to produce a number of pictures for larger studios. Warner Brothers and several other large studios have already contacted us with this idea in mind."

The erection of the studio here at the Beach is an aftermath of an argument between Joseph M. Schenck, president of the United Artists and the State of California.

Threatened with excess tax on the film industry, Mr. Schenck threatened in turn, to move his studios to the east coast. The story, of course, was put, on the wire, and as such, published in Norfolk.

Always looking for new industries for this vicinity, L. H. Windholz, chairman of the Norfolk Advertising Board; A. B. Schwarzkopf, president of the Norfolk Association of Commerce and G. W. Swift, chairman of the Norfolk Industrial Commission dispatched a telegram to Mr. Schenck inviting him to move his studios to Norfolk or Virginia Beach, and telling him of the facilities available here.

No response was received from Mr. Schenck, but Mr. Becroft saw news articles on the subject and communicated with Mr. Lasting whom he knew.

The result was a conference with the Norfolk Industrial Commission and the resulting plans which are announced by the Virginia Beach News today.

Virginia Beach was chosen as a more desirable site than Florida because its climate year around was more suitable, especially about 90 per cent of film shooting is now done indoors; because of the many types of location in this vicinity and because of its accessibility to large eastern cities.

IN DAYS GONE BY

In this issue of the Virginia Beach News, we incorporate a new feature, "In Days Gone By," a series of excerpts from the Virginia Beach News of 1925.

Since the News was founded in 1925, we reprint its leading editorial in its initial issue, that of July 3, 1925, which was probably written by A. Johnston Ackles, who was the first editor of this paper.

That editorial, written ten years ago, outlined the principal policies of the paper then, which still hold true today. It follows:

Greetings

"We greet you, the people of Princess Anne County, with this our initial issue of the VIRGINIA BEACH NEWS, and we think it proper to briefly outline the principles and policies of this paper."

"We are first, last and all the time for Princess Anne County and for everything that tends to the betterment of the conditions of the people who live there, socially, educationally, morally, financially and every other way that will have a tendency to improve conditions of the County as a whole."

"We are independent in all of our views upon politics and religion and the deciding cause of all questions will be answered in the way that will produce the greatest good to the greatest number of citizens in the community."

"Politically, we are Democratic, but where the Democratic principles conflict with the best interests of the people at large, we reserve the right to champion fearlessly the cause of the majority of the people. We believe that the fundamental principles controlling the establishment of the Democratic Party by Thomas Jefferson of the greatest good to the greatest number, is as necessary at the present time as it was shortly after the Revolution."

"Our columns will always be open to constructive criticism and everyone should be heard upon any question dealing with the public good. We do not claim for ourselves infallibility and we probably will be found at time afflicted with the human weakness of erring, but we hope that this will not occur often."

REGRETTABLE

When fire broke out at the home, postoffice and store of D. W. Washburn, at Cape Henry, two weeks ago, 400 young Negroes, attached to the CCC camp at Cape Henry were rushed to the scene to aid in the firefighting.

Too much cannot be said in praise of these young darlings, who, untrained, as they were, followed instructions well, and succeeded in saving adjoining buildings from destruction.

It is highly regrettable then, that in the face of such heroic action, for which praise should be given, should come denunciation as well.

R. P. White, proprietor of the Cape Henry Hotel, reported to authorities that a number of the CCC boys had entered his establishment and looted it of about $5000 worth of stock.

Government authorities at Fort Story, who searched the CCC quarters immediately after the fire, and other government employees who were at the fire, deny this verily.

Mr. White is just as vehement in his assertion in that the incident occurred.

The result of this conflict at present, may be nothing more than a government investigation, but what the result would be if another fire broke out cannot be told.

Unconfirmed rumors have reached the News, that the CCC boys will not be allowed to leave their quarters in case of another blaze. In this way they will be freed of all suspicion in connection with any looting or pilfering that may take place, but it would probably prove disastrous to the property endangered by fire.

It is indeed regrettable that such complications should have arisen as a result of firefighting assistance given voluntarily by members of the CCC camp.

FIVE MINUTES VS. HUMAN LIFE

The time saved in passing through Virginia Beach at a very rapid rate of speed, rather than complying with the law that regulates the speed of motor cars at 15 miles per hour in business districts and 25 miles an hour in residential areas, cannot possibly exceed five minutes and in most instances will not be half of that.

Yet last year there were a number of deaths at Virginia Beach through automobile accidents and in several instances those killed were pedestrians attempting to cross the street.

A life sacrificed to save two minutes.

To what purpose? Atlantic Avenue and 17th street are not open highways to be traversed at high speed. Our neighbors and their children cross these streets often as they go shopping or bathing. Let us drive with a due regard for their safety.

Within the next week or two the warm spring weather will bring the usual influx of motorists to Virginia Beach. Let us welcome them, let us receive them with every courtesy but let us precept and example impress upon them the necessity of driving our streets at moderate rate of speed.

Those motorists displaying an inclination to travel too fast should be courteously but firmly warned; those driving recklessly and with a manifest disregard for the life and safety of others should be promptly arrested; and those so foolishly as to drive while under the influence of intoxicating spirits should be removed from the streets where they menace the life of everyone unpathetic enough to be in their path and placed behind bars long enough to contemplate the novel thought that whiskey and a steering wheel are not proper companions.

Five minutes vs. a human life. Is it worth it?

THE NEWS REGRETS

The Virginia Beach News welcomes communications from its readers, and is only too glad to publish such communications. But the News cannot publish such communications unless they are signed by the sender.

The News, however, will be glad to keep the names of these letters for future in strictest confidence, if such is desired and to publish the letters under any given nom de plume.

In the past week, the News has received two such letters, but unfortunately neither was signed. One dealt with a national question, while the other spoke of the "utterly impassable" condition of some of the streets at Virginia Beach.

The News regrets that it is unable to print these letters, but it will gladly do so if the writers will send in their names.

HATS AND ELEVATORS

(Petersburg Progress-Index)

In these parts a gentleman customarily takes off his hat in an elevator. The same custom has prevailed in Sydney, Australia, but it is being challenged on the ground that there are occasions when it is more considerate to keep hats on. Notices have been posted in the seven elevators of the Bank of New South Wales asking gentlemen to do this as "this will tend to reduce congestion during the busy periods and so contribute to the greater comfort and convenience of all." It is claimed that with hats on rather than off, an elevator can carry at rush hours 20 instead of 16 persons. Until elevators find 20 people waiting to be transported up or down our own skyscrapers, we are sure the old custom will prevail.

TOO LONG ACCUSTOMED TO THE NIGHT'S DISDAIN
(From American Poetry Journal)

I found that cubicle as cold as time.

Through all the centuries that ran like waves.

Of casual air along the hills of earth.

What largesse had the wretched wandered, man.

From powers prodigious in the upper skies?

Hunger and pain nipped at his heels like dogs.

Too lean to own a master, but never a disc.

Of planets' gold, or one coin from the moon.

Rolled at his feet. Sorely he woke beneath.

Skies hard as armor under brilliantancy.

Humbly he crouched within his cloak, breathing.

Small, wraithlike breaths against the Milk-Way matter.

And what great matter if the dawn revealed.

Him pierced with the splinters of Aldebaran.

Quaint creature tethered on a servile dot.

Too insignificant to hold the glance.

Of planets' peering through the piteous dark?

With constellations streaming in flames.

Why should they single out one spinning ball?

SWALLOWS OVER THE SOUTH
DOWNS
(A Fragment from British Columbia
(From The Countryman))

England, we're here again.
Steel-squalls and blinding rain.
(All just as usual)

Greet us on landing.
Head-winds through Italy.
Fog over Brittany.

Why we don't give it up's Past understanding.

Buffeted, blown, half-dead . . .
Hey, look, there's Beachy Head!
Green turf, and milk-white Chalk-cliffs like Dover!

Sun-gleams at last, hurrry!
... I'm off down Uckfield way.
Country'll be looking grand
Now the rain's over.

... Primroses, blowing leaves,
Thatched roofs and cottage eaves.
Oast-houses, dusky-dark
What sites for nesting!

Come on, the fun's begun.
Hurry up, every one.
Don't let's waste any time
Preening and resting . . .

As Others See It

A LAST REUNION TOGETHER

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

It is still doubtful whether the remaining survivors of the Confederate forces will be able to hold a reunion during 1935. There is the possibility that some Southern city will find the means of financing the gathering, but as yet no definite proposal has been made, and it may be that none will be forthcoming.

So we should like to suggest that efforts to hold a meeting in the South be abandoned, and that a joint reunion of the United Confederate Veterans and the Grand Army of the Republic be held in Washington. The ranks of both organizations are thinning fast, and it is certain that neither can hold many more conventions. Why do not both of them decide now to hold their final one together at the national capital this year?

It would symbolize the burying of sectional differences and the rise of a united country. It would be in the spirit of General Robert E. Lee, who counseled his old soldiers after the war to forget their hostility for the North, to "abandon all these local animosities and make your sons Americans."

If Lee could give such advice as this in the shadow of Appomattox, we do not understand why the men who fought under him with such valor and devotion cannot follow his advice 70 years later. There has been objection in the ranks of the U. D. C. in the past to the idea that the organization might some day join with the G. A. R., in token that past enemies were forgotten. A joint reunion was suggested for 1933 by a delegate to the U. D. C. reunion at Richmond in 1932, but the proposal was defeated.

We fear, too, that there are members of the G. A. R. who would have difficulty in reconciling themselves to the idea of uniting fraternally with "rebels" and "traitors." But is it possible that a majority of both bodies still are unable to entertain the idea of meeting together in comradeship before they go to their last bivouac? The war ended three score and ten years ago. Surely the participants in that conflict are not so imbued with bitterness toward one another that they refuse to make one last conciliatory gesture.

Such a gesture, in the guise of a joint reunion, would, we are sure, meet with the overwhelming approval of American citizens everywhere. Certainly it is impossible to believe that the people of Virginia Lee's native State would hesitate to give it their unqualified indorsement.

SLOWING DOWN

(Peninsula Enterprise)

One of the fundamental ideas of the church people is that, if that people should live less feverish lives, and give less time to the excitements of society. For many years, there was a distinct let-up during that period in parties and dances. The church preached the doctrine that the excited pursuit of pleasure should be checked, while people mediated on the meaning of life.

It is hard to induce people to do any meditating in these times. Modern life is not suited to reflection. The favorite motto is "Go it while you're young," and many continue to go it until they are old.

It is the age of speed. You realize that when you go out on the roads with a car, and see people who used to be shocked when an automobile ran 25 miles an hour, now driving their cars 50 and 60 miles per hour without a qualm. Our people are impatient with slow motions.

There are of course plenty of folks who live quiet lives. During the past few years, when money has not been too plentiful, it has been easier to stay at home, and for many there has not much else to do. Such folks do not have to worry about slowing down. Something that would start them up would do them more good.

However, the prevailing tempo of the American people is one of haste. There are more people who live too fast than those who live too slow. It does not hurt people a particle, after their day's work is over, to sit down quietly in the home and read the newspaper and listen to the radio. The society folks who used to slow up during Lent came out of that period with rested nerves. Some of our thrill seekers would be benefited by similar restraint.

A WORKWORM PROJECT

(The Virginia Gazette)

It is good news to Williamsburg to hear that a plan is on foot to have the state erect new units for the Eastern State Hospital at some point near the Richmond Road beyond the city limits, away from the heart of the city as it is the intention of the Restoration to build a large hotel somewhere in the vicinity.

Such a move would not only benefit the city, but would also assure the hospital of new, modern sanitary buildings, with plenty of open spaces and that quiet atmosphere which is so necessary for the welfare of the patients. It is a well known fact that many of the present buildings have been declared as unfit and unsafe. In fact several representations have been made from time to time by Dr. Brown, the superintendent, that the buildings are in great need of repair.

This hospital, the first to be established in America, has naturally through the years been on the decline as far as the old buildings are concerned, and it would seem that something should be done about it.

Now that the Rockefeller Restoration feels inclined, according to reports, to assist towards the removal of some of the hospital units, it would be an opportune time for the state to take advantage of the offer.

The location on a nearby site of a hotel to cost around $750,000 and upward would be of immense benefit to the city and would do as much to keep tourists in our midst as any other attraction.

This, coupled with a good eighteen-hole golf course, would also help so that our city would be able to count on tourists to stay for a season, the same as they do in Florida.

With the number of tourists visiting this section of the Peninsula daily on the increase, it is most necessary that they be accorded every facility for prolonging their stay. A hotel of not less than 200 rooms is needed and should be built so that extra additional rooms can be added.

There is nothing which attracts tourists so much as ample accommodations for their visit.

HIGHER SALARIES

(Appomattox Times-Virginian)

The Times-Virginian believes that members of the State Legislature of Virginia should be paid higher salaries. There is too much difference between the meager allowance paid to congressmen for the personnel of the Legislature to be of the calibre needed to maintain the State in the conflict between centralization and State's rights.

Frequently we hear that this or that person, usually highly qualified, cannot make a race for the State Legislature because of the salary sacrifice involved. We believe that the salary should be high enough to attract our best citizens.

On The Beach

By BEN WAHRMAN

Each year the Deep Run Hunt Club stages a series of steeplechase races at Curles Neck, near Richmond, and each year, a number of prominent Virginia Beach residents pile into an automobile, and motor up to the scene of the event.

The date set for this year proved to be identical with one resembling Noah's forty days, but the local party set sail never-the-less.

Late that night, a strange report reached Virginia Beach. A party of Virginia Beach folk, the report said, were stranded near Curles Neck with only half a gas tank.

The party arrived home the next day, confirming that report, and displaying a brand new gas tank which had replaced the old one. The old gas tank, they said, had received its fatal injuries when the driver of the car had attempted to take a short cut, in order to get nearer the barrier.

Another of the party returned home with a decided limp but refused to tell where or how he got it.

A third member of the expedition bears many bruises and scratches suffered in a novel manner. He was attempting to follow the horses closely but got stuck on top of one of the jumps.

The party is now planning to take the trip again next year.

A telephone company employee tells this story, but refused to state whether it took place in this vicinity or not.

At any rate it's a good story. It seems, the story goes, that officials of the telephone company, became suspicious of several of its employees whose duties consisted of collecting the money deposited in toll telephones. These employees, they believed, were not turning in everything they collected.

Therefore, in order to test them, these officials made personal visits to several of the toll telephones on the list and dropped a $2.50 gold piece in each one of them. (Sense, of course, was before the nation went off the gold standard.)

But walls have ears, and news, somehow gets around. One of the suspected employees heard of this novel plan to trap him, and was also told in just what boxes he might find these gold pieces.

So he devised a plan of his own. The next day a number of strangers appeared at the various stores where the gold-containing toll telephones were located. These men immediately to the telephone and began to make a call. A second later they were jiggling the hook frantically.

"Operator, Operator," each would exclaim. "I've just made an awful mistake. I dropped a $2.50 gold piece in the box, instead of a dime. Will you please send someone to open the box for me?"

An employee was sent, and in each of course, the gold piece was discovered and turned over to its claimant.

The telephone company began to consider other methods of trapping its employees.

Some of the readers of this column (if there are any) might have older brothers.

If so, you can understand our predicament and sympathize with us.

We have one, who takes great delight in neglecting the law at which he pretends to make a living, in order to tell us exactly how a newspaper should be run.

He has even begun to assist us in writing our alleged column. The following bit of whimsy was written in its entirety by his own lily white hand, and we are exceedingly anxious that all credit (or blame) for it should go to him.

"What Virginia Beach needs," said our critic, superbly unconscious of the fact that he was repeating himself for the eleventh time within the hour, "is more local color."

We made a weak movement in the general direction of speech only to be promptly waded down. "I know just what you're going to say. You're going to tell me about the splendid beach you have here. You're going to tell me about Cape Henry. You're going to talk history to me. But people don't come all the way here from Washington and New York to read history books or listen to lectures."

"Do you know what this place needs? Its color. Yes sir, color and plenty of it. Spread it on thick."

"What you need is more men wearing vandykes and if they would wear a Confederate uniform all the better, and Confederate flags on the porches, and some nice old cannon scattered about here and there. And of course there ought to be a mint bed on every lawn and a few magnolia trees on the main street would go very good."

"Then every hotel should have a pair of crossed sabres hanging in the lobby preferably over a big fireplace, and a picture of Robert E. Lee in every bedroom. The clerk should be a grey bearded gentleman of the old school arrayed in linen suit and block four-in-hand tie and should do a great deal of bowing to the ladies and say 'suh' at least twice in every sentence. It goes without saying that he should use 'you-all' at every opportunity. Those around him should always refer to him as 'Cunnel Bob.'"

"On the road coming to the beach there should be at least two, or three patches of cotton and couple of nice tobacco fields and of course a couple of darkies plucking their banjos."

"Instead of the corner drug store having a display of magazines in front there should be a long row of hams hanging out there."

"At night there ought to be some darkies strumming on the banjos and singing 'Way Down Upon the Swanee River' and 'Old Black Joe.'"

"Yes Sirree, if you fellows only had a little local color you could put this beach over."

The Rev. Benjamin B. Bland, pastor of the Oceana and Virginia Beach Methodist Churches will conduct a series of inspirational services at the Virginia Beach Church, beginning Sunday night, and continuing through Easter Sunday.

A similar series of such services which were held at the Oceana Church were concluded this week. The entire church going community of Oceana regardless of church affiliation, joined in making the inspirational services successful.

In the series of services to be held at Virginia Beach, Mr. Bland will discuss the theme, "Fellowship with Jesus. During Holy Week." Mr. Richard Carroll will assist the choir with music and in preparation of special music for Easter.

Morning services, beginning at 10 o'clock will be held at the Virginia Beach church on both Palm and Easter Sundays. If these services are well attended, the same schedule will be maintained throughout the spring and summer.

Food Facts.

By DR. R. E. LEE.
"BREAD, next to milk, is the most important single article of food that is available to the human race. It is valuable because it furnishes about 40 per cent of our total calories, mostly carbohydrates, much protein and roughage, some mineral salts, fat and vitamins." Dr. D. C. Loehd, deputy health officer of Rochester, N. Y., said in an address before the Federation of National Millers in Chicago.

He pointed out that wheat flour contains from 8 to 17 per cent protein and from 65 to 75 per cent carbohydrate, while white bread contains about 25 per cent water, 83 per cent carbohydrate, nine per cent protein and one per cent fat. "The contents of whole wheat bread and graham bread are very nearly the same, but the carbohydrate and protein of white bread are more digestible than the carbohydrate and protein of either whole wheat or graham bread," Dr. Loehd added.

He emphasized that individuals who believe they should have more roughage in the food they eat should first consult a physician and recommended that bran be used as a separate dish instead of "spooning nice, wholesome white bread" by including it in the baking.

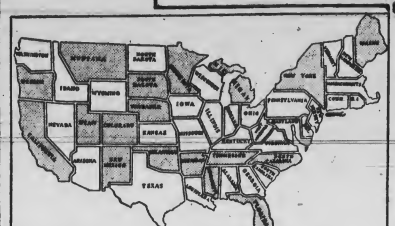

"It is a vitamin deficiency that is the bane of our civilization," Dr. Loehd stated that frequently food faddism in the custom cry for more roughage and more vitamins at the same time and eat as their remedy whole wheat bread, forgetting that if whole wheat bread is more valuable because it contains vitamins and roughage, that the undigested and unabsorbed so that the vitamin content is lost.

"Apparently," he commented, "you cannot have your vitamins and 'at roughage'."

Book Sampler

The Sampler has seen many good books in its time, but none over which it could wax more enthusiastic than "Of Time and the River." Written by Thomas Wolfe, it is just about the biggest thing that has come out since the author's "Look Homeward, Angel"—and we use the adjective "biggest" advisedly. The characters are all larger than life, and the mold of the novel is stupendous. Into the person of Eugene Gant, the son of a small Southern storekeeper, the author pours all the cries of youth, its longing for all knowledge, its guest in every place for experience, its groping for everything that is. Into the novel the author has flung the sweeping spectacle of America, its vastness, crudeness and poetic beauty, which he sings as lustily as any Walt Whitman. Coarseness and grandeur make the symphony. It is a book for Titans, a book to be clutched to the spirit greedily, or to be hated without stint. Thomas Wolfe is a Carolinian, but it would take half a world and more than a century to claim him.

In the very shadow of Thomas Wolfe's achievement, it is the Sampler's unpleasant duty to bring up another Southern author, William Faulkner. Mr. Faulkner's work has brought the new Southern school a large measure of recognition, but has, along with the work of such authors as Erskine Caldwell, largely caused the school to be characterized as "realistic," and very, very "frank," even where frankness has to be dragged in by the heels. At first we were merely angry with Mr. Faulkner for dissipating a fine talent, which alone should command an audience anywhere, on morbid themes of sex excitation. Now his new book, "Pylon" has come out. Mr. Faulkner's writing, if anything, has grown in power and vividness. In this we agree with a nationally known reviewing sheet. But with the reviewer's statement that Mr. Faulkner has in "Pylon" demonstrated his ability to handle a daylight theme, we wish to take issue. The unhealthy conceived followers of air racing who inhabit the book's pages should be ignored, or relegated to the manner heap of distorted imaginations. Their behavior it will do no one any good to read about, much less to discuss.

Opinions Asked Of Employers By Director Of NRA

Acting State Director John J. Corson, 3rd, Anxious To Get Answers.

Virginia employers operating under approved NRA codes are being urged by Acting State NRA Director John J. Corson, 3rd, to express their opinions of their codes to him so that his office may complete a survey of the workings of NRA in Virginia. Corson is anxious to obtain answers to the following questions:

- (1) What increase, if any, has the NRA made in the total number of your employees and in your total monthly payroll? (Exact figures in each instance, where possible).
  - (2) What particular features of your code have proven burdensome and what features have been advantageous?
  - (3) Do you advocate retention of the NRA, and if so, in what form?
- Replies will be treated confidentially and should be addressed to Mr. John J. Corson, 3rd, 936 Central National Bank Bldg., Richmond, Virginia.
- "This survey will, we feel, prove most interesting," Corson stated. "We are particularly interested in hearing from the so-called 'little fellow.' Corson pointed out that he has recently received letters from all over the state 'expressing the belief that the principle of fair play can and should be applied to business.'"

Little Thelma Jane, on hearing the grownups speak of the old-fashioned flowers in her mother's garden, was impressed by the names of the various vines and plants.

Two of her aunts came for a visit. After lunch she asked them to go with her and see the flowers. When they reached the garden, she called out:

"Oh, Aunt Anna, come over here and see the holly-hops; they are in bloom, and over on this side is foxteria."—Indianapolis News.

New And Smart For Summer Sports

WHAT to wear this year for summer sports is always an intriguing question as the Spring blossoms into view. It must be something attractive, comfortable and abreast of the current mode. Here are two examples of golf dresses that will be popular this season. The one at the left is in Challapain, a new spun rayon, in light, soft, wooly texture featured in white and pastel shades. To be noted are its comfortable blousefulness, straight skirt with bag patch pockets and buttoned down the front. The big bow tie in contrasting color gives a pleasing accent to the frock.

New York-Paris Fashions

The other model is in Lambekin, a new pure dye rayon crepe, and is the latest design for active sports. There are deep inverted pleats in skirt and blouse back and the print is entirely washable and to be had in smart new color combinations. In the illustration it's a tiny blossom design on a blossom dull background of green.

The Cook's Nook

Furnished to the women of Princess Anne County by the Virginia Electric and Power Company Home Service Department, Lois Shelton, Director.

We live in the garden spot of fishdom, where they grow bigger, better and more tasty—just now those big famous spring shad are coming up to our back doors on their annual pilgrimage. Because one never seems to have enough Shad suggestions for variety in the home collection of recipes, we would like you to try these:

Shad Roe Maryland

Fry shad roe in butter or fat. Season with salt and pepper. Split without separating entirely, sauté 1 cup mushrooms and fill center of roe, place on toast, top with mushroom sauce. Serve with a ribbon of thick tomato sauce around platter and garnish with 4 to 6 small patty shells filled with new peas, top each with 1 mushroom cap.

Baked Shad (4 to 5 lbs.)
Stuff with dressing made from bread crumbs, adding sufficient salt, pepper, butter and parsley to season and mix with the shad or the eggs. Sew up the shad or tie with string to hold in place. Pour over the shad a little water, spread with butter or lay strings of bacon over it. Bake for 1 to 1 1/2 hours at 400 degrees.

Scalloped Roe (Any Kind)
2 lbs. roe
2 egg yolks
Chopped parsley
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup med. white sauce
Bread crumbs
Salt and pepper

Of course, we use leftover or broken roe, and if you use the whole roe, break it up after parboiling it as directed above. Put a layer in a well-greased baking dish—add half the egg yolks (well beaten), dropping it around over the top of the roe. Next sprinkle a little parsley, salt and pepper and a few drops of lemon juice. Now add a layer of white sauce—repeat, using all ingredients. Note: If only a small amount of roe is on hand, leftover fish (flaked) may be used with it.

Trout Meuniere
Select small trout. Clean and dry them; make 4 or 5 gashes crosswise on each fish; roll in seasoned flour (salt and pepper). Fry on butter or other fat. Serve with sauce meuniere.

Sauce Meuniere
1/4 cup butter
2 tsp. finely chopped parsley
4 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash pepper

Heat butter until slightly brown. Add parsley, lemon juice, salt and pepper; cook 2 minutes; pour over sautéed or fried fish; garnish with lemon slices covered with a dash of paprika.

Fish a la King

4 tsp. butter
3 tsp. flour
1 cup milk
1/4 tsp. paprika
Toast points.
4 tsp. minced pimiento
4 cups cooked (leftover) fish
1 hard-cooked egg
Put butter in pan; melt; add flour; make paste. When smooth add milk all at once and stir constantly. Cook until thick; add salt, paprika, pimiento and fish (flaked). Allow to thoroughly heat. Serve on toast points and garnish with hard-cooked eggs and parsley.

Fillet of Flounder
2 lbs. fillet of flounder
Salt, pepper, bread crumbs and egg
A large flounder will make about 4 filets. Roll up each fillet, season with salt and pepper, dip in slightly-beaten egg (to which 1 tsp. water has been added), then in bread crumbs and try in deep peanut oil (or deep fat) about 6 minutes. Serve with white sauce and crumbled, crisp bacon and garnish with parsley and lemon—or serve with that old standby, tartar sauce.

In this time of trouble and depression it is refreshing to read about honest Abe Lincoln.

Big Sleeves in Vogue

New York-Paris Fashions

PARIS—New models, new materials, and the stunning use of black and white are apparent in the collections of the designers as Spring comes to town. The afternoon gown shown is an example of current smartness, featuring large sleeves now so popular either in the same material as the dress or in contrasting fabrics. It is by Rochas, in black rayon crepe, with billowy sleeves of white tulle printed in black design. The buckle of plastic material with music notes as a motif reproduces the same black and white scheme.

Quicker Action Being Given On Short Term Loans

Aided by Year's Experience, Farm Credit Administration Working Faster.

The cooperatively operated production credit associations, under the Farm Credit Administration, are not only meeting the short-term credit needs of a vastly larger number of farmers but with a year's experience they are now able to make loans in a much shorter time.

As soon as the loans are approved by local loan committees, the notes are sent to the Federal intermediate bank of the district to be discounted. The money obtained from discounting them replenishes the local cash loan fund. These had grown generally throughout the country to the extent that more than 15 per cent of the borrowers in the first half of March were supplied immediately without submission to the intermediate banks.

The latest available figures for all regions where the production credit associations are in operation covered the first two weeks of March, during which 23,335 farmers borrowed a total of $11,912,000 to put in this year's crops. This compared with 14,228 loans made in the last half of February, amounting to $8,338,000. During the first 10 weeks of 1935 nearly 59,700 farmers were supplied with production funds in this manner, or half as many as during all of the year 1934.

The facilities of the production credit associations are gradually being extended throughout the agricultural areas of the country.

play, with the winning pair getting $600 and the losing pair $400. The Cavalier course is in the best shape of its history, according to Bob Tunstall, sports director. Special care was taken last fall, and the comparatively mild winter has served to help the course.

The greens, Mr. Tunstall said, are in mid-winter condition, and the course, although wet, is in decidedly good shape, despite the recent bad weather.

The match was arranged this year to take the place of the Cavalier Open which could not be held because of a conflict with the Augusta National Tournament. It is hoped to resume the Cavalier Open again next year.

Unusual Rainfall May Be Harmful, Experts Declare

So Far, However, Spring
Rains Have Proved Exceedingly Beneficial.

Even though the spring rains have put Virginia soil back to a condition of adequate reserve supplies of moisture for the first time since 1929, specialists in the agricultural departments at V. P. I. fear the unusual rainfall may do more harm than good. They say the weather is not only delaying spray applications in orchards, but is likely to cause severe infestations by fungous diseases which thrive in damp weather and are spread by rain. There are not many plants and trees or fruits and vegetables not subject to one or more fungous diseases.

On the other hand, the rains so far, except for delaying plowing and early seeding, have been beneficial. Permanent pastures; hay, forage and other crops seeded last fall or winter; and trees, many of which have not yet recovered from the 1930 drought, have a brighter future this season than at any time in the last six years. If the wet weather is over by the middle of April, it is believed the damages for farming in general. Some experts claim that these spring downpours are worth from one to two million dollars to this state alone.

Sparkling Basket For Easter

Modern Home Decoration Service

PETER RABBIT—Ambassador of Easter happiness—gives her a preview of his 1935 offering, so mothers, aunts and big sisters can copy it for the children's enjoyment. He posed for this picture all dressed up in a sparkling ruff and riding high on a basket of glittering eggs. His collar is just a strip of gathered Colophane, fastened with a bow of transparent Easter ribbon. Peter's ears twinkle, too, with a pink lining of the same cellulose film, easily cut to shape.

The simple basket acquires distinction with a frill of the clear wrapping. The eggs get their brilliance from coverings of this shining stuff and windings of bright-colored ribbons.

The ribbon should be dampened, first, to make it adhere to the eggs—soak it in water for about a minute. After wetting, run the strip of ribbon through the fingers to remove excess water and then place around a hard-boiled white egg, winding the ribbon back and forth around the egg, stretching it tightly and making sure that no bubbles remain underneath. Leave both ends loose, to work with, and tie in loops, or simply make a tight knot and add a bow on the outside of the all-over wrapping.

Proclamation

Is Issued By Governor Peery

State Sovereign Urges National-Wide Observance Of Child Health Day.

The following proclamation has been issued by Governor Peery:

"WHEREAS, it is essential that we conserve and develop our human resources; and

"WHEREAS, the health and welfare of children develop a finer citizenry; and

"WHEREAS, the responsibility for the well-being of children is the duty of individuals, communities, and the State;

"NOW THEREFORE, I, GEORGE C. PEERY, Governor of Virginia, do urge our citizens to observe a Child Health Day this spring in every community, county and city, that we may unite in developing the highest type of service for Virginia's children.

"GIVEN under my hand and under the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this twenty-first day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and in the one hundred and fifty-ninth year of the Commonwealth."

Governor Peery has shown his interest in the welfare of the children of Virginia by issuing the above Proclamation calling upon the whole State to join the nationwide observance of the day commemorating Child Health.

Virginia has been fortunate in that her governors have for several years passed long enough in their busy life to show their concern for the health and well-being of the children, by proclaiming abroad their desire that the whole State shall devote one day to focusing attention upon this objective. On this day the public will be shown in various attractive ways what has been accomplished by the schools during the past session in promoting the health of the pupils, and all will be given an opportunity to decide what may be accomplished in that respect during the next year by concerted efforts of all the people for the "people"—these children will soon become.

This is one way by which it is hoped that parents and the public generally may be made alive to all the opportunities offered to make Virginia a healthy State through the health of its children. The special points to be emphasized this year are that every child has a right to be made healthy before he enters school, and to be given that protection from communicable diseases, especially diphtheria, which is offered by medical science.

Last year there were 62 county-wide celebrations, 30 white, 32 Negro, and 17 city-wide celebrations, 9 white, 8 Negro; and in addition, there were 1425 individual school celebrations, 771 white, 649 Negro. We have reason to think that the number this year will be at least equally large.

"NOW THEREFORE, I, GEORGE C. PEERY, Governor of Virginia, do urge our citizens to observe a Child Health Day this spring in every community, county and city, that we may unite in developing the highest type of service for Virginia's children.

"GIVEN under my hand and under the lesser seal of the Commonwealth, at Richmond, this twenty-first day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five, and in the one hundred and fifty-ninth year of the Commonwealth."

Governor Peery has shown his interest in the welfare of the children of Virginia by issuing the above Proclamation calling upon the whole State to join the nationwide observance of the day commemorating Child Health.

Virginia has been fortunate in that her governors have for several years passed long enough in their busy life to show their concern for the health and well-being of the children, by proclaiming abroad their desire that the whole State shall devote one day to focusing attention upon this objective. On this day the public will be shown in various attractive ways what has been accomplished by the schools during the past session in promoting the health of the pupils, and all will be given an opportunity to decide what may be accomplished in that respect during the next year by concerted efforts of all the people for the "people"—these children will soon become.

This is one way by which it is hoped that parents and the public generally may be made alive to all the opportunities offered to make Virginia a healthy State through the health of its children. The special points to be emphasized this year are that every child has a right to be made healthy before he enters school, and to be given that protection from communicable diseases, especially diphtheria, which is offered by medical science.

Last year there were 62 county-wide celebrations, 30 white, 32 Negro, and 17 city-wide celebrations, 9 white, 8 Negro; and in addition, there were 1425 individual school celebrations, 771 white, 649 Negro. We have reason to think that the number this year will be at least equally large.

Lynnhaven And Lafayette Nines To Play Sunday

Halted by Rain Last Week, Lynnhaven Opens Season
At Home.

With rain and wet grounds combining to halt their season's opener with Brambleton last Sunday, the Lynnhaven baseball team will make another attempt to get into action this Sunday with the Lafayette club as their opponents. The game will be played on the Lynnhaven diamond, beginning at 3 p. m.

The same lineup as that slated to start last week will undoubtedly get into the game with the exception that Dick Gallup, star outfielder, who had not yet reported for practice last week, is now back in the field and will cavort in one of the new Lynnhaven uniforms on Sunday.

Bill Turner, former Oriole and Lynnhaven ace will be in the box for the locals with Archie Caton, the Mickey Cochran, of Princess Anne County behind the plate.

Manager Boots Ames will be on first base; Emp Land on second; Bookie Allen at short and Byrd Wick on third base, Cecil Caton, Ben Henley and Ray Gimbert will vie for the outfield posts not occupied by Gallup.

Others who will probably see action include Roger Deny, Conrad Shumadine, Ken Cruser, Bill Oliver, Benny Legg, Cecil Sawyer and Frank Oliver.

The Lynnhavenites journey to Ocean View on Easter Sunday but return home the following week to meet an opponent not yet selected.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR HOLIDAYS

Teacher's Meeting and Easter Combine to Give Children 3 Days of Freedom.

School children of Princess Anne County will average one holiday a day for the next three weeks, according to information secured from the office of F. W. Cox, superintendent of county schools.

The schools are closed today (Friday) to allow the teachers and principals to attend the annual meeting of district L. Educational Association, which is being held at the Woodrow Wilson High School in Portsmouth. Last year the meeting was held at the Oceana High school.

On the following Friday, April 19, the annual Easter holidays will begin, and as a result, the schools will be closed on that day, and on Monday, April 22, as well.

Classes will be resumed as usual on Tuesday, April 23.

THE SNAPSHOT GUILD

Easter's Just Around the Corner

"Don't forget the youngsters when you are taking Easter snapshots."

WITH Easter coming on April 21 this year the fair sex will get a "break" and can wear new Easter dresses, suits and coats without shivering from late March or early April winds.

Easter Sunday should also be observed as "Snapshot Sunday" for you will surely want to take several pictures of your mother, wife, sister, daughter or sweetheart in that new Easter outfit.

Here's a chance to again get "environment" in your pictures. The young lady pictured above is in an ideal setting to "show off" her suit (and good looks) and at the same time the result is a most attractive snapshot—typical of springtime.

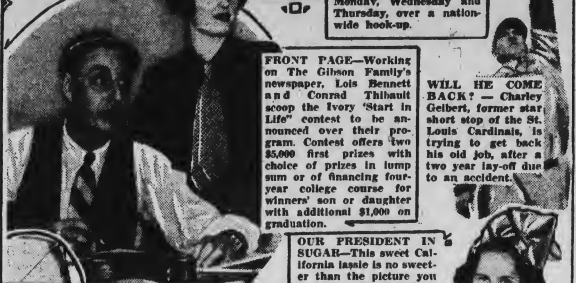

The suit, the girl, or the picture would not be half as attention-compelling if the picture had been taken with the garage door, the dark trunk of a tree or some other unattractive object as a background. And the suggestion for a suitable background for your Easter snapshot might be a church entrance. If your background is attractive and will add to the appearance of your picture use a small aperture or diaphragm opening. This will not only increase your depth of focus but bring out sharper details in the new Easter outfit. If you stop down to

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW (Paquier Va., Democrat)

"Mother's Day" and "Father's Day" have claimed a place among the nation's holidays, now what's the matter with a "Mother-in-Law Day"? Already the city of Amarillo, Texas, is celebrating such an event annually. No need to wait for Congress to take action or the President to issue a proclamation; it's a matter every community can act on individually. Speaking for Warrentonians we do not hesitate to proclaim that no finer mothers-in-law can be found in all the world. They're the salt of the earth, and as such they are entitled to as much recognition as the Mothers and Dads for whom we have special days set aside. For long years slandered by shallow-brained joke-smiths, the mother-in-law has come through with colors flying. She is entitled to all the honors that can possibly be paid her. It's time to get busy and start a new holiday—a "Mother-in-Law Day."

The longer we live the longer we hope to live and the more we learn the less we know we know.

Mileage Hints

THE virtues of cleanliness, long advocated by hygienists and others, are applicable to the automobile as well as to the person. A clean automobile is certain to last longer than one which is allowed to become dirty and soiled.

Most motorists want to keep their cars clean, and most of them do so. Not every one knows just how to clean the interior, however. Here are a few worthwhile tips that every motorist should know.

Leather upholstery should never be cleaned with gasoline. Plain water with a little ammonia will remove the dirt and a little rubbing with a clean woolen or flannel cloth will do the rest.

With upholstery, such as plush, rector and mohair, should always be vacuumed before it is cleaned. Then soap and warm water can be used. Always rub with the pile or nap; never against it. Rinse the sides off with clean water. Wipe with a dry cloth and when the upholstery is dry give it a light brushing. If the upholstery is spotted by a can of soft remover at your service station and remove the spots as soon as possible.

Merely removing dust from cloth upholstery is easy. Take the cushions out of the car and beat them with a carpet beater. Many motorists prefer to take the vacuum cleaner from the house to the garage and "vacuum" the upholstery. Any vacuum cleaner with attachments will do this efficiently.

Clean upholstery will last indefinitely. Dirt is its worst enemy. A little attention to this detail will be more than worth the slight physical effort involved.

In Days Gone By

Ten Years Ago With The Virginia Beach News

Mr. Walter Mills, manager of the New Ocean Casino, Virginia Beach, is the recipient of an invitation from Hon. Edward L. Sawyer, Mayor of Atlantic City, requesting the New Ocean Casino to inaugurate a beauty contest in order that Norfolk's most beautiful girl may represent the city in the National Beauty Tournament to be held in Atlantic City September 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 1935.

Mr. H. Crockett, of Norfolk, purchased from Mr. Geo. Meredith the property on the northeast corner of 17th Street and Holly Avenue, including lot 30x120 and buildings now occupied by Tarr's Barber Shop, Mack's Restaurant, and the Meredith Pharmacy. The consideration is understood to be approximately twenty-five thousand dollars.

During the past two weeks northern capital represented by a New York syndicate, has purchased more than $120,000 worth of Virginia Beach real estate, including 600 feet of ocean front which will be used as a site, it is reported, for a large hotel. Other real estate transactions, some of them participated in by Florida buyers, brings the total amount of the fortnight up to $550,000.

Tentatively identified by Mrs. Samuel D. Fanshawe as the man who made the brutal attack upon her husband at their home on Oceana, early Tuesday morning, Thomas Albright, colored, who gave his age as 18 but appears older, was brought to the city jail this afternoon for safekeeping. The transfer of the prisoner from the Virginia Beach jail, where he had been held since his arrest early this morning was made upon order of Judge B. D. White, of Princess Anne county Circuit Court and to forestall threatened violence. Feeling over the case is running high in the county.

Virginia Beach is experiencing one of the biggest years in its history, and each week sees increasing crowds flocking to the seashore. The beach is threatened with being clogged with traffic because of the narrowness of the boulevard. So great has the traffic congestion become that city officials of Norfolk, officials of Virginia Beach and State authorities are looking about for some means of improving the highway facilities.

Cottages and hotels at the beach are being filled almost to capacity and are doing business far ahead of June, 1934. Excursions are bringing big crowds to the beach every day, and property owners are bestirring themselves to provide facilities for the still greater crowds that are expected as the season progresses.

The Town of Virginia Beach official directory, published in the issue of July 3, 1935, was as follows: mayor, W. R. Ashburn; councilmen, R. E. Johnson, R. H. Bond, B. F. Holland, Herman Drinkwater, S. W. Powell and Walter Maher; town treasurer, W. T. Jarvis; town sergeant, R. T. Rowles; town school board, R. S. Dawson and G. M. Meredith.

Detailed plans for the hotel have been announced, which plans contemplate an eight-story fire-proof structure of Spanish-Italian exterior architecture. Eighty percent of the two hundred and ten rooms will have an ocean exposure and golf course view. The whole building will be surrounded by landscape, designed most attractively.

The hotel will be located on the line of sand dunes that reach from the Princess Anne County Club northward to Cape Henry, giving it a distinct elevation over the surface nearer the water front, making it less susceptible to all of the obnoxious elements sometimes found on the immediate waterfront.

ADD IRELAND

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

When Finland, of all nations owing war debts to the United States, stepped up to the counter at the appointed time and paid up, the welkin rang.

Now comes Ireland with an even more impressive demonstration of a quality which, in later years, is more honored in the breach than in the observance. She proposes to pay back, at $1.35 to $1, the $4,000,000 given, not least, by American citizens, to the cause of the Irish Republic shortly after the war.

BOXING BOUTS TO BE REVIVED

Landon Hilliard to Conduct Fistic Matches in OFA Hall

The amateur boxing bouts featuring Virginia Beach and Princess Anne county youngsters, which attracted so much attention last year will be repeated again this spring, beginning on Friday, April 26, it was learned today.

Landon Hilliard, former V. M. I. athlete who conducted the bouts last year will again be in charge. The bouts will be held at the O. F. A. hall over the Post Office. Started by Hilliard as a training exercise last year, the boxing bouts soon attracted countywide attention. Almost every healthy youngster in the community took part, and besieged Hilliard regularly to let them fight. Winners and losers both were usually rewarded with ice cream.

The fights were handled so well last year, that even mothers went to watch their infant prodigies display their fistic prowess in the squared-ring. Hilliard referred all bouts himself, and made certain that no one suffered any injuries of any kind.

It is planned to run the fights each Friday night throughout the spring.

Attention Please

Mrs. Brown had occasion to reprimand her colored cook rather sharply. The victim looked daggers but said nothing until she reached the kitchen, when her remark could be heard in shrill vituperation. So loud became the clamor that her mistress hurried downstairs.

"Why, Niza," she began in amazement, "who on earth are you talking to?"

"Ah, ain't talkin' to nobody," was the reply, "but Ah'n' kee' who in dis house Ah'n' de me!"

Recipes for EASTER

By BETTY BARCLAY
RECIPES for Easter are not as common as for most of our other holidays. Gold, white and purple seem to be the important colors for Easter. Even the slices of hard boiled egg give us two of these colors.

Here is a recipe for a fruit salad which will carry out this color theme rather well. Such a salad may be accompanied with orange salad straws—see the second recipe.

Fruit Salad in Orange Cups
(Serves 6)
6 large oranges
12 marshmallows, quartered
1 cup dried pineapple
1 cup banana slices
Lettuce

Choose the seedless oranges with deep golden-colored, clean skins. Cut off tops and remove pulp, leaving orange baskets. Slice edges if desired. Combine ingredients. Fill orange cups and arrange on lettuce-covered salad plates. Serve with mayonnaise, which has been blended with 1/2 orange juice.

Orange Salad Straws
1 cup flour
4 tablespoons shortening
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon sugar
Orange juice

Work fast gently into dry ingredients with finger tips or cut in with pastry cutter. Reserve one-fourth of mixture and add orange juice to rest to make the usual consistency of pie dough. Roll out to about 6 inches in diameter. Spread over about one-third the dry mixture reserved at first, fold it in shape of an envelope, roll again and repeat until dry mixture is used up. On last folding spread 1 tablespoon of butter over dough. Cut into strips of any desired shape and width and bake in a quick oven.

Nebraska Taxpayers Rebel Against Hidden Taxes and Increased Rates

Earl Coryell, of Lincoln, Neb., (left) who defied state law by erecting sign (above) informing customers they were paying to per gallon tax on gasoline.

THE LOWDOWN ON TAXES

(Jackson, N. C., News)
It is quite generally agreed that everyone pays taxes in some form or another. The owner of visible property is the hardest hit because he not only pays direct taxes but indirect as well. He is not to be blamed because in recent years he has demanded a replacement plan whereby everyone who shares in the great advantages of living in this country assists in supporting the government, local, states, and nation.

Speaking of indirect taxes, National Investment Transcript gives a summary of some of the methods by which this revenue is derived.

The purchaser of a loaf of bread pays seventeen kinds of taxes when he lays down his coin in exchange for "the staff of life," says this periodical.

If he walks home on leaving the store, he is wearing out shoes which are taxed twenty-three times.

If he rides in an automobile, he is paying forty-two different kinds of taxes.

If he takes a subway or an electric car, the total number of visible taxes which are part of the cost of his fare runs to about fifty-eight.

There is nothing in the world that isn't taxed. The house we live in represents a legion of taxes—running all the way from taxes on standing timber to taxes paid by the store which sold the finishing paint and the manufacturers who produced it. Food, clothing, transportation, entertainment, periodicals, books—the tax bill is a substantial item in their cost to the consumer.

It is obvious that these indirect taxes—which provide the bulk of governmental revenue—fall more heavily on persons of moderate means than on those with higher incomes. A loaf of bread will last a millionaire as long as it will a laborer—and the tax is the same on the loaf each buys. Tax reduction would be the greatest boon the average American could have—a boon that would at once be reflected in more jobs, more purchasing power, more spending for the necessities and luxuries which keep the industrial machine turning.

Muskies In The Making

THE culture of game fish and the constant restocking of sporting waters are integral functions of the Game and Fisheries Department of the Ontario Government. Only the most scientific methods are used. Small and semi-buoyant eggs, such as those of pickerel, perch and muskies are cultured in running water in batteries of jars, such as those shown in the illustration. These methods produce a strong and healthy fry and that is one of the reasons why areas like Lake of the Woods, Cliff Lake and Northern Algonquin Park provide the best muskie fishing in the world and regularly yield specimens like the 32-pound beauty, inset.

GLEN ROCK WILL HAVE BALL CLUB

Coach George Crowling Has 20 Aspirants For Positions; Games Wanted.

The Glen Rock baseball team, with 20 aspirants in the fold, is making preparations to enter the 1935 lists and compete for the Princess Anne county championship.

Already, according to Coach George Crowling, two practice sessions have been held, and despite inclement weather, the squad is expected to round into mid season shape shortly.

Included among the candidates upon whom Coach Crowling bases his hopes and fears this season are Horace Savage, Vernon Bowman, Richard Purdy, John Crowling, Duke Young, and Tommy Hestress, all infielders; and Robert Wilson, Jimmy Bodnor, Durward Aydtette, Edward Aydtette, Charlie Grandville and Edward Crain, outfielders.

Catchers on the squad include John Ambrose and Joseph Davis while the hurling staff will be selected from Hubert Boush, John Hatfield and Dorsey White.

Cal Parron will act as business manager and George Crowling as coach. New uniforms and equipment will be secured for the season.

Manager Parron and Coach Crowling are now busy arranging a schedule for the season. Those desiring games may secure them by calling Mr. Crowling at Juniper 4321.

What Vocation Shall My Boy Choose?

By B. B. Mahon,
Principal, School of Air Conditioning, International Correspondence Schools.

We live in a changing world. Opportunities for success in life will differ from those in the past. A boy's wise choice of his life work may do much to determine success or failure. How shall he choose?

The Field of Air Conditioning

AIR CONDITIONING offers a widening field for the young man soon to embark upon his career. Conditioned air is making rapid headway in the home. It is increasingly important in theatres, office buildings, hotels and on the railroads. It is becoming essential to efficient operation in many factories.

A new and growing industry offers obvious advantages. As the industry grows the young man who equips himself to take advantage of its opportunities grows with it. In air conditioning there is today an increasing demand for those who possess the ability to specify and install the proper equipment for the particular job.

The demand is an exacting one. The specifications differ with every type of structure and with every purpose for which the conditioned air is required. Practical experience and technical knowledge are both needed by those who would qualify as experts in the new industry.

Air conditioning is closely allied with the heating and ventilating field. Many of those who are successful today have obtained valuable practical experience while serving their apprenticeship with a heating and ventilating contractor; acquiring their technical knowledge by study in spare time. Others have first acquired the technical knowledge at college, and then have turned to the practical application of it.

Both methods are good. The choice usually depends on family or personal circumstances.

Pupils of the seventh grade of Court House school visited the News plant Tuesday to learn something of newspaper work. The pupils, who were about eighteen in number, were accompanied by their teacher, Frank Pentress and Miss Louise Luxford, elementary supervisor of the Princess Anne schools.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. The poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, irritable and no good for anything. What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our jaws cannot digest it. What is the idea here? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless a little of it is lost every day, our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated. It is a sure sign of decay in our bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped (tongue) don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently stir the liver to get your bile juices. But if "something better" is offered you, don't let it go. It may be a solemn (sore) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and sends the poison into your blood. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢. ©1934 C.M.C.O.

SPINACH CROP HERE IS LARGE

Princess Anne County Farmers Expected to Net $300,000 From 1935 Harvest.

Spinach, that health-giving vegetable which Popeye, strong man of the cartoons, says is the foundation of all his strength may also prove to be the foundation of prosperity for Princess Anne county farmers this year.

With spinach prices in New York now $1.50 a bushel, local farmers seem destined to clean up unless some unforeseen price drop occurs.

Approximately 200,000 bushels of spinach will be harvested in the county in the next few weeks and the majority of it will be immediately shipped to the northern markets, where the demand is now so great.

If prices remain steady, and no sudden frost arrives to blight the spinach, county farmers should have realized $300,000 before the first of June.

Proper Pastures Require Planning Of Fertilization

Virginia Farmer Can Reap Harvest in Protein and Beef by Proper Care.

Protein and beef are both high in price this season, and the proper fertilization of pastures will more than ever repay Virginia and West Virginia farmers, points out an Agricultural Company. A planned program for grazing management, has been found to iron out the "humps" in the availability of feed required by the herd, providing grazing consistently throughout the season.

Efficient pasture management requires fertilization of half acre per cow to insure grazing. This will provide extra early grazing before the unfertilized pasture is ready, and it will also provide additional late spring or early summer pasturage. After the application of fertilizer, the management of the grazing becomes a most important factor. If the herd is allowed to graze without control, the cows should be turned on the fertilized grass when it has reached a height of four to eight inches.

It is important to watch the growth of both the fertilized and unfertilized pastures so that the cows can be turned on either before the grass becomes too old to make the best grazing. By the plan outlined, it is possible to secure grazing on the fertilized pasture ten to fifteen days earlier than is ordinarily obtained on unfertilized grass. After the unfertilized grass has been grazed down to the safe limit, the fertilized grass will provide a further period of grazing. Meanwhile, cheap grazing has been substituted for expensive barn feeding.

This provides the herd with sufficient feed until midsummer, when supplementary pasturage must be provided. If part of the hay field is mowed early in the season and top-dressed with a complete fertilizer, there will be a heavy aftermath which will provide several weeks of good grazing. Sweet clover, sown very early, makes a satisfactory pasture for several weeks in August and early autumn, and finally the second growth on the unfertilized hay land will furnish additional late grazing.

The Virginia Beach Lions Club will hold their second dance of the year on Saturday night in the Peacock ballroom of Seaside Park. The Lions opened their season with a dinner dance at the Princess Anne Country Club and were so pleased with its success that they decided to hold this dance on Saturday instead of their regular semi-monthly meeting.

Earl Bennett and his Royal Commanders have been engaged to furnish the music for the occasion, while in addition, a special floor show is now being arranged. Reginald Whitehurst, president of the Club is in direct charge of the committee which arranged the dance, and was assisted by members of the club.

stated, but Mrs. Ora Garner, of Richmond, has been secured as hostess.

The hotel plans to open on Saturday, April 20, and to remain open during the entire year hereafter.

Repairs and renovations are being completed this week in preparation for the opening. Although the clientele of the Pinewood, has been mostly Jewish in the past, Mr. Guzy plans to change that somewhat this year. He has no intention, however, of discouraging Jewish trade, since, he says, he has found them to be very desirable guests. He wishes however to have a more diversified clientele in the future.

A complete list of convention meetings scheduled for the hotel, and summer plans will be announced later.

Convention Plans Will Be Discussed

Glorify Your Gift of Easter Flowers

Modern Home Decoration Service
WHEN you send a lovely plant as an Easter gift, don't spoil the effect with an ugly pot. It takes but a few minutes to make an ordinary clay pot as gay as the one shown in the picture. A covering of sparkling cellophane and a splash of bow of crystal-clear ribbon bring it into harmony with the spring blossoms.

Cut a square of transparent wrapping 20 by 20 inches, place the pot in the center of the square and mold the square into shape around the pot with half-inch plants secured at the top with bits of Scotch tape. Tie the crisp cellophane film around the stems of the plant and allow it to flare out in points. Then encircle the rim of the pot with transparent ribbon, tying it firmly and leaving short ends. The many-looped bow is made separately and fastened to these ends with a double knot. There's an extra touch of artistry in the design of the ribbon. It has a flower-pot motif, in repeat pattern—absolutely perfect for the purpose.

Just Like Mother

No little girl is well dressed these days without her hand bag just like the one that mother carries. This little has a bag of red Pyralis with a top handle and pouch styling. It is lined in a rayon taffeta and has its own little color purse and mirror. This is not only a pretty bag, but a practical one as well for it can be kept clean by simply wiping it with a damp cloth. Some bags come in white, navy, or brown but the red one goes best with the little lady's pale peach pink dress with its white pique trim.

Gasoline Price Higher At Beach

Norfolk, but wholesalers have remained adamant to date, saying that the price cannot be lowered until all concerns agree to do so. One of the largest of the concerns, it is said, which was the first to raise its price, refuses to lower the price.

Rumors have reached here that the price of gasoline in Norfolk will be cut still further during the latter part of next week, but whether this price change will affect Virginia Beach or not has not been learned.

The price of gasoline at Virginia Beach was half a cent higher than in Norfolk two years ago, but a flood of protests caused the price to remain the same during the past two summers. The prospects of a good summer is believed to be the reason for the increase this year.

POLITICAL POT STARTS TO BOIL AS CANDIDATES BECOME KNOWN

No Office Seekers Have Officially Filed For Candidacy As Yet.

KELLAM AND DAVIS UNOPOSED SO FAR

Democratic Executive Committee To Hold First Meeting In May.

The fire beneath Princess Anne county's political pot has been lit, and although no candidates have as yet filed official notice of their aspirations for office, the contents of the pot have already begun to bubble slightly.

With the Democratic primary set for August 6, candidates have until early in June to file their official notice of candidacy. In fact the county Democratic Executive committee, of which Floyd Kellam is chairman, has not yet held its organizational meeting to draw up plans for the campaign. Mr. Kellam plans to hold this meeting in the first two weeks of May, the date to be announced later.

However, in most cases, candidates for the various offices have already publicly avowed their intention of participating in the campaign, and those in the know can glubly recite the list of candidates who will take prominent parts in the election.

Offices to be contested this year will include that of the County Clerk of Court, county treasurer, commissioner of revenue, sheriff, commonwealth's attorney, all five places on the Board of Supervisors, and the county representative to the legislature.

So far, no candidates have declared themselves in the field as candidates for representative to the State Legislature, an office now held by Harry B. Davis, of Kempsville, or as candidates for county treasurer, now held by Sidney Kellam, of Virginia Beach.

J. W. Woodhouse, of Lynnhaven, who for the past 16 years has served as clerk of the county court, and for eight years prior to that was a deputy in the same office will be opposed this year by William Hudgins, of Kempsville, who at present is a member of the Board of Supervisors on the Kempsville district.

John Sparrow, of Virginia Beach, the present Commissioner of Revenue, will have R. W. Bonner, of Oceana, as his opponent this year, rumors state. J. C. Litchfield, sheriff of the county for the past three years, will run for re-election this year of course. He will be opposed by Vernon Etheridge, of Creeds, a prominent candidate in the last election, and Roland Halstead, of Munden Point.

Hardy Chosen As Finance Officer Of Legion Post

Rising Vote of Thanks Given A. J. Kodis, Retired Official, by Post.

E. M. Hardy was elected finance officer of the Princess Anne Post 113, American Legion, at the regular meeting of that organization held at the Post headquarters at Virginia Beach on Tuesday night.

Mr. Hardy will succeed A. J. Kodis who resigned because of business reasons. The Post gave Mr. Kodis a rising vote of thanks in appreciation of his efforts and work in their behalf.

Mr. Hardy and Captain Myers were appointed as a committee of two to audit Mr. Kodis' books. Vice commander Henry Woodhouse who presided at the meeting, in the absence of Commander Lawrence Lockwood made the appointment.

Another feature of the meeting was the report on membership made by Adjutant Clarence Hayman who showed that the Post had 72 members in good standing this year as compared with 63 at the same time last year.

Total Liquor Sales Here $123,000 But Virginia Beach to Get Only $800

ABC Board Figures Show Local Store Sold $123,000 Worth Of Whiskey In Ten Months, Clearing Profit of Approximately $33,000.

The Virginia Beach town council at its regular May meeting to be held on Monday, May 6, will consider the adoption of a resolution urging Harry B. Davis, representative to the State legislature from this county to present a bill at the next session of the General Assembly amending the present Alcoholic Beverage Control Act, so that the profits will be divided among localities according to the sales of their respective stores, rather than according to population as at present.

Councilman Roy Barnes, announced this week that he would bring the matter before the council, after a survey of newly released figures showed that Beach would receive $1,000 as its share of the profit of the first 10 months, although its lone store has reported sales totalling $123,172.75, and a profit of approximately $33,000.

The figures, which were sent to the Virginia Beach News by A. B. Clarke, director of the division of statistics of the ABC Board, showed gross receipts for the local store as $123,172.75.

Major S. Heth Tyler, chairman of the board, in figures released to the press late in March stated that total sales from liquor stores and warehouses $9,400,000. Of this he said, approximately 26 per cent, or $3,120,000 is profit.

COUNTY NURSE HODGES NAMED FIXES DATES FOR ROUND-UP

Annual Spring Health Inspection Of School Children To Be Held Shortly.

Dates have been fixed for the annual spring health roundup for children of pre-school age in Princess Anne County. Miss Gertrude Lovell, County nurse announced today.

Those dates already selected follow: Bayside School—April 18, 1 p.m. Oceanic School—April 25, 1 p.m. Nimmo (colored)—April 29, 3 p.m.

Pinney Grove (colored)—April 30, 3 p.m. Blackwa—May 2, 1 p.m. Charley—May 6, 1 p.m. Virginia Beach—May 7, 3 p.m. Kempsville—May 8, 2 p.m. Creeds—May 13, 1 p.m.

The date for the round-up at the Princess Anne Courthouse School has not yet been set.

The annual round-up is conducted to enable those children planning to enter school in the fall to check on their physical defects so that they may be in good health for the opening of school.

The inspection is being made by Miss Lovell, whose tests include weighing, measuring, testing of eyesight and hearing. These tests, of course, are only a preliminary to the child's visit to the family physician, which should take place shortly after the inspection, so that all defects might be corrected in time to give the child a fair start in school.

The good work of the annual round-up and its results may be shown by the following letter received last fall by Mrs. W. E. Mosmann, president of the Kempsville Parent Teacher Association from Miss Lydia M. Stewart, state summer round-up chairman of the Co-operative Education Association:

"My Dear Mrs. Mosmann: "Thank you so much for your Summer Round-up report. I am so glad you carried this work and got your report in time. Princess Anne County has done splendid work this year and we are mighty proud of the people in the Parent-Teacher Associations. You had so many fine (Continued on Page Eight)

Fair Weather Easter Sunday

Easter Sunday will be a fair day, although slightly chilly, if the prediction made today by John J. Murphy, Norfolk meteorologist, proves true.

The sun will be shining, he told the News, but the day will be slightly chilly, with the mercury wavering between 60 and 65. There will, however, be a slight rainfall between Thursday and Saturday.

The snow which fell upon Princess Anne county and surrounding territory on Tuesday, set an all time record. Mr. Murphy said. It is the first time snow has fallen in this vicinity as late as April 16.

ROOSEVELT NOT EXPECTED HERE FOR PILGRIMAGE

President Probably Will Not Come, Mrs. Naylor Says; Other Notables Expected.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was invited to attend the annual Cape Henry pilgrimage exercises on Friday, April 26, will very probably refuse that invitation.

Mrs. Franz Naylor, speaker of the Assembly of Tidewater Women, and chairman of the general pilgrimage committee told the Virginia Beach News today.

Mrs. Naylor has just returned from Washington where she conferred with various officials, and her announcement today came as a result of this trip. In the event, the President, does not come, she told the News the dedication address will be delivered by Governor George C. Peery, of Virginia.

The salute of guns will consist of 19 shots for the President instead of 21 for the President.

However, despite the fact that the President may not be here, the committee expects one of the most distinguished delegations ever to attend the annual affair.

Governors of the thirteen original colonies have been invited, and in addition to Governor Peery, of Massachusetts, already signified his intention of coming, while governors of four other states have stated that they will be here if possible.

None of the other governors have replied.

Other guests expected to be present include Secretary of War George D. A. number of Senators.

Modern Laundry To Open Plant Here Next Week

Virginia Beach Residents To Be Given Opportunity To Inspect Plant.

Residents of Virginia Beach will be given an opportunity to inspect the town's newest industry, the Snow White Laundry, Inc., located at Seventeenth street and Baltic avenue, which expects to open for business the first of next week.

C. M. Enright, manager of the plant, and vice president of the corporation, announced today that the new plant with its $20,000 worth of new modern machinery will be open for inspection throughout the whole of next week.

The new laundry corporation is headed by Mrs. B. Van Vliederveen, operator of the Virginia Family Laundry in Norfolk. Mr. Enright will have complete charge of the Virginia Beach plant however.

The plant expects to employ from 15 to 18 people at the start and hopes to increase that number as business picks up. In the beginning, of course, some of the employees will have to be imported from Norfolk to train the new workers, but as soon as the local employees become trained it is planned to use all Virginia Beach help, so that the profits will be kept in Virginia Beach.

The plant is equipped to handle all types of wet wash and finish work and will fill a long needed want at the Beach.

SPRING DANCES AT SEASIDE PARK BEGIN SATURDAY

High Hatters to Furnish Music For Series of Dances At Seaside Park.

The first of a series of spring dances to be held at the Seaside Park Ballroom, Seaside Park, will be held Saturday night. Similar dances will be held each Saturday until the summer opening of the ballroom on Memorial Day.

The High Hatters, well-known local orchestra which features Babe Pearson as vocalist, will furnish the music for these spring dances, it was announced. All of the Saturday night spring dances will be break dances.

Plans for the summer season at Seaside Park have not yet been completed. K. C. Jerry, Gerald, athletic instructor at Duke University last year, will manage it this season, succeeding Joe Nesbitt, who will not return.

Mr. Gerard is still at Durham, but plans to reach the Beach in ample time to make preparations for the opening of the season.

Dave Shelburn, Clinton Woodhouse and Horace Blufford are operating the park again this year, and are busy now supervising the completion of a number of improvements, both to the dance hall and to the concession stands.

The orchestras for the summer season have not yet been selected. It is planned to have several appear here during the summer, and in addition to have one or two of the orchestras in the country appear here for one night stands.

Cavalier Hunt Club Already Repaired

The newly decorated Hunt Club at the Cavalier Hotel which was damaged by fire last week, has been completely reconditioned and will be ready for another opening this week-end.

Fire gutted the place early last Thursday morning, but a crew of workmen were immediately sent down and have restored the place in the remarkable time of one week. Day and night labor was required to accomplish this feat.

Town Fires Final Blast At County In Annexation Case

Letter Addressed to Residents of Contemplated Annexed Area Refutes Alleged "Misleading Information Disseminated by Representatives of County."

THREE DAY HEARING SCHEDULED TO BEGIN AT PRINCESS ANNE COURT HOUSE TUESDAY

Three Judges to Preside During Trial; Paul Ackins and Braden Vandevanter to Represent County; Willard R. Ashburn to Serve As Town's Attorney.

With the annexation trial scheduled to start next Tuesday, the town of Virginia Beach primed its big guns today and fired a final blast in the direction of Princess Anne county.

This blast, in the form of a letter addressed to the property owners in the territory for which annexation to the town of Virginia Beach is contemplated, was written to refute what the letter called "misleading information disseminated by representatives of the County government, both through the medium of a letter and by personal calls on the property owners."

The letter outlined a number of "plain truths" which, it said, the Mayor and the Town council feel are in order. These included the statements that the proposal to annex did not originate with town officials and that the annexation is of little or no immediate benefit to the Town.

MORE THAN 800 EXPECTED HERE FOR CONVENTION

Traffic Club Meeting in May Expected to Fill All Hotels On Beach.

Although the summer season is not expected to open officially until Memorial Day, every cottage and hotel on the Beach which is already open is expected to be filled to capacity on May 7 and 8 when the annual spring meeting of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America is to be held here with more than 800 delegates from all parts of the country in attendance.

The Cavalier Hotel will be the headquarters for the convention and the majority of the meetings will be held there, but the overflow will undoubtedly fill all other hotels and cottages available.

When the convention was first scheduled it was believed that the Cavalier would be able to accommodate all of them, but the fame of Virginia Beach proved so great that reservations have been pouring in ever since, and the delegation now will undoubtedly pass the 800 mark. One single club, the New York City club, will send a delegation of 300 members here in a body, and other clubs are planning to send large delegations.

The Norfolk-Portsmouth traffic club, of which James M. White is president will be the host club, and the general convention committee is headed by L. G. Hogshire who is working with Fairfield Hodges, director of the Convention Bureau of the Norfolk Association of Commerce. One of the best things already accomplished by the committee and the Association of Commerce, is the printing and distribution of 5000 illustrated folders depicting the beauties of Virginia Beach, and outlining the entertainment program for the convention which includes three dances, a banquet, several lunches, a golf tournament, an oyster roast, a barbecue and a sight seeing trip. These folders have been distributed to Traffic Clubs all over the country and are believed to be directly responsible for the large delegation expected.

The complete program for the convention has not yet been completed, but the committee heads and committee members who are arranging all of the various details follow:

General chairman, L. G. Hogshire; vice chairman, H. V. C. Wade; secretary, C. H. Chapman; treasurer, L. B. Woody.

Finance committee: John A. Moore, chairman; J. C. Neils, C. R. Capps, R. F. Williams, R. B. Cooke, A. E. Porter, John T. Campbell, J. E. Harper, S. M. Adair, H. C. Weller and George R. Loyall.

Transportation committee: F. H. Wilson, chairman; B. H. Fowler, J. G. Boasing, C. E. Myers, E. (Continued on Page Eight)

Wet Weather May Prove Detrimental To Strawberries

Short Crop Expected This Year; Fruit Ready For Picking About May 12.

April's 16 days of rain and snow may prove to be a combination blessing and curse to strawberry growers of Princess Anne county. The peculiar and very wet weather has proved fatal to a portion of the crop and as a result, the county will have a short crop to market this year.

By the same token, however, this same short crop, will create a scarcity, which is expected to raise the price of the fruit, and as a result, the strawberry farmers may make more from the short crop than they would from a larger crop.

Strawberries are expected to be ready for picking about May 12, when John Day, of the Broad Bay farm, near London Bridge is the outstanding strawberry farmer in the county.

THE FUTURE OF THE BEACH

Last week's issue of the Virginia Beach News carried news of coming events which should serve to make Virginia Beach—the outstanding resort on the Atlantic seaboard.

First and foremost was the story which told of the plans made by a Portsmouth man, H. B. Lasing, to construct a moving picture studio at Virginia Beach. These plans have already been completed, the News has learned, and work on the project is expected to start before the summer ends.

There is hardly any need for attempting to describe the results and profits which the Beach would undoubtedly derive from the establishment of such a studio.

The first studio, of course, will attract others, and in a short period of time, the Beach would become an East Coast Hollywood, drawing visitors and tourists from all parts of the country at ALL times of the year.

The second news story told of a plan which has not yet been worked out entirely, but which sounds more practical to the Beach resident than the moving picture project.

A party of prominent Beach residents, the News said in its story, have been discussing plans to construct a yacht basin here, and even now are dickering with the government in an attempt to obtain a Federal loan for this purpose.

Several proposed sites for the basin have been suggested, but the most practical and the one which will ultimately be chosen is the Lynnhaven Bay and Inlet site.

Here, it will be pointed out, by dredging and constructing a breakwater, can be established a yacht basin, capable, not only of accommodating yachts of all sizes, but Coast Guard vessels, and government vessels necessary for the protection of the Virginia coast.

Here too, there is no need to described the benefits to be derived by the beach. Frank C. True, New York newspaperman, who made a special trip here to discover if rumors concerning the basin were true, waxed enthusiastic in describing its possibilities.

Two thousand yachts travel south to Miami each fall and north to New York each spring, he told the News. All of these vessels, with their wealthy occupants, would make Virginia Beach one of their stopping points. This of course would serve to lengthen the season here by at least 3 weeks on each end.

Secondly many of these same yachtsmen would spend a part of the regular season at the Beach, if there were proper accommodations for their yachts. This, of course, he said, would add both quantity and quality to Virginia Beach's annual visitors.

Both of these proposed projects as described in the News last week are worthy ones. The Virginia Beach News urges every resident of this vicinity to join with the News in giving the supporters of these projects every possible aid.

A SHORT WAR

While Europe discusses possibilities of a war, Virginia Beach motorists have just successfully completed a war of its own. With spring, like the elusive prosperity, just around the corner gasoline wholesalers who operate out of the City of Norfolk, glanced casually in the direction of Virginia Beach, and decided to capitalize on the good season expected here.

Therefore while the price of gasoline in Norfolk dropped slightly, the price of gasoline at Virginia Beach was raised so that it was half a cent higher than the city price.

But Virginia Beach retailers, motorists and the Virginia Beach News joined in a howl of protest. They pointed out that it was only necessary to drive as far as London Bridge to buy gas at the cheaper price; that the only ones to suffer by the increase would be the Beach distributors who would lose business, and the reputation of the Beach when tourists told of the increase after reaching their respective homes.

They pointed out also that a similar policy had been dropped by wholesalers two years ago, after long, loud and lengthy squawks had emanated from this vicinity.

The gasoline wholesalers gazed at the handwriting on the wall and interpreted it correctly.

The price of gasoline at the Beach was lowered to equal that of the city.

The war is over.

DOGWOOD AND CHERRY BLOSSOMS

Washington, D. C., the nation's capital, is enjoying its boom season at present, as tourists from all over these United States flock in to view the famed beauty of the Japanese cherry blossom.

Par be it from us to cast glances of envy at our capital city, or to throw slurs—reminis in the direction of its Oriental blossoms, but, nevertheless, we have faint recollections of a fable read in our not too distant childhood days, which told of the man who searched all over the world seeking happiness, and finally found it in his own backyard.

Not that we have any cherry blossoms in our own backyard of Princess Anne county. Not any Japanese cherry blossoms at any rate.

But we have something, which to our prosaic eye, is just as beautiful and just as fragrant.

We refer, of course to the dogwood, which even now is blooming in all its glory.

The Garden Club of Virginia has designated a special committee, headed by Mrs. E. Griffith Dodson, of Norfolk, to assist in the planting and preservation of dogwood. This committee is now conducting a campaign in an attempt to plant "a million dogwood by 1935."

The campaign closes on May 1. The Virginia Beach News eagerly awaits the result, hoping, of course, that the campaign will prove successful, so that dogwood blossoms will add to Virginia's beauty each year.

PLAY BALL

This alleged editorial is being written on Tuesday.

As we sit down to write this, 1,763,421 other editors and sports editors are sitting down at their respective typewriters, and 1,763,421 fingers are reaching for the letter P on their keyboard, preparing to pick out their lead paragraph, thusly—

Play Ball.

For today, big league baseball gets under way again. In eight stadiums in eight major cities, eight well known bigwigs will toss eight, shiny new baseballs into the field, and sixteen teams will begin the long long grind which leads to the World Series, they hope.

Today, these same 1,763,421 typewriter pounders are calling attention to the fact that there are changes this year; that the mighty Babe has discarded the Yankee uniform he has worn so many years and has, donned the uniform of the Boston Braves, that various new managers have taken over helm to save sinking ships, and that the Dean boys, Dizzy and Daffy are in good shape to win ball games.

Incidentally, of course, these same editors are picking winners for the coming year, and we pause long enough to join them by pointing a shining finger of doom at the American League and Bill Terry's Giants in the National.

And thus, with one duty done, we pause to reflect that the same duty might be necessary next week, when the Piedmont League gets into action.

And so to forestall that painful duty, we take this opportunity to comment on the high type of baseball which those of us who journey to Norfolk or Portsmouth may see; to felicitate Portsmouth and Mr. Frank Lawrence for their return to organized baseball, and to very cautiously whisper that we believe Mr. Bill Skiff and his new roster of Norfolk Tars will again win the Piedmont pennant.

WHY?

"To borrow an expression from Will Rogers, 'all we know is what we read in the papers.'"

And we see by the papers that an average of $4.63 was spent upon each relief case in Princess Anne county during the month of February.

Offhand, we wouldn't know whether this is a large sum, or a small sum—but when we read still further to see that only three other communities in the state paid as little as that during the same month, we begin to wonder. Especially when we note that in all three of these incidents, the number of relief cases was far less than in this county.

Princess Anne had 177 relief cases to take care of. Westmoreland had a similar number and applied $9.84 cents to each of them. Fredericksburg had only 152 cases and spent $19.46 on each of them, the highest amount paid in the state.

We don't know the reason for this great discrepancy. Perhaps some officials of the Virginia Emergency Relief Association can give what they call a "logical explanation."

But we do know that relief cases in Princess Anne are as deserving as any in the state, and should be treated as well. We hope and trust that next month's report will show a better record.

Book Sampler

One of our books today concerns that American manifestation, the NRA; the other two take up matters on a grander scale of world importance.

The first book, "The Blue Eagle from Egg to Earth," gives the public an opportunity to view the NRA from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's angle. No one can be long in doubt what that angle is. The book is a violent attempt on the General's part to outline what he calls "the real doctrine of NRA;" to answer all the charges against it; and to explain why it was not successful. In so doing, unfortunately, the upholder of the doctrine at times contradicts himself. For some reason, certain critics choose to ignore the book. Popular opinion, however, labels it as worth reading if you're interested in the General's side of the issue—or if you are interested in sniping at the General's opinions.

The other two books, "The State in Theory and Practice" by Harold J. Laski, and "Farewell to Revolution" by Everett Dean Martin, deal with subjects that have been studied for a number of years by the authors. Professor Laski believes, and gives convincing arguments, that economic equality is inevitable and that the days of capitalism are numbered. Whether a change of this sort can be made peacefully, he does not say, but he admits that the chances for a non-violent revolution are better where political equality exists. "Farewell to Revolution" follows the other book naturally. In it Professor Martin attempts to point out that revolution accomplish "nothing, and insists that the motives of revolutions never coincide with the professed beliefs of revolutionists, but are outgrowths of less altruistic desires. He cites ten revolutions as examples and ends by showing them all to be stereotyped affairs. This book only touches on a very deep subject, but is nevertheless the more readable of the two.

These books may be borrowed from the Extension Division, University, Virginia.

Poetry

FINALLY (From The Yale Review)

I shall begin to write true
When I have ceased to care;
When my pride is an old shoe
By a dark stair.

Then I shall say what never
I have dared to say;
And I shall not be clever,
And not gay.

And I shall have forgotten then
How to punctuate,
How to spell, or count ten . . .
It will be too late

For culture, for technique,
Or anything.
But the hate I must speak
And the love sing.

LEE WILSON DODD

ELSA MOURNS FOR LOWENGRIN
(From Harper's Magazine)

Perhaps you'd think,
After that parting on the brink,
The burst of music and the flash
Of wings,

She would not love the river any more;
But girls were always curious things;
She still would sit for hours on The shore.

Often the earliest fisher would Find her already there,
And wonder that a princess should Be anywhere.

Except in bed,
And many a passing boatman Bowed his head
And breathed a prayer.

Thinking she was a mermaid,
from her hair.

And when one day
A little goose-girl drove her flock that way

And the tall leader, bolder than the rest,
Slipped through the sedge
And the high reeds and launched his snowy breast

There in the river's edge,
She heard a scream
And saw the willow branches part
And saw a lady clung at her heart;

Yet there was nothing but the gleam
Of those white feathers on the stream.

SHINING RISK
(From Voices)

Cassandra sits beside my gate,
Subliminal and sure,
And plies me with her caveat
Against the insecure.

Discretion crossed with unbelief
Such luteal employs
That I have lost in shining risk
A hundred towered Troys.

AFTER FORTY
(From The Chicago Tribune)

After forty a woman needs
Some of philosophy's helpful creeds.

She knows that she hasn't an earthly chance
To emulate twenty in any dance:
And her mirror remarks in a horrid tone—

"My dear, you will have to let beige alone!"
It is some little comfort if she can say—

"I never liked dancing and beige anyway."
But if she can forswear her mirror and look

With joy at a fireside and a book, She's learned a lot, and some day she'll find
That happiness is a state of mind.
But after forty the sledding's tough.

Until she can learn that enough's enough!

MARJORIE F. W.

OF CONTENTED MEN
(From Voices)

The unpossessed of longing,
The sterile of desire,
Are ignorant of rapture
And alien to fire.

No urge impels their venture
Beyond the bounds of night.
They are the gulls of beauty,
The cuckolds of delight.

RALPH FRIEDRICH

INCIDENT OF CREATION
(From The Chicago Tribune)

When God made the stars, one broke—Left a shining ray
On his fingers where it burned
All the seventh day.

Then he sighed and molded man
From Euphrates sands,
In a mist hung silver dawn—
Star-dust on his hands.

As Others See It

THE GREATEST HOLDING COMPANY
(The Industrial Review)

The political drive is now on to destroy the power and light holding companies by means of stranglehold. Whether the same crucifying laws will apply to holding companies for banks, food production, newspapers, automobiles and every line of large business, is not clear.

If the politicians want to completely destroy the confidence of the investor and hold up recovery indefinitely, they are going about it in the right way.

Holding companies have been responsible for great industrial development in our country.

The United States Government is the biggest holding company in the world. It stands in the same position toward the 48 states as does an electric holding company that has an interest in 48 operating companies.

The United States Government finances its operations through borrowings, bonds and note issues, subscribed to by the taxpayers (stockholders) of the various states and, in turn, renders services to most states that they could not provide for themselves.

An electric holding company does the same thing for its operating companies—it marshals financial resources and renders services which small, isolated operating companies could not provide for themselves.

Today the Government, in duplicating power development in an uncalculated manner, is "pyramiding" the power supply of the nation with taxpayers' funds, in a way that would be condemned unqualifiedly if private electric holding companies dissipated stockholders' money in such a wasteful manner.

The life savings of countless thousands of stockholders in electric properties will be ruined if the present political program against private enterprise in the electric industry, is continued. Billions of tax funds will be swallowed in the maw of political experiments.

Politicians who hurl charges of pyramiding at private holding companies, had better look to their own pyramiding activities with public funds, in the name of Government.

Private enterprise in the United States faces a fight to the finish to save itself from complete socialization in the next ten years. And when one speaks of private enterprise, that means the private citizen—the man who runs a business by himself, or the one who employs ten or ten thousand men. Government ownership of any industry destroys the rights of individuals to do business.

These facts are fundamental. They may be camouflaged under various political hues, but they remain the same—an individual cannot compete with government in business, once it enters a field of activity.

The power question is merely an incident in the economic trend that is carrying our country closer and closer to the regimentation programs of Russia and Germany where the individual is merely a cog in the great governmental machine.

DISCRIMINATION AGAINST WOMEN
(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The Illinois Legislature should support Gov. Homer in his request for a statute extending to women the right to act as jurors. When women serve in Congress, on the Federal bench and in the Diplomatic Corps, it is nothing short of unreasonable to bar them from jury service, as Missouri and Illinois do. As to public opinion in our neighbor State, there is no doubt. Four years ago, the Illinois Legislature passed the measure whose re-enactment Gov. Homer now urges. Had the legislators stopped with that, Illinois would now be among the States with feminine jurors. But they went on to make the effectiveness of the act dependent on a popular referendum. When the question got to the Illinois Supreme Court, that tribunal took no notice of the fact that the voters subsequently had upheld this extension of women's rights, but ruled that the Legislature erred when it provided for a referendum. In short, the court concerned itself with a technicality in procedure and not with the wisdom of the statute. This being the case, the proper course of the members of the Illinois Legislature is clearly marked out for them. We hope they will act accordingly and that the example will not be lost on Missouri.

Another Public Enemy!

EVERY TON OF IMPORTED STEEL TAKES $25 OUT OF AN AMERICAN PAY ENVELOPE.

HIT-AND-RUN DRIVERS
(The Radford News Journal)

There is likely to be general agreement with Governor Peery's attack on hit-and-run drivers made after the death toll from this cause had reached eight in the period of a week. The toll from automobile accidents is already too high without adding to that condition the possibility of escaping responsibility and inflicting heavier injuries on victims because of neglect.

The probable way out lies in stricter law enforcement. It is doubtful if the addition of heavier penalties in the statute books would halt the practice. Cooperation on the part of citizens will be of material aid in discovering drivers who have left the scene of accident without reporting.

Any well-ordered civilization which allows the practice of escaping any consequences or responsibility in accident cases is likely to find itself in a state of disorder as far as automobile traffic is concerned. The regulation of traffic and the promotion of safety demands that the participants in auto collisions and accidents be given opportunity to determine responsibility.

Impossible

"I suppose King Solomon wasn't much of a traveler."

"How could a man get anywhere when he had to kiss a thousand wives good-bye?"

The diners (in case you haven't guessed it, this incident took place in a dining room) paused long enough to laugh.

But the town official who had been quiet so far, now had something to say.

"I'll take Garbo," he stated. "You'll whap?"

"I'll take Garbo," he repeated. "Garbo? Why don't you take Myrna Loy or Constance Bennett or Ginger Rogers or one of those younger ones?"

The official breathed heavily, a habit from which he has derived a nickname, and carefully wiped his mouth with a napkin before replying.

"Garbo is the one I want. I tank she's got the most money, and money is what I'm looking for in a woman, not beauty." (Note: Somehow or other we thought this was funny when we heard it.)

Somebody reads this column—for at last we have a contributor. We publish the following but we're keeping the author's name a secret—for the author's sake.

VIRGINIA BEACH BOARDWALK
(A poem in the modern manner)

A boardwalk.
Why I never could tell.
Because
It really is concrete.
Now at Atlantic City
The walk
Is really of boards.
It rumbles and echoes
To the tread of feet.
But it has a wooden rail
And wooden rails always make me uneasy.

But at Virginia Beach
The rail is of iron
With roots
Imbedded in concrete.
And when I lean over
To talk to friends
I feel easy in mind
Knowing iron and concrete
Are supporting me.

'Ed Note
The beauty
Of this poem,
Of course,
Is that It takes Up so much Valuable space Just Like This.)

"What?" came the puzzled reply.

"I said," he answered, swallowing his food with an effort, and reaching for another roll, "I said, that if this damned rail keeps up, all they'll be able to make will be Tess of the Storm Country."

PRESBYTERIANS HOLD DINNER

Reports of Past Year and Plans for Coming Year Feature Annual Affair.

The annual church dinner of the First Presbyterian Church of Virginia Beach was held at the church Thursday night with about 60 leaders and members of the Church in attendance. The Rev. J. B. Clower, Jr., presided.
The purpose of the dinner was threefold: first to afford an enjoyable evening; second to hear committee reports of past year, and third to form plans for the coming year.

Reports of activity during the past year were made by Mr. Clower; Mrs. E. N. MacWilliams, president of the woman's auxiliary; W. F. Patton, chairman of the board of directors and treasurer of the church; N. F. Lee, clerk of session; R. B. Smith, treasurer of the Sunday School; and B. G. Porter, assistant superintendent of the Sunday School. The gist of the reports showed an increase in membership in the various departments, an increase in the number of gifts received, and a satisfactory financial statement.

The dinner was prepared by the Woman's Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. MacWilliams and served by members of the girls' intermediate class. These included Merle Amburn, Marian Brothers, Dora Janette, Mary Lee, Miriam Smith, Ethel Ware, Marie Ware and Ione White.

Learning Health For A Purpose

The idea is not new, but it took an ingenious teacher to put it into effect.

The place was a small high school. To make up standard teams nearly every student had to participate. Their opponents, the larger schools, had the advantage in numbers and facilities. But the spirit was there, so they set out to make up for their shortcomings. And they did it by making a thorough study of healthful living.

The principal of that school told me that every pupil knew and observed the rules of nutrition. Smoking was taboo. Dances and parties were shortened, more study was done at school, and the radio was turned off at a stated hour when the importance of sleep was learned. Candy and sodas were definitely out. Cold stored early cars. In brief, it was just a case of common sense application, without overemphasis. Anyway, it worked.

Next week Dr. Ireland will discuss the large subject of playground accidents and how to avoid them.

Lynnhaven Baseball Team To Hold Dance

In order to obtain funds with which to secure equipment for their baseball team, the Lynnhaven club has completed plans for a dance to be held at the Hygeia Club on Friday, April 26. Music for the affair, which is to begin at 9 o'clock, will be furnished by an orchestra which has not yet been selected. Cecil Caton, Ben Henley and Archie Caton, all members of the baseball team, comprise the committee which is arranging the affair.

Ready For Easter Merriment

All glitter and sparkle, this party table offers a novel suggestion for entertaining the little folk at Easter. Pom-pom bunnies and chicks made from Cellophane take the place of the usual cotton animals. The eggs are wound with transparent ribbons instead of being dyed. The decorations are not difficult to make and the supplies are inexpensive.

A roll of yellow transparent wrapping is enough for the large chicken; a roll and a quarter in pink makes the center rabbit, and two more rolls give six bunny place cards and eight chicken napkin rings. The green nest and centerpiece border are made of shredded cellophane film which comes in packages. Colorful strands of Cellophane decorate the drinking cups and the tablecloth is covered with yellow transparent wrapping.

The figures are fashioned from gathered strips of the shiny stuff, using three pom-poms for each leg.

Modern Home Decoration Service and two for each chicken. Gather tiny strips for the eyes, give Mr. Bunney Puff shiny pink ears and wispy paper whiskers, and finish Mrs. Chicken Puff with a perky bill. The place cards and napkin rings are exact miniatures of the larger figures, except that the body of the little chicken has a hole left in the center to hold the napkin.

Before winding the ribbon around the eggs, moisten it to make it pliable. Stretch it slightly as you wind, and press flat to remove air bubbles. The ends of the ribbon may be tied in a bow, or simply knotted and decorated with loops of contrasting color. Squares of the colored wrapping also look attractive when molded over the eggs, twisted at the tips, and decorated with a bow at each end. Lengths of ribbon radiating from the nest to each place may be tied to the eggs and the children allowed to put them out after the meal is over.

Charity Combine Schedules Double Bill For Sunday

County Baseballers Get Off To Good Start, Beating St. Bride's, 3 to 2.

The Charity Red Jackets, victorious in their first diamond battle of the season, will enter the baseball was again on Sunday, staging a double bill with the Lafayette A. C. and the Brambleton Tigers as their opponents. The games will be played on the Charity diamond beginning at 2 p. m.

The Red Jackets got off to a good start last Sunday, taking the St. Bride's A. C. into camp, 3 to 2. A ninth inning batting rally served to give the locals the winning tally and the game.

Lloyd Murden, on the mound for the winners, was in mid-season form, giving up but six scattered safeties and whiffing 7 batters. Upton, pitching for St. Brides gave up nine hits, three of which came in the fatal ninth. Chappel, who got the longest base hit of the day, a triple, also was the fielding star for the locals making two circus catches during the day.

Furnished to the women of Princess Anne County by the Virginia Electric and Power Company Home Service Department, Naomi D. Shank.

Souffle's will appeal the most fastidious appetites. They will satisfy the longing for something palatable, something dainty, something different, satisfying and at the same time something nutritionally good. A well made souffle' will charm the entire family.

A souffle' is a light airy product, made of milk and eggs and other ingredients combined and baked to produce a spongy texture. It may be sweetened or it may be a savory dish of another sort, containing meat or vegetables.

There was a time when the making of souffle's was attended with a great deal of uncertainty, for the baking temperature is one of the most important considerations. If you are using a range with controlled oven temperature it is not necessary to put the baking dish containing the souffle' in a pan of water to bake.

Meat Souffle'

1 cup milk
5 tablespoons flour
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 cups leftover meat (chopped) or 1/2 cup grated cheese
3 egg yolks
3 egg whites

Prepare a sauce of the butter, flour and milk. Cool and add the beaten egg yolks and chopped meat or cheese, which has been well seasoned with salt and pepper. Now fold in carefully the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour this mixture into a well buttered baking dish. Place in a preheated oven at 300 degrees and bake for 50 minutes.

Vanilla Souffle'

1 cup milk
5 tbs. flour
4 tbs. butter
1/4 teas. salt
3 egg yolks
3 egg whites
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Make a sauce by heating the butter, add flour, stirring constantly, and then add the salt and milk, stirring while adding. Cook until smooth and thickened. Cool sauce, add sugar, vanilla and beaten egg yolks, then carefully fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour mixture in well greased baking dish and place in Preheated oven 300 degrees for 50 minutes.

Orange Souffle'

Follow the recipe for vanilla souffle' and substitute 3 tbs. lemon juice and grated rind 1/2 lemon, for the vanilla.

Town Fires Final Blast At County

tion is of little or no immediate benefit to the Town; that the question whether it shall be annexed is primarily the problem of the property owners themselves, and that it is the disposition of the Town to have such problem determined by their wishes. The Town feels that it has a community of interest with these property owners and that the problem is worthy of the serious consideration of every person who has a substantial investment in the area under consideration.

The following pertinent subjects are of primary importance:

1. TAXATION.—Every property owner should understand what he is paying in taxes, for what purpose the money is now used; what he will be called on to pay in the event of annexation, and for what purposes that money will be used. It is not a source of wonder that the County officials are reluctant to have this area become a part of the Town, for at the present time this small territory, geographically not more than one-fiftieth of the whole area of Lynnhaven Magisterial District, is paying one-fourth of the taxes and is receiving nothing in return. The total assessed value of all of the real property in Lynnhaven Magisterial District is $2,443,336, of which the assessed value in this territory alone is $450,285. Check the proportion for yourselves. You property owners are paying to the County at the rate of $3.55 per hundred dollars of assessed value, or a total of $15,981.00 per year. The County has not taxed you in the past in accordance with your public needs, but rather in accordance with what its officials desired to spend to improve conditions in the farming sections, to build farm roads and to finance rural projects. This fact is illustrated by the rates paid by you in former years, for example, $4.35 in 1929; $4.55 in 1930; $4.15 in 1931 and $4.00 in 1932. The small reduction which you now enjoy is occasioned not by the efforts of the County to relieve the burden of taxation, but because the State of Virginia has taken over in its secondary road system the farm roads for which your money was previously expended, and which the County need no longer maintain. That the County has not given you a larger reduction is occasioned by the fact that it is largely maintaining its other public projects, which are of little or no interest to you, with your money. This is the natural, if not the inevitable result where your tax funds are expended by a County Board, not one of whose members has the slightest community of interest with this territory. Since 1923, when Lynnhaven Magisterial District was separated from Seaboard Magisterial District, you, or your predecessors in title, have paid more than $150,000.00 in taxes, and according to the public County records, less than $1200.00 has been spent in your territory since the beginning of time. The Board of Supervisors contributed $500.00 towards the cost of 109th Street, built by the original owners of the property, and $250.00 each towards the cost of two other streets, which were in each instance constructed by private enterprise. In its letter of February 22, 1935, the County Committee points with pride to this $500.00 expenditure, but there is absolutely no record of the "large sums for improvements to streets . . . on other streets too numerous to mention" as stated in its letter, and the Town believes and states that no such expenditures have ever been made.

Now, the $3.55 per one hundred dollars of assessed value which you now pay, is divided for certain purposes. Fifty cents of this sum goes to support the County Government as a whole, a purpose for which you as individuals have little interest. Ninety cents of this sum is used to support the County schools. During the current year there is a total enrollment of 2069 white children, plus a substantial colored enrollment. Of these 2069 white, approximately 250 attend the Virginia Beach School, leaving a total white enrollment in the County of approximately 1819. Of these approximately thirty children reside in the area for which annexation is proposed, so that this area, with not more than one-sixtieth of the total enrollment, yet pays approximately one-fiftieth of the total cost. Your money pays for the schooling of children in the Seaboard and Kempsville Magisterial Districts, as well as for the remainder of Lynnhaven Magisterial District.

for the retirement of existing County and District bonds, principal and interest. Since none of the proceeds of the bond sales were expended in your territory, this should be of some concern to you. The $250,000.00 of Lynnhaven Magisterial District bonds were sold and the proceeds used to build roads in Little Neck and Great Neck, and from Bell's Corner to Oceana, the nearest of which is at least four miles from your area. Nevertheless, you pay twenty-five per cent of this cost. The $90,000.00 of County road bonds were sold and proceeds used to improve County roads remote from your area, yet you contributed to this cost. You have, however, been benefited by the $30,000.00 of County school bonds to whose retirement you contribute, at least to the extent that your thirty children are permitted to attend the County school.

2. ASSESSMENTS.—There is another aspect to this problem of taxation, and that is the matter of assessments, or the values fixed on your property on which you must pay at the rate of $3.55 per one hundred dollars. The importance of this feature cannot be over-emphasized, for the total amount which you pay is determined as much by the valuation as by the rate. The County's letter of February 22, 1935, brings this to your attention on page two, but in an incorrect and misleading manner. Under the State law, towns, unlike cities, such as Norfolk, have no control over the assessment of property for taxation. The theory of the law is, that for this purpose the town is a part of the county. Consequently, by law, a County Board makes all assessments. Virginia Beach has consistently endeavored to keep the assessment of property within its boundaries as low as possible, for the reason that that will be at once apparent to you, namely, that even as to property within the corporate limits, the County takes each year fifty cents per one hundred dollars of assessed value, to defray the cost of the expenses of the County Government, a purpose which is of no benefit to residents of the Town except as to the functions performed by the County Courts, the cost of maintaining which are far less than the sum annually taken in taxation. In this endeavor the Town has been markedly unsuccessful, for the primary reason that the County Government is largely controlled by rural residents who have no community of interest with the Town, and who are not hesitating in having him contribute as far as possible to the cost of their public projects. A glance at the official records will establish this statement beyond all question. We state without fear of contradiction that every assessment for taxation ever made of property within the confines of Princess Anne County, including the assessment of property within the corporate limits of Virginia Beach, has been made by the County Board. The total assessed value of the real estate in Lynnhaven Magisterial District was $782,405. Today it is $1,628,869.00, an increase of more than one hundred and ten per cent. Of this tremendous increase the farm lands in the District have shared practically no part. County Boards of Re-assessment or Equalization, have added these values to property within the corporate limits of the Town of Virginia Beach, and in the territory for which annexation is contemplated. As late as the summer of 1934, the County Board of Equalization, composed of one member from Kempsville Magisterial District, one member from Pungo Magisterial District, one member from Seaboard Magisterial District, one member from Lynnhaven Magisterial District (not from your area), and one member from Virginia Beach, in the selection of those whose property was to be annexed to the Town, the Town officials had no voice whatever! Increased the assessed values of property within the corporate limits of Virginia Beach by a total of $2,530,000, and the assessed values in the territory in which the Annexation is proposed, by $91,595.00. The increase by this Board for the remainder of Lynnhaven District outside of this area was practically nil. The increase in Kempsville Magisterial District was $4,980.00; in Blackwater Magisterial District $1787.00. The assessments for farm lands vary from $10.00 to $25.00 per acre, figures as high as twenty-five dollars being the exception rather than the rule. Property laid off in building lots, yet vacant and yielding no revenue, is assessed at an average of about $2400.00 for an area as large as an acre. The figures speak for themselves. From them it is relatively easy to

A Tow To Disaster

The dangers youngsters incur by catching a "pull" on motor vehicles is demonstrated in the April school poster distributed by the T. A. A. to Tidewater classrooms. Although the above lad has met disaster while skating, the same principle also holds for bicyclists. Several hundred of these posters are distributed by the T. A. A. every month.

determine whether Virginia Beach or Princess Anne County has endeavored to fatten on increased assessments. For the County Committee, in the face of these public records, to advise you that upon annexation you stand in danger of having your assessment increased at the hands of the Town of Virginia Beach, is a piece of effrontery without parallel in the annals of any discussion of a public matter.

3. MORE ABOUT TAXATION.

The Town tax rate for property within its limits is $2.40 per one hundred dollars of assessed valuation. It has not greatly varied from this figure for a number of years, and there is no reason to believe it will substantially exceed that rate in the future. In addition to this $2.40, property owners within the corporate limits are required to pay $1.40 (the County rate) to the County. Of this $1.40 the County is required by law to return ninety cents (the school levy) at the end of each year. While the County requires a levy of ninety cents to operate its schools, the Town by more efficient methods and because it does not have the problem of transporting its children to the same extent that the County does, is enabled to operate its schools for a total not exceeding sixty cents. The excess is expended for the general purposes of the Town as a part of its gross revenue. From the $2.40 which the Town collects from its taxpayers, and this excess, it performs all of its public functions, including the construction and maintenance of streets, sewers, sidewalks, and street lights, the maintenance of a capable and efficient police and fire department, a systematic collection of garbage and trash, the maintenance of a Health Department and the retirement of its corporate debt. The County, with few of these burdens, requires a levy of $2.55 for bonds, plus a levy of fifty cents for general purposes. Its Committee points with pride to the fact that at the end of the last fiscal year it showed a substantial surplus. Any political sub-division can show a surplus when it collects a substantial proportion of its entire revenue from a territory in which it depends nothing. From the standpoint of the taxpayer, the question is which group gets the most benefit for its money. If annexed to the Town you will pay at least exceeding $3.55 per hundred dollars of assessed value, in addition to the $2.40 which the Town will receive a maximum of $2.15 as against the $2.40 which its present property owners pay. This rate of course will be applicable to whatever value the County Assessment Board may place on your property in 1938, the next re-assessment year, but at least you will have an opportunity to make common cause with those similarly situated within the Town.

4. INSURANCE RATES.

The Town's letter of November 26, 1934, attempted to point out the saving to householders in the reduced cost of fire insurance coverage after annexation. Of this the county committee says, "Your committee does not believe that insurance rates will be materially reduced." The base rate for property within the corporate limits is thirty-two cents. For property without the limits thirty-four cents, or double. This is not due to the presence or absence of water mains, but to the maintenance by the corporate authorities of an organized fire department in compliance with the underwriters' requirements. Other differences in rate depend upon exposures for particular structures. The increase for certain recognized hazards located beyond the corporate limits is nearly double the increase where the same property is within the corporate limits. Annexation will probably save you fifty per cent of your annual insurance premiums. Take out your policies and check for yourself. At least one member of the County Committee owns property within the Town of Virginia Beach, as well as in your area, and is or should be very familiar with the insurance charges.

"Since 1927 the Town Fire Department has answered forty-three fire calls in the territory to be annexed, without any charge to the property owners, and at substantial expense to the Town. Repeated requests to the County authorities to defray even a part of this expense, and repeated overtures by the Town to enter into a contract for the rendering of fire protection in this territory, thereby enabling residents to obtain the benefit of reduced insurance rates, have met with consistent refusal. In equity and good conscience, the Town cannot be expected to continue to render this service, and unless the territory is annexed to the Town, it must of necessity be discontinued.

To make a hot yield up a bunny is a magic stunt and funny, But I know a better trick! Watch Me make a bun or chick!

EASTER NOVELTIES

The best part of an Easter party for the children should be fun and happiness in getting ready for it. There are so many things that they may make themselves for the occasion, that it would be a shame as well as an extravagance to spoil their pleasure by buying them ready-made.

The materials are all those that one is apt to have on hand or can easily procure. Some gum drops, jelly strings and several boxes of campfire marshmallows and a package of toothpicks are the main ingredients for an assortment of fun and amusing and clever Easter novelties. A little practice will enable all but the very small children to turn out successful bunnies and chickens, even for old parties. Easter bunnies and flower pots are in order as favors and place cards. In making the bunnies and chicks, one or two whole marshmallows are usually used for the body, half an orange for the head, with small or large raisins for the ears. Feet, tails and eyes are made from white and red gum drops. When working with

5. STREETS.—There are a great many improved streets in the area for which annexation is proposed. These streets represent an expenditure of approximately $72,000.00 by private owners, as against less than $1200.00 by the County. The majority were constructed by the land development companies which sub-divided and marketed this area. Most of the lots having passed into private hands, no further construction or maintenance can be expected of the land development companies. Some of the streets are rapidly reaching a state of bad repair, and unless attended to will present serious problems to the property owners in the near future. Upon annexation, the Town will assume this problem, and provide for the same within the limits of its resources. The County has consistently refused to accept a single one of these streets as a County street, apparently so it could not be called on to contribute anything toward maintaining the same. After the severe storms of 1933 the County Board of Supervisors refused to contribute even $1000.00 to remove the sand and water so that property owners might get to their houses.

6. MOSQUITO ELIMINATION AND GENERAL HEALTH.

The whole area to be annexed has been surveyed and mapped under the supervision of the Town authorities. There are two hundred and one stings in the area requiring constant treatment to keep down mosquitoes to the extent that the territory may be livable. In the past, property owners have been most liberal in their contributions in furtherance of this work. During 1934 the work was performed under the supervision of Town officials, and the cost defrayed substantially sixty per cent by private subscription as against forty per cent borne by the Town. Of course the Town had direct interest in this work because mosquitoes breeding in this area are to some extent troublesome within the limits of the Town. To date the County has not contributed one cent to this public problem, but on the contrary has consistently refused to do so, and in all probability will continue in that course. Unless the territory is annexed the Town will be compelled to withdraw from this work beyond the extent that its performance may be necessary for the protection of its own residents. General health conditions in the area are not good, largely because of standing water and septic tanks not maintained in proper condition by some of the private owners. It is not possible to immediately extend sewerage to the area, but the Town can require individual owners, whose septic tanks create a health menace, to remedy the same, and the cost of extending sewerage to the whole area will not exceed $50,000.00 at such time as economic conditions justify this construction.

7. GARBAGE AND TRASH COLLECTIONS.

The Town is prepared to give trash and garbage collection similar to that now given residents within its limits. This contemplates collection three times weekly for the eight winter months and daily for the four summer months. In congested districts collections are daily throughout the year. In addition to convenience the resulting saving to the property owner, based on present charges is $3.00 per month. The County Committee says, "Should this matter be brought to the attention of your Board of Supervisors, you will obtain immediate relief." We are at a loss to understand what would be necessary to bring it to the attention of this Board. One of the members of the County Committee has been your representative on the Board of Supervisors for many years, another is a legal advisor to the Board. If under these circumstances the matter has not been brought to the attention of the County Board, it is difficult to conceive what would be required to attract its attention.

8. THE USE OF TOWN WATER.

"Town water is now available to a majority of the residents of this area. It can be made available to all of said residents by an expenditure of an additional $2000, which will be made by the Town if the territory is annexed. That sum will be available from current funds without an unusual method of financing. It is true that private property owners in your area advanced the necessary funds for the present installation, but only on a basis on which the Town is obligated to the retirement of such funds, with interest, so that the system has not been constructed at the expense of the property owners of this territory," nor is the Town making a tremendous profit from water there sold. The Town entered into this arrangement for the benefit of the property owners, to build up the territory, and in good faith, and will continue to furnish the water as long as it can do so without detriment to the residents within its corporate limits. However, each contract to supply water beyond the corporate limits includes the reservation that the Town may discontinue this service at any time. The necessity for such reservation is occasioned by the fact that if additional buildings continue to be constructed in the area at their present rapid rate, it will soon be necessary for the Town to construct a storage capacity in addition to its present tank of twelve hundred thousand gallons. When that time arrives, the Town cannot be expected to make this additional capital investment for the benefit of residents beyond its limits, and unless the residents, or the County, defray this cost which will certainly arise, the Town will of necessity be compelled to discontinue water service in your area, if same is not a part of the corporate limits. If you think there is any possibility of the County defraying this charge you are indeed optimistic.

9. POLICE PROTECTION.

This subject is of relatively small importance in proportion to that of the other issues involved, but it will become of increasing importance as your area builds up, and to an individual with a grave importance at any time. The Town maintains a trained and adequate Police force. How many of you would ever know where to locate a County officer should you require one? The nearest paid County officer is more than six miles from your territory, and so far as the advice "does not even" have a telephone.

10. FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE TOWN OF VIRGINIA BEACH.—The Town is not solvent as the County Committee would have you believe, nor is there any likelihood of its becoming so. Despite the misleading rumors originating from the County Committee, its five and one-half per cent bonds have a market value of today of 104 to 104 for each one hundred dollar bond, and for six per cent bonds, a market value of from 105 to 106. It is able to meet and does meet all of its obligations at maturity. Its total indebtedness is not $800,000.00. Apparently the County Committee has no accurate conception of the purpose of a sinking fund, inasmuch as in its computation contained in its letter of February 22nd, 1935, this Committee has added scheduled sinking fund payments deferred to the principal debt or bond issue. The deferred payments to sinking fund have been occasioned by the inability of many taxpayers to keep up their taxes in the last several years, resulting in a delinquent list of more than $112,000.00. This account receivable, or asset, is a set-off against, and will more than pay, deferred payments on sinking fund of $35,457.17, as scheduled. The finances of the Town in a healthy condition as must be apparent to anyone with a reasonable conception of municipal problems. The Town is paying, can pay and will continue to pay its municipal obligations, and we believe, without increased burden on its taxpayers.

"In conclusion, permit us to say that it is the belief of the Town officials that before many years to come a sum in excess of the amount annually derived from annexation of this property will be required to solve the problems of your area. It is desirable for the orderly development of the town to have such territory annexed and it is of paramount importance to you. Form your conclusions and do not hesitate to express them. We have no desire to annex you without your consent. We make you no large promises with respect to public benefits, but we do say that you will receive something in return for your tax money, a result that is without precedent for the territory in which your property is located."

Food Facts.

BREAD, next to milk, is the most important single article of food that is available to the human race. It is valuable because it furnishes about 40 per cent of total calories, mostly carbohydrates, muscle protein, and some vitamins. Dr. D. C. Leach, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said in an address before the Federation of National Mills in Chicago.

He pointed out that wheat flour contains from 8 to 11 per cent protein and from 5 to 15 per cent carbohydrates, while white bread contains about 15 per cent protein, 55 per cent carbohydrates, nine per cent protein and one per cent fat. The contents of whole wheat bread and graham bread are very nearly the same, but the carbohydrates and protein of white bread are more digestible than the carbohydrates and protein of either whole wheat or graham bread. Dr. Leach added:

"We are amazed that individuals who believe they should have more roughage in the food they eat should first consult a physician and read the food labels. Bread, for example, is a food that is not only a separate diet instead of 'wheat' alone, wholesome white bread" by including it in the baking.

"If it is the deficiency of Vitamin B, why not have more yeast put in the bread? It makes it lighter and more digestible; and your yeast separately."

FFA Members Plan Joint Banquet At Kempville Soon

Ocean, Kempville, Hickory and Great Bridge chapters to participate.

F. F. A. members from the Ocean, Kempville, Hickory, and Great Bridge chapters will conduct a joint banquet at Kempville on April 28th.

Fathers of the students will be special guests for the night. The students are planning a big affair having already made plans to serve 180 individuals.

Each chapter of the Federation has been made responsible for providing for a certain part of the banquet, with the officers of the FFA association taking charge.

The banquet is an annual affair for the FFA, but they have been held individually by the various chapters. After the formation of the FFA association, consisting of the four chapters in Princess Anne and Norfolk counties, the group decided to combine the chapters and conduct a banquet as the association rather than as a smaller chapter group. The idea for the banquet being to make friends and establish friendship between fathers and sons of the two counties.

Congressman Colgate Darden has been asked to attend the banquet as one of the speakers, as is Dr. W. S. Newman, of the state department of education.

THE DISTRESSED SCHOOLS

(Washington Herald)

Throughout the country 467 school districts have been left penniless this year by the depression and by the local politicians. In these districts living in eight States, nearly 60,000 pupils are going without schooling and nearly 1,800 teachers are forced into idleness.

These figures, reported by the United States Office of Education represent the nadir of the continuing school crisis.

All told about 3,429,000 school children—one-eighth of the entire number of those enrolled in the nation—will receive curtailed school courses this year or none at all.

John W. Studebaker, the United States Commissioner of Education has appealed to Secretary Ickes to increase the allotment of Federal funds to keep schoolhouses open.

At the same time the friends of education are urging that public school construction be made a first item in the new public works program.

It has been demonstrated that Federal leadership has become

FFA Members to Compete For Right To Enter District Meet at Williamsburg.

Members of the Princess Anne and Norfolk county chapters of the Future Farmers of America will participate in a track meet to be held at the Oceana School on May 6 with the Oceana chapter as hosts, it was learned this week.

Winners in the local meet will go to Williamsburg to participate in the district track meet to be held there on May 18. Winners at Williamsburg will be sent to Blacksburg to represent Eastern Virginia in the annual track meet held during the FFA rally in June.

Events to be run off at the local meet will include the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the 40 yard dash, the 1/4 mile run, the shot put, discus, high jump, broad jump and pole vault.

The Oceana team will be coached by W. H. McCann, instructor at the school, who is a former member of the V. P. I. track team.

NEW PIONEERS

(Peninsula Enterprise)
Two hundred families now on relief, are to be sent by the F. E. R. A. to Alaska, where each of them will be provided with 40 acres of improved land, with home comforts and needed farming accessories. It is going to cost $3,000 for each farm and they are expected to repay this cost in 30 years. The location where they will settle is good dairy country, and these folks should be able to make a living.

These people will start out under far easier conditions than those which our early pioneers confronted. Those old pioneers had no homes built for them, and they had to create their communities from the ground up. These new settlers will have running water, good stoves and lamps, and modern tools to work with.

Will these folks be satisfied in their remote location, and in the quiet life of a long Alaskan winter? The people who settled our country could have done it, as they did not expect to keep traveling around and doing things outside of daily toil. But the present generation demands automobiles, good roads to travel on, amusements and a hundred other things.

The selected families who will take these Alaskan farms may be content to live in this secluded environment. But there are not probably many families living on relief that would consent to do so. The majority of them would not know how to go to work to extract a living from such farms. And the number of people who expect to live without tollsome labor is constantly increasing.

The pioneer spirit has too much died out. Many people will have to undergo hard experiences, before it dawns on them that man has to win his support from the earth by the sweat of his brow.

SPRINGTIME IN THE ZOO

Get environment in your zoo pictures. It adds much to their interest.

"WHAT is it we always look forward to seeing in the spring?" a teacher asked her class of eight-year-olds. "The animals in the zoo," piped up Mickey.

Mickey might have added "and snapshots," for there are in this world a few people who park their cameras on the closest shelf at the first sign of winter and, like the bear in the zoo, hibernates until the arrival of spring.

If you own one of these hibernating cameras you had better get it out, dust it off, carefully clean the lens, load it up with film and be on hand at your nearest zoo when the bee, or lets his animal family out of the indoor winter quarters to the outdoor cages. There's a real chance for some great pictures and a great chance for some real pictures.

There's one great advantage in taking animal pictures at the zoo in early spring. The foliage on the trees is not as heavy as it becomes later in the summer so your light is much better.

Background and foreground should be given careful consideration in taking pictures of animals and fowl at a zoo. In other words, try to get environment in your pictures—natural settings. Don't just walk up to the cage or corral and shoot. If the lion's den, for instance, is at the back end of his cage, which it usually is, don't snap your picture from the side and have an adjoining pen of ostriches for your background for in natural surroundings the lion and ostrich do not mix socially. Get as close to the bars of his cage as you can and shoot.

"But," you may say, "if I snap him when he is right up against the bars I would get a larger image." That's true enough and at the same time you would be getting just another picture of a lion. Suppose the image of the lion is smaller at a greater distance from your camera. How about an enlargement of the lion and enough of the entrance to his den to add environment.

Nasty amateurs overlook the possibilities in trimming and enlargement and in doing so they pass up the opportunity to change what would be an ordinary snapshot into an outstanding photograph.

Keep these things in mind when taking all kinds of animal pictures—wild and domestic. Get environment in the picture and you will soon be convinced by results that it is well worth the little thought and effort it requires.

Malbon; state Senator, Warner Ames; examiner of records, W. R. Ashburn; inheritance tax commissioner, A. Johnston Ackies; commissioner of accounts, John P. Woodhouse; county agriculture agent, H. W. Ozlin.

The officials in Kempsville district included G. Osborne Reid, supervisor; W. E. Wood, school trustee; J. Frank Bell and W. E. Cronwell, justices of the peace; overseer of poor, W. F. Wilbur. Lynnhaven district officials were John B. Dey, supervisor; S. S. Gresham, school trustee; E. V. Gresham, M. E. Woodhouse, and F. R. Reader, justices of peace; road board, S. S. Gresham, chairman; Wm. The officials in Pungo district were H. E. James, supervisor; T. M. Williams, school trustee; V. H. Etheridge, W. L. Whitworth and A. O. Baum, justices of peace; W. W. Bowen, overseer of poor.

For some years there has been a need for an up-to-date Office Building as many professional men could be brought to Virginia Beach if adequate office space could be obtained. Dr. R. W. Woodhouse has now a building under construction that will provide space for many. The building is located on an Ocean Front lot on Atlantic Avenue, between 16th and 17th street. It will be a two-story brick building with store space on the first floor. Dr. Woodhouse's suite of offices will also be on the ground floor. The second floor will be devoted to offices. The architectural design and the fact that the building will be fire proof gives our city another asset.

With the reorganization of the Chamber of Commerce at Virginia Beach last May came cooperation and activity among the residents and property owners. The new organization is young but wide awake and many improvements at the resort have been made due to the efforts of the officers and membership.

Mr. David Shelbourne is chairman of the Membership Committee, and any cooperation given Mr. Shelbourne and his committee will be appreciated.

The new Virginia Beach Amusement Pavilion has been completed and already thousands of people have inspected and partaken of the pleasure obtained at this modern recreational mecca.

Captain W. B. Jackson, in charge of the State of Virginia's Rifle Range, just south of Virginia Beach, states that the camp is in readiness for the annual summer camp of the National Guard troops when they arrive. The State Government has spent about $30,000 this year on the grounds and buildings and every indication promises that this year's training camp will be the largest and best ever held.

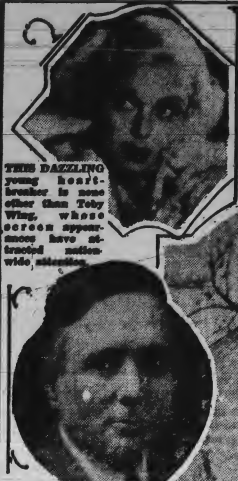

The school population of this county, according to the last school census, is 2,286 white, and 2,662 colored. Three thousand seven hundred and twenty-six of these are attending school. Of this number enrolled in the schools seven hundred and forty-five average being absent from school daily.

Dr. R. G. Barr spent several days in Staunton, Va., last week. Dr. Barr attended the Virginia Pharmaceutical Convention, held there June 23rd, 24th, and 25th. At the business meeting of the association it was decided that Bedford, Virginia, would get next year's convention. Virginia Beach lost this convention by not being able to accommodate all the delegates at one cottage or hotel.

BETTY BARCLAY'S HELPFUL HINTS

THE ROOSEVELT SALAD

ALONG with the new administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt has come the new Roosevelt Salad, which promises to attain great popularity this spring and summer. Named in honor of the new President, the Roosevelt Salad was first introduced on the inauguration day in the United States Senate Restaurant in the Capitol at Washington by Chef George Baumgartner.

Within a week after its introduction to the inaugural crowds at Washington, the new Roosevelt Salad had appeared on the menus of prominent hotels and restaurants throughout the country, especially in New York, Atlantic City, Cleveland and Chicago, and had met with popular favor. The ingredients are vegetables commonly grown in all parts of the country, making the new salad as inexpensive as it has been found to be wholesome and delicious. Following is Chef Baumgartner's recipe for:

Roosevelt Salad
1 cup chopped 1/2 cup green peppers
1 cup shredded 1 cup mayonnaise white and 1 cup diced carrot
1 cup French peas

Thoroughly mix the above ingredients and serve on crisp lettuce. (This amount serves an ordinary family.)

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sore and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of pills, castor oil, laxative candy or anything else and expect them to make you suddenly smart and buoyant and full of sunshine.

If they can't do it, they only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, which often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, smooth when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Don't wait for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remedy a substitute. See at drug store. © 1931 L. M. Co.

Cavalier Hopes To Stage Other Golfing Events

Some Sort of Record Established as Pros Crack 70 for Three Rounds.

Although the special golf match held at the Cavalier Country Club last week, with four of the country's leading professionals competing, was a financial failure due to bad weather, Bob Tunstall, sports director of the club is planning to stage similar matches in the future.

Walter Hagen and Kay Laffoon teamed together to win a 3 and 2 victory from Craig Wood and Henry Picard in the 54-hole match and thus gain the major portion of the $1000 purse offered.

Some sort of record must have been established by the foursome, since none of them turned in a card for 18 holes which totalled as high as 70. Hagen had cards of 64, 66 and 65; Laffoon turned in two 67s and a 68; Wood had two 66s and a 69, while Picard, who was playing the course for the first time had a 67, 68 and a 69. Par for the course is 68.

Birdies accounted for every hole won during the match.

been mentioned in connection with the office of Commonwealth's Attorney, now held by Paul W. Ackiss, Jr., of Virginia Beach, nothing is known as yet as to the actual candidates. Mr. Ackiss will run for re-election of course, while the most prominent candidate mentioned is Joseph D. Deal, also of Virginia Beach, who has been considering entering the race. Gordon Campbell, of Norfolk, and Louis James have also been mentioned as possible candidates.

In the Kempesville district, where William Hudkins has served as a member of the board, W. M. Thomas and L. S. Gallup will vie for the vacant office. W. R. Payne, incumbent, will be opposed by George W. Lawrence, in the Lynnhaven district, while M. W. James, of the Seaboard district, the present chairman of the board, will have D. Y. Malbon as his opponent.

In the Pungo district, George W. Dawley, member of the board for the past three terms will be opposed by L. H. Vaughan. M. C. Mansfield, member from the Blackwater district, has not officially declared his intention of entering the race, nor has any other candidate from that district tossed his hat in the direction of the ring as yet.

The election in August will be simply a Democratic primary, of course, but in Princess Anne county, nomination is equivalent to election. The general election is to be held in November.

JUDGES DISMISS ANNEXATION PETITION

TAX RATE LEFT UNCHANGED FOR COMING YEAR BY COUNTY BOARD

General and School Levies To Remain at 50 and 90 Cents, Respectively.

MINOR CHANGES NOTED IN DISTRICT LEVIES

Lynnhaven Rate Tops All Others With Total Levies of $3.55.

The county tax rate will remain unchanged for the fiscal year of 1935-36.

This was decided definitely at the regular monthly meeting of the County Board of Supervisors held Monday.

At the February meeting it was decided tentatively to raise the general county levy from 50 cents to 55 cents a hundred and to lower the school levy from 90 cents to 85 cents. This however met with disapproval and the action was later rescinded so that the general levies will remain the same for another year.

This total levy of $1.40 per $100 assessed value will be paid by all residents of the county, while additional levies are to be paid by residents of the various districts.

At Virginia Beach, only the $1.40 levy is paid to the county but the residents must pay a town levy also. At Blackwater the county levy is supplemented only by the general county bond levy of 18 cents.

At Kempsville the road bond levy of 90 cents paid last year has been raised to $1.20, but the school bond levy of 55 cents has been lowered to 25 cents, leaving the figures the same. The total Kempsville district levy, therefore, including the general levies and the county bond levy, is $3.

The road bond levy in the Lynnhaven district was raised from $1 to $1.10 but the school bond levy was lowered proportionately from $1 to 90 cents leaving the total at $2.55.

The Seaboard District road bond levy was also raised, from $1.30 to $1.50, but in this case also, the school bond levy was lowered—from 35 cents to 25 cents. The total paid in this district is $3.10.

This final and definite decision on tax levies ends a controversy which has been raging since the proposed tentative changes were first announced. The reduction of the school levy and the raising of the general county levy would have resulted in a loss for Virginia Beach, residents of that town stated, and plans to fight the change were made.

Board Sidesteps Issue Of Hospitalization For Indigent County Sick

Supervisors Oppose Payment of Lump Sum to Norfolk Hospital for Care of Princess Anne Residents Requiring Hospital Attention.

Indigent Princess Anne County residents in need of hospitalization will have to look to outsiders for assistance, action taken, or rather not taken, by the County Board of Supervisors at their monthly meeting last Monday would indicate.

The matter of hospitalization was brought up early in the meeting by Gertrude Lovell, county nurse, who told of several cases where care was needed and urged the Board to appropriate some lump sum to be used for that purpose in co-operation with some Norfolk Hospital.

Her proposal met with opposition from Supervisors George Dawley and M. C. Mansfield, who seemed to oppose all hospitalization, while the others favored the payment for each individual case on the recommendation of the supervisor of the district in which the case occurred.

Miss Lovell pointed out that many people in need of hospitalization were coming to her, but that she had no authority to act on such matters, and would in the future send each case direct to the supervisor of his district. Several of the supervisors protested at this, and two, namely Supervisor Hudgins and Supervisor Payne stated that although they had already authorized the sending of several cases to the hospital, they would not authorize any more.

Clerk of Court J. F. Woodhouse read a letter from the Norfolk Hospital Association asking that the County make some terms with the local hospitals so that the hospitals would not have to bear the brunt of the expense, and urged that some action be taken by the Board.

A tentative motion to appropriate $500 for this purpose was made but received no second, and nothing definite was done although indications at the close of the meeting were that no more hospitalizations would be approved. (Continued on Page Eight)

STATE POLICE SIXTH ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT TO CAVALIER HORSE SHOW, MAY 3 & 4

One Hundred Officers and Rookies Expected at Rifle Range For Month.

The annual State Police encampment, 100 strong, is scheduled to be held at the State Military Reservation, for one month beginning May 1.

The encampment, an annual affair is held each year for the training of rookies and for the further training of those officers already in the service.

About 50 rookies are trained each year, and from this number a few are selected as eligible for the State force. In addition, members of the regular force are sent here in shifts to take advantage of the training activities here.

Captain H. B. Nicholas, in charge of the Virginia State Police will again be in charge of the encampment and will be assisted by several of his staff as instructors.

Instruction at the encampment includes the art of riding and driving a motorcycle and automobile. The mechanics of both; target practice with pistols and machine guns; the use of tear gas; legal instruction, and the general physical exercises necessary for a policeman.

A New York state trooper was present last year to assist in the instruction, and may possibly return this year.

ANNUAL SPRING OVERHAULING AT VIRGINIA BEACH GETS UNDER WAY

New Establishments Open; Cottages and Hotels Prepare For Season.

TOWN NOW PREPARING FOR SUMMER INVASION

Two New Houses, Garage Apartment and Hotel Addition Now Being Built.

Virginia Beach, sleepy little winter town of 2,000 population is now going through that annual period of transformation which will end only when the Beach has become a bustling, bustling resort town of 25,000 population.

Up and down the Beach, hammers are rising and falling as owners of cottages and hotels, return to the summer wars and begin to make their building ready for the flood of occupants which the summer will bring.

That set smile which has been worn upon the face of Virginia Beach merchants throughout the winter as they sat about their stores wishing for something to do is now beginning to be replaced by a natural grin, as business, with one eye on the calendar, begins to pick up.

Buses, trains and automobiles bring home the wanderer who have been spending the winter in Florida, but who now return to prepare for the heavy summer season.

New buildings are going up, and old ones are being repaired. New merchants appear here and there, and all in all, the Beach seems to be getting ready for its grand opening on Memorial Day.

Those cottages and hotels which have already been open have found it to be a very prosperous pre-season year. The Cavalier Hotel was so full, over the Easter week-end that it was forced to turn people away, while other cottages and hotels on the Beach also reported increased business. Even now, a number of tourists are still at the Beach, and New York cars are almost as plentiful as Virginia cars.

Building activity, in addition to the repairs on the New Casino and Seaside Park, and the number of tourist cabins which are appearing, includes two new homes, a garage apartment and an addition to a hotel.

E. B. Trzewell is constructing two frame houses, one for Hugh W. Davis on the Richardson farm on Linkhorn Bay, and the other for Dr. H. F. Dormire on 52nd street.

Conrad Brothers are building an addition to the Beach Plaza Hotel for Mrs. C. L. Mosby, and a garage apartment for Charles Sygar, of Portsmouth, is being built on 104th street by D. W. Gregory.

As usual, children's classes will be featured. Great interest has been built up not only among the pupils of Mrs. Thraives but also among the children all over the state. Competition has grown yearly until these equitation classes are the best and most close. (Continued on Page Eight)

HISTORIC ALANTON GARDENS TO BE OPENED TO PUBLIC ON SATURDAY, MAY FOURTH

Ancient and historic Princess Anne county will open for public display on Saturday, May 4, one of its oldest, most beautiful and proudest possessions so that another of its ancient and historic buildings may be restored to its original splendor.

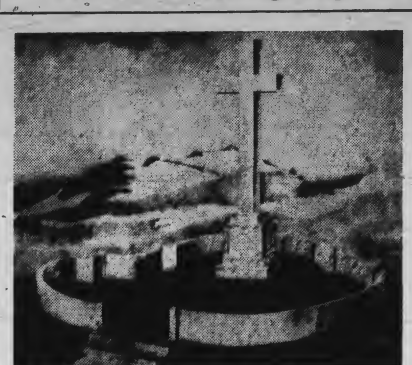

Members of the Lucetta Cornick Guild of the Eastern Shore Chapel have announced that in order to supplement the fund now being raised for the restoration of the 180-year old Eastern Shore Chapel, they have arranged for a public inspection of the 298-year old Alantons gardens. The Gardens will be open to the public from 2 to 6 p. m. on Saturday, May 4.

The present brick chapel of the Eastern Shore Chapel was built in 1754, but it is the third church to stand on the present site which was given to the church in 1690 by William Cornick, and was a part of his Salisbury Plains Plantation, which is now the village of Oceana. The original church on that site was built as a mission of Old Donation Church.

Services have been held at the old chapel continuously since its original founding with the exception of a few years following the Civil War, when the interior of the building was demolished by the Federal troops so that it might be used for a stable.

In addition to the garden inspection on May 4, the Chapel will be open to the public and the old silver communion service given by Queen Anne will be on display. Directions for reaching the chapel are simple. It is located on the Back Bay Road, one mile south of the Virginia Beach Boulevard and is marked by historic highway markers. The Back Bay road crosses the boulevard at Oceana. Alantons is located on the same road but is three miles north of (Continued on Page Four)

Scene Of Annual Pilgrimage

Pictured above is the granite Memorial Cross erected by the National Society, Daughters of American Colonists, to commemorate the first landing of the colonists at Cape Henry on April 26, 1907. Led by Governor Peery, hundreds of people visited this scene today to participate in the annual religious services and to witness the dedication of the cross.

Governor Peery Leading Annual Pilgrimage Being Held At Cape Henry Today

Crowds In Attendance at 328th Annual Observance Of First Landing.

The landing of the English colonists at Cape Henry, 328 years ago is being observed today with appropriate ceremonies which have attracted hundreds of people and a distinguished delegation led by Governor George C. Peery, of Virginia.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States was invited to attend the dedicatory services at which a $5000 grant memorial cross will be unveiled but was unable to come. He will, however, send a message, to be read at the service by Governor Peery.

The celebration will be in the form of an annual pilgrimage such as that held each year on April 28. Plans this year however, are more elaborate than ever before, and the crowd in attendance today is believed to be the greatest ever to attend such a function.

The feature of the services this year will be the unveiling of the memorial, which was erected through the generosity of the National Society, Daughters of American Colonists, who solicited funds for this purpose.

The program today began with the registration of visitors at 10 a. m. at the Cavalier Hotel. The Assembly of Tidewater Women which sponsors the pilgrimage each year will, hold its annual meeting at the hotel at 11 a. m. Governor Peery and his party (Continued on Page Eight)

The winner will preside at the annual May Festival of the Princess Anne Women's Club to be held on the lawn of the Princess Anne Court House, May 18. The next night in the race will serve as her hour.

Ballots are printed each week in the Virginia Beach News and will continue to be printed there in each issue through May 3. They are to be brought or mailed in to the News office on Seventeenth street, and the box is closed for the week's count at noon on each Wednesday. The final count will be made at noon on Wednesday, May 8 and the winner and her court will be announced in the issue of May 10.

The complete totals this week follow:
Flora DePrees, Lynnhaven, 6300.
Joyce Coleman Dail, Virginia Beach, 3600.
Vivian Flanagan, Virginia Beach (Continued on Page Four)

Farmers To Attend Meeting At Richmond

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Federation will be the speakers at the meeting. They will explain the proposed amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

The meeting is open to any farmer in Virginia.

COURT RULES THAT PROPOSED AREA BE KEPT IN P. A. COUNTY

Verdict Returned by Statutory Court After Three-Day Hearing.

EXCEPTIONS NOTED BY TOWN ATTORNEY

Town to Decide On Appeal At Meeting of Council, To Be Held May 6.

A statutory court composed of three judges today ruled to dismiss a petition in which the town of Virginia Beach had asked to annex all that territory extending from the northern boundary of the town on Atlantic avenue to the southern limits of the Government reservation at Fort Story.

The decision came at the end of a three-day trial held at the Princess Anne Circuit Court, in which both town and county had paraded scores of witnesses through the witness stand.

Judge J. C. Clement, of Chatham, who with Judge C. W. Coleman, of Portsmouth, was appointed by Governor Peery to sit with Judge B. D. White during the hearing, rendered the verdict, which, he said, was unanimous for the three judges.

"We have considered this matter from every angle," he said, "and we agree with the counsel for the town that the natural trend for building is in the general direction of the proposed annexed area; that the residents in this area have a natural community interest with the Town; that the area is unsuitable for agriculture, and that in due time it may become necessary and expedient for this territory to be annexed by the town."

"But," he continued, "we cannot see where Virginia Beach or this proposed annexed territory has developed sufficiently to make an annexation either necessary or expedient at this time."

Following a digression on the adequacy of fire and police protection in and about Chatham, Judge Clement continued.

"We agree that the Board of Supervisors of this County has been neglectful of this area in regards to fire and police protection and see no reason why they can't furnish a paid officer for this vicinity. We feel also that they have been neglectful in not compensating Virginia Beach for the fire protection offered this area. There is no reason for Princess Anne county not giving this section some compensation."

Judge Clement further digressed here to state that in a similar case in his own area he had been forced to warn the Board of Supervisors that action must be taken to prevent a nearby town gobbling up a similar area.

"The Board," he continued, "has also been neglectful in its duties regarding garbage, and should, we feel, take some immediate action concerning this matter."

"We do not, however, think from a physical view that the Town of Virginia Beach has developed enough in its own rights to make annexation necessary and expedient. For this reason, the petition for annexation is dismissed."

Willard R. Ashburn, town attorney, and chief counsel for the town in the hearing, asked that his exceptions be noted and reserved so that an appeal may be noted if desired.

He will confer with the Town Council at its next meeting on May 6 before making that decision, he told the News.

The pronunciation of testimony started at 10 a. m. on Tuesday (Continued on Page Five)

A NEW RACKET

Many and lurid are the stories of the gangsters and racketeers, who, seeing a "business" that is making money, "muscle" in, to get their share of the proceeds.

Now comes word of a new and legitimate racket which is taking money right out of the pockets of Virginia Beach residents, and curiously enough, the racketeer in this case, is none other than the State of Virginia.

When the Eighteenth amendment was in effect, bootleggers held sway at Virginia Beach during the summer season, when tourists, here for a good time, drank fluently of the liquid that intoxicates.

Thousands of dollars were spent for whiskey, and the majority of money went to residents of this area who, naturally spent a part of it back in this vicinity.

Then came repeal, the legalization of whiskey and the opening of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board store number 109 at Virginia Beach.

Town authorities breathed a sigh of relief. Gone was the lawlessness made possible by bootleggers, who, after all, were necessary for the tourist trade. Gone was the dangerous whiskey, and in its stead had come legal whiskey sold over the counter in a legitimate manner.

The new whiskey store thrived.
In less than 10 months, figures show the store reported sales totaling $123,172.75.

All of that money came from residents and visitors to Virginia Beach. All of that money was brought here to be spent here, and naturally, Virginia Beach residents expected to get a good portion of that back.

What is the result? Figures show that according to the State law, only $800 of that vast sum is to come back to the Beach, although the profit made was over $23,000.

Where does the rest of the money go?

It is to be divided to the lawsuits, among localities, according to their population. The population of Virginia Beach, they claim is only approximately 2,000. Therefore the Beach is to get only 1-14th of one per cent of the entire profit made by whiskey stores in the State.

Bristol, on the other hand, which voted dry, and caused the state to close up its whiskey store, has a population of approximately 8,000 people, and should therefore receive $2400, three times as much as the Beach.

The whole set-up, of course, is wrong, and should be changed.
The Town council, at its next meeting will very probably pass a resolution, asking Representative Harry B. Davis to attempt to get the law amended at the next session of General Assembly.

Meanwhile, Virginia Beach business men, who are forbidden by the law to sell whiskey, either by the bottle or by the drink on their premises, must stand helplessly by and watch thousands of dollars, spent by tourists who are brought here by Beach publicity campaigns, being taken out of the town and to be apportioned to other towns in other sections of the state.

The situation, of course, is unfair, and if not changed will undoubtedly lead to the revival of the speakeasy or something resembling them.

THE EXPLANATION

In a recent editorial, the Virginia Beach News commented on the fact that only $4.63 was spent per relief case in the county during the month of February, and wondered (also editorially) why this sum was so low, when other areas showed a much higher average.

Mrs. A. E. Ewell, director of the Federal Emergency Relief Association for the county, noted this editorial, and thinking some explanation necessary, explained the matter in full at the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors this week.

It seems, Mrs. Ewell said, that the FERA, in this vicinity was reorganized during the month of February and that actual relief work did not start until the middle of the month.

The figures received here then, were for only half a month and therefore only half as large as they should have been. Reports for March, she said, will show the figures to be doubled, and will put Princess Anne on a par with other counties.

The News is glad that the matter should have been explained so easily and regrets any inconvenience FERA authorities may have been caused by the paper's ignorance of the true facts.

POLL TAXES

Princess Anne county is famous for the bitterness of its political fights, and as yet there is no reason to believe that the contests this year will be any different.

Six major county offices are to be contested in addition to the five places on the County Board of Supervisors. Although the candidate for any of the offices has yet filed official notice of entering the race, politicians have already started touring the county engaged in the age old occupation of "building fences."

Every vote in the county will be needed in the coming election.
In order to vote, poll taxes must be paid, and the law says that these taxes must be paid by May 4. If you have not already paid your taxes, do so. Your money will be received at the treasurer's office at Princess Anne County, either at the office of Kellam and Eaton, at Virginia Beach.

Who is eligible to vote?
This question can be better answered by reprinting a statement from the Princess Anne county financial report published by Sidney Kellam, county treasurer. It follows:

"To be qualified to vote one must be 21 years of age by the date of the election, and have resided in the State one year, in the county six months, and in the precinct 30 days. In addition to the residence requirements, the voter must be registered.

"The registration requirements are that the applicant must make out, unless physically unable to do so, an application to the Registrar in his own handwriting, in the presence of the registrar, without any aid or suggestion, stating in his application his name, age, residence and place of birth, residence and occupation.

"Further, no person has a right to register and vote unless he has paid all State capitation taxes due to be paid, for the three preceding years to the year in which he offers to vote."

WANTED—CORRESPONDENTS

It is rather coincidental that the Country Home, national publication, should announce a national contest for country correspondents just one week after the Virginia Beach News had advertised for more correspondents in the County.

The contest, as a story in the news columns of this paper states, carries a prize of $50 annually for the best item of rural news published in the columns of a country newspaper.

The contest is nationwide, and the winner, in addition to receiving the cash prize will receive national wide homage and publicity.

The Virginia Beach News needs correspondents, and will be glad to publish items turned in by those whom it secures to supplement its staff. It is not beyond the realm of probability for one of these newly acquired correspondents to win national honors either this year or in years to come.

If you are journalistically inclined, or interested in writing, get in touch with the managing editor of the Virginia Beach News, become affiliated with the staff of this paper, and in that way gain valuable experience as well as becoming eligible to participate in this national contest.

Book Sampler

A charming and finely written book of a type popular when people read books as stories instead of case-histories is "Portrait of the Artist's Children." Edgcombe, the artist of the plot, is so much so that his wife's irritation at his foibles is readily understandable.
The plight of Maisie, the model, who loves him with passion and practically will engage all your sympathies. By the way, the author, Edgcombe, has quite a public in England.

Claire Spencer has produced a new novel, "The Island"—441 pages of passion, futility, and sudden death off the coast of Scotland. If it were not for the splendid power of the work, the dark beauty of the writing, and the fatalistic piling up of incident upon incident, the climax would be pure melodrama. As it is, the result is deep tragedy.

Ira Glenn, after having tried most of the familiar spots on the map and some not so familiar, now gives sophisticated Washington a whirl in "The Little Candle's Beam." If you like stories about smart people who keep going through the influence of their friends, or stories built upon the struggle between maternal love and love of a more exciting kind, it mightn't be a bad idea to read the book.

They won't stop writing about civilization's impression upon the unspoiled child of nature. This time it is America's impression upon a book-learned South Sea Islander; the perpetrator is Louis Paul, and the title is "The Pumpkin Coach." Because of the islander's color he is manhandled; being innocent and guileless, he buys things he does not need for offending salesmen, and allows money to be extracted from him by kindly strangers—you know the sort of thing. The Literary Guild picked this one.

These four novels may be borrowed from the Extension Division, University, Virginia.

HITLER

(Richmond News-Leader)

"One very significant remark of
Mr. Hitler's was reported by Sir John Simons to the common without any comment of his own.
The exact language is worth quoting because it may become historic:

"On the subject of the League of Nations, Herr Hitler referred to the assertion he had made in May, 1933, that Germany would not continue to participate in the League if she remained what he described as a country of inferior right; and he alleged that she was in a position of inferiority if she had no colonies."

That means, in cold terms, that one price Germany will exact for the acceptance of the obligations of League membership is obligations that she can repudiate at time on two years' notice—will be the return of "colonies." How numerous and extensive those colonies are to be, of course, will depend on Germany's position at the time of negotiations.

SHADOW WORLD
(From the Chicago Tribune)

"Mistake not the shadow for substance."

If earthly things are shadow born, Though makes a garden, lush or shorn.

A Doric column must be strength
And faith is the horizon's length.
An old walked garden is romance,
A shining roulette wheel is chance.

Because of tears night knows of dew,
A dark rose buds for love of you.
The truth is sun, the lightning

And starlight, peace returned

For each abstraction, sense

God smiles and man has bread

TRANSMUTATION
(From the Chicago Tribune)

Forgetfulness is bitter wine,
But all that could remain.
Then do not die of thirst while there
Are yet the dregs to drain.

Now may the fierce sun inundate
My Cosmos haunted glade
And the to-be-forgotten things
Seek cooler paths of shade.

What matter that a goblet burned
With philters Sibilant
When there remains a rouse-meared brim—
Slow bubbles in stale wine.

THIS DREAM
(From the Chicago Tribune)

This dream that was your very twin
In every way
For me has altered hour by hour
And day by day.

A dream can quickly change to meet
A mood or need—Realities have blades of steel—
Have wounds that bleed.

This dream will be quite still, or smile
When it is bid,
But never can it lift my heart
As your eyes did.

LILA TERRY

DEFENCE, NOT DEFIANCE
(Touchstone, in London Post)

Some of our bishops, and our rectors, too,
Would have us strip our country wholly bare
Of all defence, ignoring others who Might fall on us by land or sea or air.

And shame the world by such a demonstration
Into the peaceful path of arbitration.

But if we mean to trust our fellow men,
Why should we need to look
'cross the foam
To make that comprehensive gesture when Such opportunities exist at home,

So many avenues well worth exploring
Which it were surely wrong to be ignoring?

At least we should at once remove the locks
Which base suspicion fitted to each fane;
The fastening on the contribution box Should certainly be taken off again.

And citizens should sleep with open portals
To shame the wicked greed of sinful morals.

It might, perchance, be said that such a course
Would only tempt the predatory claw,
And that a reasonable show of force
Is needed to uphold a righteous law.

But this—unless my brain a trifle dense is—
Also applies to national defences.

RENESSANCE

(From the Chicago Tribune)

A flurry of wind
And a tumbling leaf
Bring an austere throng
To an age-old grief.

Winds must be icy,
The leaf seen vain,
Or how could April
Blow white again?

As Others See It

INTERESTING SUGGESTION
(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

In an address at Roanoke, former Governor E. Lee Trinkle made the interesting suggestion that legislation in Virginia could be effected more expeditiously and advantageously if the membership of both branches of the General Assembly were smaller.

He intimated that the body as it is now constituted—100 delegates and 40 senators—was unwieldy and, therefore, less likely to accomplish this purpose well than would two more compact groups.

Any such suggestion from Mr.
Trinkle must arrest attention. His experience embraces not only executive but legislative work. He was one of the more conspicuous figures in the Senate before his nomination in 1921 for Governor.

Few men in Virginia know better than he the workings of the General Assembly. When he says that both branches of the lawmaking body are too large for the achievement of the results, it is time thoughtful citizens gave some study to the matter.

Any one familiar with legislative processes in Virginia—or anywhere in the country, for that matter—knows that the work of the Assembly is done by comparatively few men. They shape State policies. Others may introduce bills, but a select group passes on them, either approving the proposition or turning thumbs down on the ideas set forth. The attitude of these leaders seals the fate of all suggested legislation. Lesser members merely propose; greater members dispose.

This recognized condition has led public-minded men, from time to time, to suggest changes in the legislative system. Nebraska, for example, under the leadership of Senator Norris, has discarded the old bi-cameral plan and has established in its stead a unicameral lawmaking body—a sort of council of state with legislative powers. This is one of the most interesting governmental developments of the time, and will be watched eagerly by leaders in other States of the Union. The experiment, if it is successful, may lead to similar changes elsewhere.

Two elements enter the composition of the unfixed lawmaking bodies. The first of them is over-emphasis on the "Jeffersonian principle" of representation. Every considerable group of citizens demands that its needs and its aspirations be voiced in the Legislature by one of its members.

And the second element is akin to the first. It is the argument that every interest, however small and however insignificant in its relation to the business of the State as a whole, must have representation in the making of laws. Neither contention seems sound.

Mr. Trinkle's suggestion is very interesting. Some day we may adopt it. And if the unicameral experiment in Nebraska works out satisfactorily, we may even go beyond it in the interest of more expeditious and better conceived legislation.

RESPIRE AT STRESS

(New York Times)

The Stress meeting has brought mixed results. The gains are temporary and spring from expediency. The loss is on the side of principle and the longer good.
The immediate peace outlook is peter because Hitler is willing to pledge non-aggression within the framework of an Eastern Locarno.
The permanent organization of peace in Europe will not profit by the demonstration that England, France and Italy have not yet learned how to work on a united front.

The prestige of the League of Nations and the sanctity of treaties do not come off well in the Stress compromise on German rearmament. France consents to withdraw her stern motion of censure at Geneva and to substitute a mild expression of regret.
No sanctions will be asked against the Reich, but strong resolutions will be adopted against future unilateral treaty revisions.
It is not likely that the threat of not now but next time will act as a powerful deterrent upon would-be imitators of Hitler. It is altogether likely that in Germany it will be hailed as a victory for the Fuehrer. Everywhere the believers in the good old rule of talking first and negotiating after will be encouraged.

Still, the positive result at Stress must not be overlooked.
There has been a gain for peace if only by way of respite rather than a definite solution. The clouds have been hanging low over Europe these anxious weeks since Hitler issued his challenge.

Well, What Are You Going To Do About It?

Stress has achieved the promise of clearer skies for some time to come. On the issue of peace and war the world is in a mood to be thankful for small favors. Hitler's peace pledge does not mean that he is converted to peace, but that he is not ready to fight. The question will breathe easier to find that Hitler is not ready.

CONTRACT ESCHEWS THINKING

(New York Times)

Just how serious is the Fascist or Communist threat in these United States? More than one reader of the New York Times may have asked himself the question as he passed over the following lines:

As the official scorer chalked up 450 points on the Culbertson side for three undertricks, Mr.

On The Beach

By BEN WAHRMAN

One of the first things we heard upon arriving at Virginia Beach to rest a feeble and palsied hand upon the railing of the Virginia Beach News was:

"Boy, wait till you go to a meeting of the County Board—that's a real circus."

Since that time, we have heard many and varied comments on the same subject, all accompanied by a chuckle or a grin.

Personally, we refuse to make any comment as to whether we agree with these commentators on this subject, but we will, for the benefit of those residents in the County, who have never been able to attend a meeting of the Board, reproduce to the best of our ability, our impression of the April meeting of the Supervisors.

The scene is the office of J. P.
Woodhouse, Clerk of the Princess Anne county circuit court. The time about 10:30 a. m., and the cast includes the members of the Board and other residents of the county who may appear for no reason at all—the dashes show the passage of time—(There is no attempt made here to record the actual conversation used, and any grammatical mistakes made can be credited to your alleged columnist.)

Mr. Woodhouse—"Well, let's get started. I'll read the minutes of the last meeting, business of reading the minutes while members of the Board converse on low tones, paying little or no attention to him—He finishes).

Mr. James—You've heard the minutes, any correction? If not we'll go on with the meeting.
What have you got Jack?

The clerk begins to read petitions asking for aid for indigent residents of the county, and while he is so engaged, Miss Gertrude Lovell county nurse enters.

Miss Lovell—"While you're on the subject, I've got a case (she outlines it—it concerns a young man who needs an operation in order to live, but who has no money for hospitalization).

Mr. James—"He's in my district. I know that case. He really needs it. I—"

Mr. Mansfield—"I'm opposed to hospitalization."

Mr. Dawley—"I'll cost us $10-000 a year. We'll have to raise taxes."

Mr. Payne—"I had to send three from my district last week."
Mr. Hudgins—"I sent one last week. I've got a letter about it right here in my pocket."

Mr. Payne—"The hospitals charge too much. Cost me $240
for 10 days."

Mr. Dawley—"I paid $85 for 9
days hospital bill alone—we'd have to raise taxes."

Mr. Mansfield—"I'm opposed to hospitalization."

Mr. Woodhouse is reading the correspondence. "Gentlemen," he says, "I have here a letter from the Norfolk Hospital Association asking that we do something definite about this hospitalization."

Mr. Mansfield—"I'm opposed to hospitalization."

Mr. Dawley—"I'll cost us $10-000 a year. We'll have to raise taxes."

Mr. Payne—"I had to send three from my district last week."
Mr. Hudgins—"I sent one last week. I've got a letter about it
right here in my pocket."

Simms spoke to his wife.
"Darling," he said, "must I tell you every time that a king and one, in a suit I've bid three times, is worth a raise?"

"But Hal," Mrs. Sims replied, "I though—"

"Thought!" thundered her husband. "How many times have I told you not to think? Just do what I tell you!"

When voices are heard in the American air thundering: "How many times have I told you not to think? Just do what I tell you!" citizens may well begin to wonder if we have not been looking for the enemies of democracy in the wrong place. The real authoritarianism and totalitarianism are not to be sought in the Nazi meeting halls near Eighty-third street, nor in Mr. Stachey's audiences.
Freedom is being sapped every night around 500,000 bridge tables.

charge too much. Cost me $240
for 10 days."

Mr. Dawley—"I paid $85 for 9
days—hospital bill alone—we'd
have to raise taxes."

Mr. Payne—"And besides they don't really need it. We pay their bills and last week-end I saw two of 'em in new Easter suits with corsages at $3.50 apiece—"

Voice from the sideline—
"What's that florist's address?"

Mr. Mansfield—"I'm opposed to hospitalization."

Mr. Woodhouse. "Gentlemen, can't we have some definite action on this matter?"

A young man enters the meeting and attracts the attention of Mr. Woodhouse who directs the Supervisors' attention to him.

Mr. James—"Dr. you want something?"

The young man (holding one hand on his right side).—"The doctor says I have chronic appendicitis and need an operation.
I haven't any money. Can you help me?"

Mr. Mansfield—"I'm opposed to hospitalization."

Mr. Dawley—"I'll cost us $10-000 a year. We'll have to raise taxes."

Mr. Payne—"I had to send three from my district last week."

Mr. Hudgins—"I sent one last week. I've got a letter about it
right here in my pocket."

Mr. Payne—"The hospitals

HOME SOCIETY CAMPAIGN OPENS

Rev. M. E. Travers to Direct County Participation in Drive.

The annual State-wide campaign for funds for the Children's Home Society of Virginia which is held annually during the month of May, will be conducted in this county by the Rev. M. E. Travers rector of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, of Kempville, whose official appointment as county chairman came from E. Randolph Williams, of Richmond, state chairman of the campaign.

The purpose of the campaign is to raise funds to provide for approximately 700 homeless, neglected and dependent children now in the care of the Society and to extend the work, enabling the Society to take as many more children as funds will permit during the coming year. The minimum budget that must be raised is approximately $75,000.00 and the Society is making an effort to exceed this budget so that it will not find it necessary to turn down so many requests for help during 1935.

Last Year, the Society was called in on 117 new cases involving 194 children. Due to the limited funds of the Society, only 31 of these new children could be accepted for care. Temporary provision was made for a few of the others, but a majority still represent calls for help from homeless children that remain unanswered.

During the month of May, it is expected that local campaigns will be conducted in every county and city in the state. Plans for organizing these local campaigns are being promoted by the State Campaign Committee under the leadership of E. Randolph Williams, Chairman of the Committee, which includes the Rev. John Wm. Smith, John H. Cecil and Maxwell Wallace of Richmond, the Honourable E. Lee Trinkle, of Roanoke, Dr. Wm. A. Brown, of Portsmouth, and Gardner L. Booth of Alexandria.

Playground Accidents

To be content with the old saying "accidents will happen" is to be old fashioned.

We have suffered and lost too long under that indifferent attitude. The modern idea is to do something about it. Not just talking to children, for that is out, along with scolding, preaching, and threatening. We have a guardianship to serve, and an important responsibility falling to us. It means, rather, that the facilities we provide for children's activities shall be as free of hazards as we can make them. Are there hazards at your school? That significant question introduces a new line of thought into this series. It is an inexhaustible subject, so more later.

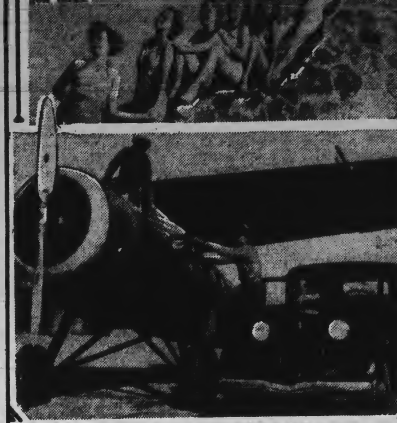

How can children's spring play be made safe? Dr. Trueman will discuss this problem next week.

Alanton Gardens Open On May 4

The boulevard. It will be clearly marked on the day of inspection, and is a tract of land lying near "the narrow" between Linkhorn and Broad Bay.

It is a part of the grant from Charles I of England to Captain Henry Woodhouse made in 1637. The land remained in the Woodhouse family until about 20 years ago. It was purchased by Frank McCullough who began a residential development on the site about 10 years ago.

A description of the gardens as written by Mrs. W. E. Kyle, a member of the committee for the Lucetta Cornick Guild follows:

"The two mile drive from the entrance gate planted with cedars, pines and dogwood is flanked by named Woodhouse road. The McCulloughs now live in the lovely old house that stood on the property and replaced the original house some hundred years ago. Next to this in the old orchard is the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lopez, of New York.

"Alanton's loveliest formal garden owned by Mrs. Henry Evans, of New York and called 'Mary's Garden' is surrounded by a brick wall like the famous Jefferson wall at the University and has a tool house, modelled after the Williamsburg powder horn. This garden contains many beautiful flowering trees and shrubs.

"Next to it is Greenwood, the home of Mrs. T. D. Stokes. Here there is a beautiful home and a rock garden going down to the bay.

"The home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Armistead is next to Greenwood. It commands a wonderful view of the bay and is near the site of the first Woodhouse home. A tremendous sycamore tree is in the yard.

"Following the Woodhouse road, the next place we come to is the charming residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pender. It is built of logs and shingles and located in a beautiful grove of pine and cedars on a point which juts out into Linkhorn Bay and is fitting called "Fine Point."

"From here the road crosses a narrow causeway to 'the Island.' On one side of the Causeway there is a view of Broad Bay and the State Park and on the other, another view of Linkhorn Bay. The road ends at 'David's' the home of the late Charles McIntosh and now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes Davis, Jr. This is a lovely log cabin and quite near is a smaller cabin, the camp of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Payne. To the right is 'Tombebo,' the camp of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Aspregen.

"Returning to the mainland and back past Mary's Garden, one comes to the golf course and the home of Major and Mrs. M. L. Todd on the edge of Spring Bok avenue. Across a foot causeway on a high bluff is situated at the head of this same cove the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kyle, now the residence of Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Todd.

"Near the golf course is also Edgewood, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Kyle where tea will be served by the members of the Guild. Mrs. Henry Woodhouse is president of the Guild, and members of Troop 41, Oceana Girl Scouts will act as guides.

"It is interesting that Mr. Woodhouse's husband is a direct descendant of Captain Henry Woodhouse who first owned Alanton and that Eleanor Woodhouse and Sarah Woodhouse, members of Troop 41 are also his direct descendants. It seems most fitting that the Woodhouse family should have a part in this garden tour."

A small admission fee will be charged, to be paid at the entrance of the gardens. The general public is invited to attend.

Annexation Case Won By County

Morning and was concluded shortly after noon today. Following a recess for lunch which ended at 1:15 p. m., the town opened its arguments with Roy Smith, Mayor of Virginia Beach, and associate attorney with Mr. Ashburn for the town, as the speaker.

Speaking briefly, Mr. Smith told of how, as Mayor, he had been approached by residents of the proposed annexed area who asked that this area be annexed to the town. He told how the council considered the matter and wrote a letter to the residents of the area asking their opinion. This letter, he said, elicited, so many replies that the court was petitioned to allow the annexation.

Mr. Smith then pointed out seven reasons, which he stated the town had proven by its testimony which should cause the court to grant the petition. These were, the isolation of the area; the fact that the town has given protection to the area; the fact that the area, although not legally a part of the town, is, to all intents and purposes a part of the town of Virginia Beach; the fact that the natural expansion of the town is to the north; the fact that the district at present is strictly residential, but that a commercial invasion is contemplated, and that, in order to do this, zoning regulations should be made, and finally that the majority of residents listed as opposed to the annexation were vacant lot owners or summer residents.

Paul W. Ackiss, Jr., commonwealth's attorney, who was associated with Braden Vandeventer of Norfolk, in fighting the petition opened the arguments for the County.

Mr. Ackiss pointed out that the testimony presented showed that the annexation was neither necessary or expedient; that the annexation would mean a substantial loss of revenue to the county; that the proposed area did not formulate a compact body of land, that the town was attempting to annex the territory, not to serve the people in the area but to increase the town revenue. He pointed out further that the town has ample room to develop in the West, and that even though the Town had shown that assessments can not be raised for a number of years, tax rates can. He concluded his arguments by stating that the majority of the residents in the area are opposed to the annexation; that the county is better able to make necessary improvements than the town, and will do so if they are requested to; and that the town is overburdened and therefore unable to make any improvements in the area if they wanted to.

Mr. Vandeventer's argument was a masterpiece of oratory. He opened by reminding the court that the law required that a municipality seeking to annex any territory must prove that the annexation is both necessary and expedient. He continued by defining the word "necessary" which he said referred to something one cannot do without.

He added to this by stating that the testimony presented by the county had proven that fire protection was not necessary, since insurance would take care of any damage, and since rates were not excessive; that good streets were not necessary in the area, that those already there would suffice; that garbage removal was not necessary, since darkies could be hired for a small sum to remove it; that police protection in the area was not necessary since few depredations were reported; that the present school system was satisfactory, and that the State highway was now being maintained by the State and that the town would not be able to maintain it as satisfactorily.

The town's real interest in the annexation proceedings, he told the court, was to get money. The town, he said, was overburdened and testimony had been produced to show this. The town, therefore was in no position financially, to make any improvements.

In conclusion he stated, that residents in the proposed annexed area, were afraid that annexation would result in the quadrupling of their taxes; that they didn't want progress, they didn't want anything to do with the town, that they had moved to that area to be left alone, and for that reason they wanted simply to be left alone.

Mr. Ashburn, as the final speaker to the Town spoke at greater length than any of the previous speakers. He stated that testimony has shown that the Town has practically no desirable property left within limits that despite Mr. Ackiss' comments to the contrary, the situation here is paralleled at Atlantic City, where the town extends along the seashore for 20 miles, but is only six blocks deep; that the Town cannot direct its growth, for it is determined by the individual citizens.

After commenting on that fact that the proposed area is isolated from the County, inasmuch as it is bounded on the north by Fort Story, on the south by the Town, on the east by the Ocean and on the west by the Cape Henry desert, and that the town would derive no direct benefits from the area for year. Mr. Ashburn changed his type of arguments to remark that his opponent (referring to Mr. Vandeventer) blew both hot and cold.

"With one breath," he said, "he says that the area doesn't need any improvements, and with the other he says that the area needs improvements but the Town can't afford to give them."

He continued his arguments by saying that the Town had made no pretension of promising vast immediate benefits. Service will be given where necessary, he said, to maintain streets, to provide water and sanitation.

He stated that County attorneys had made a point of showing that assessments in the area were low, but, testimony brought out by a county witness, had also shown that same rates affected the town also.

After explaining the non-payment of the sinking fund by the town—one of the points emphasized by the county attorneys, Mr. Ashburn concluded by citing law reminding the court that the County has not and should not want to help any territory in that vicinity because it is not connected in any way with any other part of the County.

The final argument was completed at 3 p. m., and the judges reported back with their decision 40 minutes later.

The town opened its case on Tuesday morning, when Attorney Ashburn expressed "surprise" at a number of answers filed by the county, purporting to be from residents opposing the annexation, and asked for a continuance. This was denied him and he then began a parade of town witnesses which was halted only today.

J. E. Woodhouse, Jr., Town clerk was the first witness called. He testified to the legal recording of the ordinance asking for annexation.

D. S. Calcott, town engineer, next occupied the stand, to show maps of the area to testify in regards to its various subdivisions; its fire hydrants, its water supply, its sewerage requirements and other similar matters.

He was succeeded by T. P. Thompson, City Manager of Norfolk, who expressed himself as having been identified with the Beach and vicinity for a number of years, and who stated emphatically that annexation would benefit the territory, which he said was existing only because of the town, and would be unable to exist without the town.

Following testimony by H. L. McClanahan, chief of Police and Fire at Virginia Beach, regarding conditions affecting his department in the proposed area, testimony by R. B. Taylor, town councilman, regarding recent construction in the area; testimony by Robert H. Baillo, mosquito control expert, regarding mosquito control in the area; a string of property owners in the area who favor annexation were called to the stand. These included John H. Rodgers, F. S. Royster, Jr., Roland Thorpe, P. S. Stephenson, Frank F. Nash, and C. H. Tumbleton.

W. T. Jarvis, H. Garrett Smith, Arthur Masury, C. W. Kornegay, Capt. F. E. Horton, Russell H. Land, W. F. Crockett and J. Stanley Smith, Jr., were other witnesses called during the first day.

The County's first bombshell exploded early on the second day, when J. Paul Woodhouse, chief clerk in the office of the Commissioner of Revenue for the County, testified, that while he was a member and secretary of the Board of Equalization, the town had sought to double its assessments. This petition, he said, was denied. L. H. Windholz, Dr. H. F. Dormire and Clifford Hozier had previously testified that they favored annexation.

Sidney Kellam, county treasurer, next on the stand told of the tax rate in the Lynnhaven district, of which the area is a part, and of the number of bond issues in that area. It was conceded that the County was in good condition.

Other testimony presented during the day was to show that the County had expended only $1100 in the area in the past 16 years, that insurance rates were higher in the area than in the town, that the area had been given few improvements by the County Board; that the board had refused to give the Town financial aid for its fire department, as well as a mass of testimony in regards to the financial condition of the town.

Mr. Terry who testified in regards to assessments, finished his testimony this morning. Other witnesses presented before the testimony was closed shortly after noon were R. T. Trant, Henry H. Little, C. B. Borian, Nathaniel Beamon, Jr., C. M. Baylor, R. L. Nutt, Sr., R. L. Nutt, Jr., Carl Forsberg, Eldridge H. Whitehurst, William M. Crumpler, William G. Maupin, J. R. Wortham, Joseph D. Deal, Abner S. Pope, A. B. Schwarzkopf, S. Blair Potate, Sidney Kellam, Dr. R. W. Sturgis, W. F. Hudgins, J. E. Woodhouse, D. S. Calcott, and finally, W. H. Terry, Jr., once more.

Frances Lee Barton says:

A ROW of shining glasses filled with cherry jam will be a friend in need on many occasions. A spoonful of cherry jam will tell a simple pudding—and served with hot biscuits cherry jam is a crowning touch.

Be sure to make your cherry jam the modern way—with bottled fruit peels. It's the quick and the sure method—and has the added attraction of being economical, because the short boiling time means that your fruit juice doesn't boil away.

Cherry Jam

(Any kind except wild cherry or chokecherry)

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit; 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar; 1 bottle fruit peels.
To prepare fruit, pit about 2½ pounds fully ripe cherries. Crush thoroughly or grind. Add ¼ cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 15 minutes. (For stronger cherry flavor, add 1 teaspoon almond extract before pouring.) Measure sugar into large kettle. Add prepared fruit, packing each cup solidly and filling up just cup with water if necessary. Stir well and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest heat. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 5 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in fruit peels. Then add skin by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. With whole cherries, ladle off a few glasses of hot clear syrup for jelly. Then fruit will not float. Pour quick jam into hot jam at once. Make about 11 glasses of full-size jars.

Streamlining. Silk Tires. Best Gas. Latest Engine Design. All of it. Make "Bluebird's" World Automobile Speed Record Possible.

The world's record automobile, speed of 276.316 miles an hour, made by Sir Malcolm Campbell at Daytona Beach on March 7th, had more behind it and science. The giant "Bluebird," as it is known, was built by Campbell and a half million people. It was the fastest car in the world two years ago, but the latest science behind it to back up its speed. It was equipped with three of the toughest silk fabric to resist the terrible heat and friction. Its long hood body took advantage of the latest streamlining to make.

NATIONAL HONORS PLANNED FOR COUNTRY NEWSPAPERMEN

Editors of country newspapers throughout the United States are showing keen interest in the recognition which is being given to rural correspondents in a nationwide contest inaugurated by a national farm magazine.

A prize of $50 is to be given annually for the best item of rural news published in the columns of a country newspaper. The first contest is now under way, and will close on May 20. Virginia Beach News correspondents are eligible to enter.

Scribes, their friends, and their editors are alike invited to send in entries. Any reader can submit his favorite clipping, provided only that it comes from the columns of a bona fide country newspaper and that it was published during the 1930's. Only printed news and comment will be judged. Wheeler McMillen, editor of The Country Home, who has given the first year's prize and will act as chief judge in the contest, says in his preliminary statement: "The country correspondent is the forgotten man of American letters. Novelists, poets, playwrights, historians, reporters for metropolitan newspapers—all these have prizes to which they may aspire. But the country correspondent has had no such opportunity for recognition. We propose to give it to him."

"This prize is offered in the belief that such recognition is more than merited. The terms of the award are that it is to go to the best example of country correspondence submitted to us. We do not expect to unearth any great author, although many great authors have come from the ranks of the country correspondents. But we do expect to call greater attention than ever before to the excellent writing that comes from the farms and small towns, and is published in the local columns of the country newspapers."

"It is a simple, honest sort of writing, reflecting the wholesome flavor of life in the country. In my own magazine, I have printed for many years, contributions from readers who are also correspondents for their local papers. Thus I know from my own experience, as well as from reading hundreds of country newspapers, that some of the best writing being done today is by these scribes. At its best, it is the work of born writers and understanding reporters."

"If sufficient interest develops in this contest, additional prizes will be given, and undoubtedly the whole thing will be established as an annual affair, with a series of prizes."

Clippings should be sent to Wheeler McMillen, Editor, The Country Home, 250 Park Avenue, New York City, New York.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell the decay coming out of our mouth and get our breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and so good for nothing.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, we fill our bowels with food. What is the idea? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our food decays in our bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whiff of poison, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently stir the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a useless (misleading) pill, which loosens bowels, grips and excites the system in many people. ## Motorists who know these facts will save money:

Motor oils refined by the usual methods have some oiliness and film strength, but they may form carbon and sludge, which lead to expensive motor repairs.

Other oils may form almost no carbon and sludge, but are so over-refined that they are robbed of oiliness and film strength they need to prevent motor wear.

Germ Processed Oil is refined to eliminate carbon and sludge troubles and then the Germ Process adds extra oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than any mineral oil.*

YOU will save money on repairs and have a smoother running motor if you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil!

The Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—gives it the extra oiliness and film strength so necessary for full protection of high-powered, high-speed motors. No other oil is made by the Germ Process.

Germ Processed Oil cuts down costly starting wear, which other oils fail to do. It is the only oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

Germ Processed Oil is free from carbon and sludge troubles. It has a lower rate of consumption and gives longer mileage, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

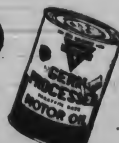

Say, "O. K.—Drain"—and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

Don't Overlook the Importance Of Birthday Pictures

Don't delay taking the new baby's picture and then watch him grow through monthly snapshots thereafter.

In these modern times the father is likely if he is permitted to see his newly-born child for several days after his birth. He has delivered his package, unless it is through the heavy glass of a well guarded window or door in the hospital. After a few days, however, when nurses and doctors decide he is not a common carrier of germs that might attack the baby and retard its growth, he should by all means exercise his authority as a father and demand permission to "shoot" the baby—with a camera, of course.

Every month is usually considered a birthday in a baby's life until he is a year old. Thereafter, regular yearly birthdays are in order. At least a picture a month should be made of the new member and after the first twelve months you had better keep your camera loaded with film at all times for you can never tell when your baby is going to take his first cautious, faltering step—and what an event in your life—that is, it apparently means nothing to the baby. He simply steps out in a matter-of-fact, but careful manner, and you get all excited, let out a couple of whoops, gasp, laugh and scare the child so thoroughly that he falls down and has to do it all over again.

The chances are that you will not be prepared for that first step, or if you would happen to be holding the camera in your hand you may, in the wrong direction and get an out-of-focus picture of your own mid-section. Don't miss this moment of moments the next time. Have your camera and yourself ready for action.

There never seems to be enough of these baby pictures to go around for there are grandmothers, aunts, cousins and friends in distant cities who are always looking forward to receiving a snapshot of the newly-arrived commander of the "infantry."

Before you can realize where the days, months and years have gone your child is starting to school. The baby has grown up and before you have a chance to wonder how he will "turn out" you are wondering what time he will come home to "turn in."

There's always the "first time" for everything and this applies to thousands of events in a baby's life. There is the first time he discovers he has toes, and immediately decides in his own little mind that they are something good to eat. His first smile, and then that great moment when he reaches out with his chubby little arms and says, "Blah," which is at once interpreted by the parents to mean "Daddy" or "Mommy" sometimes depending on who is governor of the baby's mouth.

So make this "Baby Picture Preparation Week" and load your cameras ready for action. You don't have to wait "until you see the whites of his eyes," as Col. William Prescott commanded at the Battle of Bunker Hill, but "shoot" the minute they perform one of their fascinating, amusing little baby "tricks."

which includes Mrs. Peery; Governor James Curley, of Massachusetts, and representatives of the other members of the 13 original colonies arrived in Norfolk about noon and were met by Mayor W. R. L. Taylor and a number of City Officials who escorted them to the Cavalier Hotel.

From the Cavalier the party moved on to Fort Story, where a salute of 19 guns for the Governor was fired. Afterward they continued to the scene of the Memorial. Here at the site of the cross, an Army band was stationed with buglers to blow the military call for attention.

The Rt. Rev. A. C. Thomson, D. D., Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia, in charge of the annual religious services conducted similar to those conducted by the Rev. Robert Hunt when the colonists landed on the same spot 328 years ago.

A 43-voice choir led in the singing of a number of hymns, following which Mrs. R. B. Taylor, of Virginia Beach, led in a salute to the flag.

The dedication of the Memorial Cross followed, with the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, D. D., Bishop of Washington, officiating. Mrs. Frantz Taylor, general chairman of the pilgrimage committee and speaker of the Assembly of Tidewater Women served as the general presiding officer, with Mrs. Joseph S. Caffee, president of the National Society, Daughters of the American Colonists, presiding over the dedicatory exercises and during the unveiling. Mrs. James Branch Cabell, of Richmond, state regent of the Virginia chapter of the National Society, Daughters of the American Colonists and Mrs. Lewis Chapman, of Smithfield, vice chairman of the committee on marking historical spots, unveiled the monument.

The speeches, with Governor Peery as principal speaker followed to conclude the program. Governor Peery was honorary chairman of the Cape Henry Pilgrimage general committee; Mrs. Taylor, executive chairman, Mayor Taylor, honorary vice chairman; C. Wiley Grandy, chairman of the Cape Henry Memorial Commission, vice chairman, and Joseph D. Deal, secretary.

The executive committee included Mrs. Joseph D. Deal, Mrs. J. P. Grimes and Mrs. R. B. Taylor, of Virginia Beach.

Board Sidesteps Hospitalization

proved. The Norfolk Hospital Association waited upon the Board some time and offered to take care of all the hospitalization work for $1500 a year. This fee would include investigation also, making the hospital assume authority to investigate all cases and to accept as charity only those of people who actually had no money.

The Board voted not to do this, since prior to this year, there has never been need to spend more than one or two hundred dollars for such things. In recent months, however, a number of cases have come in, so that the County hospital bills have averaged as much as $100 a month.

What is to be done in the case of emergency cases is not clear at present. The cases will, of course, be referred to the District Supervisor, but he in authorizing the hospitalization may find himself saddled with the bill, since the remaining members of the Board may refuse to approve it.

The result, of course, unless some definite action is taken, is that county residents, in need of hospitalization will have to throw themselves on the mercy of Norfolk hospitals.

Cavalier Horse Show May 3 and 4

ly contested in the state. Attracting many young riders from the north and east as well as our home talent, these classes demand the best judging the nation affords. This year, one of the world's foremost riding instructors has been invited to judge. Prince Kader Guirey, formerly of the Russian Imperial Cavalry, along with Samuel W. Taylor, editor of "Rider and Driver" of New York, who will be remembered for his excellent work in the show of 1934. Mr. Taylor has already accepted, which assures us of judging of the highest type.

Since the revolution in Russia Prince Guirey has operated a school of equitation in New York City and so widespread has become his reputation that pupils from all over the world come to him and he numbers among his pupils such outstanding riders as the Chilean Army International Team, and other members of the teams which visited this country to compete in the National Show at Madison Square Garden.

Among the outstanding child riders who will compete in the Equitation classes this year are, Ellie Wood Kieth, the defending champion, Morton Govern, Bill Cuykendall and the Misses Lila and Lindsey Rand, of New York. Alexander Calvert and several pupils of the Stuyvesant School of Warrenton, Constance Moore and Dickey Kelly, of Richmond, and Susan Potter, Shirley Windholz, Polly Sturgis, Wats Martin, Joan Hatch, Bobby Roosevelt and Pat Thraves, of Virginia Beach. William Jones will represent his father's Sajo Farms from Diamond Springs, Virginia.

The exhibitors list will include Mrs. Lester D. Hundt, of Washington, Morton Govern, of New York, Alexander Calvert and J. North Fletcher, of Warrenton, M. W. Carter, of Orange, Oscar Smith, R. H.
